NEW DEAL ACTS UNDER SCRUTINY AT BAR SESSION

States' Rights Are Defended.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

EARLE W. EVANS.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 27.—[Special.]—The American Bar association will open its fifty-seventh annual meeting at the Milwaukee Auditorium tomorrow afternoon with addresses by Earle W. Evans of Wichita, Kas., the retiring president, and by Lord Tomlin, lord of appeal in ordinary, of London.

Sectional meetings, which began this morning, will continue until Friday afternoon. About 3,000 lawyers are expected to be in attendance, including Nathan L. Miller, former governor of New York; Joseph B. Keenan, assistant attorney general; Gov. Paul V. McNutt of Indiana; Floyd E. Thompson, former chief justice of the Supreme court of Illinois; Atlee Pomerene of Ohio; John W. Davis; Dean Roscoe Pound of Harvard; Dean Wigmore of Northwestern university; and former Gov. Whitman of New York.

New Deal Draws Comment.

While the strictly nonpartisan attitude of the bar association is emphasized at this meeting, the thousands of new laws and regulations under the New Deal will necessarily come in for scrutiny and comment. This will be, however, on the administrative side of the question rather than on the substantive problems involved.

The attorneys are primarily interested in maintaining the judicial structure of the country with improvements in personnel. The question of divorcing federal administrative tribunals from their judicial functions is one of the important subjects up for debate and action.

This concerns the right of a citizen to appeal to the courts and touches the whole question of the constitutionality of much of the New Deal legislation. As this has taken on a political complexion the association as a whole will shy away from it, but there will be many individuals who will speak their minds.

Speaks His Mind.

One of the objectors, William A. Schnader, attorney general of Pennsylvania and Republican nominee for governor, spoke out today at the session of the Association of Attorneys General at the Hotel Schroeder. His subject was federal encroachment on state sovereignty and he said in part:

"I am convinced that the time has come when the states must fight for their rights. If they acquiesce in the increasing encroachments of the federal government on state sovereignty, it will not be long until there will be no state rights remaining for which to fight; and perhaps no states.

"With me the rights of the states are more than a tradition. I sincerely believe that there is a tremendous advantage from the standpoint of good government in preserving the distinction between the sphere of the federal government and the sphere of the state governments as they were defined by the fathers who drafted and adopted the constitution of the United States.

Business of People.

"Today, as never before in our history, it seems to me to be important to instill in the minds of the people the feeling that government is their business as much as the business of those whom they select to represent them in legislative, executive, and judicial positions. The more remote the seat of governmental authority is the less responsibility will the individual citizen assume. In matters of local concern less efficient government by the states and their political subdivisions is wiser than theoretically more efficient government by the nation."

He recalled constitutional history and how the founders of the republic hit upon the formation of a federation of states as a happy medium. He then continued: "When in 1776 the representatives of the thirteen colonies met in Philadelphia and drafted the Declaration of Independence they were voicing their determined opposition to the tyrannies of government at a distance. The evils of centralized control were well known to the American colonists during the century preceding the severing of their ties with the mother country.

"They set out to create a central

INSPIRATION FOR THE DISCOURAGED

Lincoln, defeated for congress, thought his life had been a hopeless failure, with nothing to look forward to.

Frederick Douglass, a Negro slave, fearfully handicapped by poverty and prejudice, succeeded in educating himself and later became a United States minister.

Roosevelt, a physical weakling as a youth, was obliged to live on a ranch to preserve his life. Later he became the dynamic leader of his nation.

Steinmetz, deformed from birth, landed at Ellis Island a penniless immigrant. Later he became a world leader in electrical research.

'Faith' Father Relents; Child Is Operated On

Fort Payne, Ala., Aug. 27.—(AP)—An operation was performed late today on Wallace Doyle Sharp Jr., 8 year old son of parents who had previously refused to allow physicians to attend him because they believed he could be "healed by the Lord through prayer."

The operation was performed by the light of an oil lamp by Dr. A. W. Ralls, Gadsden, Ala., surgeon, with Dr W. T. Miller, local physician, administering the anesthetic.

Dr. Ralls said the child's chances of life "are good, unless his constitution has been too much weakened by the infection in his leg."

Lad Spirited Away.

Little "W. D.," as he is known to his playmates, had suffered from an infected leg for two weeks, and Saturday, after authorities had ordered that he be given medical attention, he was spirited away to Dutton, a settlement in Jackson county, so that the "faith cure" would have a chance to be completed.

He was brought back Sunday after his father and two other members of the Holiness sect here had been arrested for "interfering with officers" and placed under $500 bond each.

As the surgeon worked on the lad today, in an upstairs room of his parents' home, members of the sect gathered in an adjoining bedroom.

Pray for Recovery.

Led by the boy's mother, they prayed for his recovery and talked in the "unknown tongue," a usual part of their religious ceremonies.

Dr. Ralls said he scraped eight inches of bone in the child's leg, after draining pus which had collected there. He said he did not believe an amputation, which had been feared, would be necessary unless further complications set in.

Judge's Wife Makes Plea.

W. D. Sharp, the boy's father, relented this afternoon after Mrs. A. E. Hawkins, wife of the Circuit judge here, and Mrs. W. T. Miller pleaded with him to "allow Dr. Ralls to save your son's life."

Sharp had refused requests that neighbors be allowed to take the child to a hospital at Gadsden, Ala., for the operation.

When Deputy Sherif Rufus Smith and Dr. R. J. Guest went to the Sharp home today after the lad's return to Fort Payne last night, they were told by Sharp that the boy "will never be taken from this house except by force."

SINNER STEALS MOOTED CHURCH LOUD SPEAKER

It was quiet last night in the neighborhood of the Third Presbyterian church, Arcade place and Ashland avenue. Some one had stolen the control box, microphone, and loud speaker through which nightly the Rev. A. H. Leaman has been broadcasting the Gospel. Between the hours of 3 and 6 p. m., the craven thief sneaked into the deserted church, snipped the broadcasting wires, and slunk away with his loot, according to a report made to the police by the Rev. Mr. Leaman.

"It must have been," the clergyman reflected, "some sinner whose conscience bothered him."

But the police, who have received many protests bout the noise of the loud speaker, were inclined to believe that the sinner was an objecting neighbor, short on conscience.

"We are not perturbed," said the Rev. Mr. Leaman last night. "Tomorrow as usual I will preach the gospel in the modern manner."

Villages Fight Trafic War at 400 Mi. Range

The village of Markham, south of Chicago, has 300 inhabitants, two motorcycle policemen, a constable, and a police magistrate. The policemen arrest truck drivers who have, or seem to have, heavy loads, although this is usually regarded as the prerogative of the county and state highway police.

The magistrate, Elmer Wolf, hears the cases and, in order that the cops may know when to bring in truck drivers, puts a light in his window until he goes to bed. The constable, Alfred Terry, serves papers every where in Illinois and travels, for which he is allowed fees of 7½ cents a mile.

A Long Distance War.

Among the truck drivers who pass through Markham are quite a few from Anna, in Union county, a rich fruit section near the Ohio river. Four of the Anna residents were arrested by the busy motorcycle policemen in late July and early August. And, because none of them showed up for trial and Constable Terry went after them—two 800 mile round trips at the customary 7½ cents per—something like a war has broken out between Markham and Anna.

The honors of the first engagement last night seemed to be with Anna. For Constable Terry, having gone to that town with warrants for the truck drivers, was told by local authorities his papers were no good. Then he was threatened with arrest on a charge of kidnaping after he had arrested one of the truck drivers. Later a group of vigilantes gathered to deal with him in vigilante fashion. Under the circumstances Constable Terry adopted a cautious policy. He set out for Markham without any prisoners.

The Magistrate's Story.

He had not arrived last night, but Police Magistrate Wolf told the Markhamite side of the story.

"One of the Anna truck drivers not only was overloaded," the magistrate said, "but he didn't have a license. That was S. E. Sitter. The police also arrested O. Kerrs, Raymond Kerrs and Lynn Fox, all from Anna. Each had his truck loaded beyond his licensed limit. All had dates for their trials set and none of them came to be tried. So Terry went down to get them."

Aldermen Uneasy as Protest Grows.

GROVER WHALEN.

New York, Aug. 27.—[Special.]—Organized business men went to city hall today under leadership of Grover A. Whalen in a mass protest intended to kill the proposed business tax. They succeeded in obtaining a postponement of action until Thursday to give them time to submit a substitute plan of taxation to obtain relief funds.

They had asked the local laws committee of the board of aldermen, which now has the tax bill, to postpone its report at least a week. Mayor F. H. La Guardia, after putting the bill through the board of estimate last Thursday as an emergency relief measure, had wanted it reported out of the committee immediately, so that the aldermen might pass it tomorrow.

Neither the city administration nor the business opposition to the tax succeeded in carrying out its schedule and the outcome after Thursday remains uncertain.

No Action Before Friday.

When the board of aldermen meets tomorrow the tax bill still will be in committee and the board can do nothing before Friday.

Meanwhile the local laws committee will receive substitute tax programs, principally from Mr. Whalen's group, which is organized as the sales tax committee of one thousand. This group declined today to be sponsor for any substitute tax suggestion among those made by individuals at the protest meeting. It immediately will appoint a committee of experts.

Committee Is Divided.

It was learned after the brief executive session of the committee which compromised on a postponement until Thursday that the committee members were evenly divided on the tax.

In private discussions they indicated the likelihood that an attempt will be made Thursday to amend the tax bill by cutting the tax from one-half to one-fifth of 1 per cent and by raising the exemption from $5,000 to $10,000 or $15,000 of gross business. Several committee members felt a compromise of that sort, supplemented by long term borrowing to complete the funds needed for relief, would be the best way out. It was suggested a tax also might be levied upon salaries of $5,000 a year and more.

Aldermen Grow Uneasy.

The aldermen of the full board, who will confront the responsibility of voting on the tax bill when it emerges from the local laws committee, meanwhile grew increasingly uneasy under the pressure of organized business men.

Mr. Whalen took the radio again this afternoon to urge business men and the public to continue talking, telegraphing, or telephoning their aldermen, urging them to defeat the tax.

80 Mile Hour Wind Sweeps Texas Coast

Houston, Tex., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Winds estimated at 80 miles an hour lashed the Texas coast in the vicinity of San Luis pass and Freeport late tonight.

At Freeport, city of 3,500, located 60 miles southwest of Galveston, the wind died down for a time, but came up again and reached a greater velocity than at any time previously. Attendants at the coast guard station estimated that it was blowing about 80 miles an hour. Virtually all residents have left Freeport. A telephone operator reported the building was shaking. The storm is believed to be moving inland. The wind has shifted from the northwest to the northeast, indicating the storm center is near, and the tide has begun to rise.

Gale gusts were reported from the San Luis pass station on the west tip of Galveston island. The wind became extremely strong for a time around 11 p. m., then subsided again.

Still Blowing Off Shore.

Both stations reported that the wind still was blowing from offshore. Their attendants had heard of no property damage and said there would be no danger of water damage unless the wind should shift and start blowing from off the gulf.

Rain fell in sheets as the gale roared. High winds and tides buffeted the coast in the vicinity of Galveston and hurricane-wise coast residents were apprehensive. They were warned to be ready to act quickly.

Summer colonists hastily evacuated beach resorts and residents of low lying, unprotected towns moved to higher ground.

Storm's Course Uncertain.

The course of the storm was uncertain and a slowing up in its rate of advance caused observers to be on the alert for unexpected developments.

An advisory report from Washington pointed out that "the rate of advance of the tropical disturbance has decreased decidedly." Such a slowing up is almost always followed by unusual movements.

Patients in the Freeport hospital were moved 45 miles northward to Houston as a precautionary measure.

Winds and tides accompanying the July hurricane killed 11 persons and caused property damage estimated at more than $1,000,000 in the Freeport area.

Protected by Sea Walls.

Practically all Texas coastal cities are protected by sea walls, but in the event of a high tide, such as that in July, which reached a height of seven or eight feet at some points, the low dikes offer scant protection.

The barometer stood at 29.74 at Galveston at 7 p. m. central standard time. Rainfall there today totaled 2.65 inches.

Shirley Anderson, 9 years old, 1467 Carmen avenue, was drowned in three feet of water yesterday when one of her feet caught between pilings in the lake off Lawrence avenue and she was suspended head down as she lost her balance and toppled into the water.

The body of the girl, fully clad in shoes, skirt, blouse and sweater, was discovered by Joseph Kaufman, 14 year old, 2341 Farragut avenue. He extricated it from the piles and carried it ashore while another boy ran for help. Rescue Squad No. 4 of the fire department was summoned and tried unsuccessfully to revive the child with an inhalator.

Several hours later the body, which had been taken to the McCready undertaking establishment at 4506 Sheridan road, was identified by Carl Hjaroe, the girl's stepfather.

$9,000,000 IS DRAWN BEFORE OFFICE CLOSES

Opens Again Today at 9 A. M.

Approximately 6,200 employés of the Chicago board of education received about $9,058,000 in overdue salaries yesterday.

Although 12,000 employés still are to be paid about $16,000,000, the lines of teachers and civil service workers, which since early afternoon had passed steadily to the 14 pay windows on the second floor at 130 North Wells street, dwindled in the evening, and there was no one in line at 9 p. m. It was then decided to cease paying at 9:30 o'clock and to resume at 9 a. m. today.

Officials said that they expected the $26,300,000 payoff to proceed without further pressure, as these most anxious to get their checks were presumed to have been in yesterday's crowds. If need be, however, the pay windows will remain open through tonight.

Promise Prompt Payment.

When the paying off is completed all teachers and civil service employés of the board will have their salaries in full up to date, for the first time since April, 1931. The average amount due to the teachers is $1,461. They have been promised that in the future salaries will be paid regularly on time.

Cheery and orderly, although impatient, the lines of teachers waited through the morning during the ironing out of technicalities which had prevented the beginning of the payoff at the scheduled time, 10 a. m.

Once the distribution started there was no hitch of any kind until about 7 p. m., when a rush of civil service employés occurred. The windows assigned to their checks were insufficient to handle these workers fast enough to suit them and they raised a tumult.

This was quickly calmed by William L. McFetridge, head of the school janitors' union, and additional windows were opened. The civil service employés present were all paid by 9 p. m.

Praises Staf's Efficiency.

It was explained that most of the civil service employés ended their vacations yesterday and are expected back at work today, and were therefore impatient to be paid at once.

Arthur Schweitzer, assistant business manager for the school board, was warm in his praise for the clerical force and for the employés who had exercised patience during the enforced delay.

This delay, it was explained by James B. McCahey, president of the school board, was due entirely to the physical limitations of the machinery used in the final transfer of $22,300,000 lent to the board by the Reconstruction Finance corporation for teachers' pay, and of the bonds to secure the loan.

Original Plan Changed.

As the situation stood at 8:30 a. m. yesterday, the bonds lay in the vaults of the First National bank, trustee under the loan agreement. A time lock on the vaults was released at that moment. The money lay in the vaults of the federal reserve bank and the check to represent it was technically in RFC hands.

It was to be delivered as soon as the formalities of the bond transfer had been finished and the bonds checked into its own coffers by the federal reserve officials. The plan was to have the bonds all taken, in armored trucks, from the First National to the federal reserve shortly after 8:30 a. m.

The first hitch came when it was learned that the truck company was bonded only for a single load of $5,000,000. Therefore, instead of taking the whole of the bonds at once, five trips were required.

Upsets Mayor's Arrangements.

The delivering truckmen had to take $5,000,000 worth after they had been examined and counted at the First National and, arriving at the federal reserve, stay until the counting had been verified there and all declared in order. The fivefold repetition of the formality threw the schedule far behind.

"We were confident Mayor Kelly would be able to pay the first teacher in line at or near 10 a. m.," said Mr. McCahey. "But this carrying of the bonds delayed us greatly. It certainly kept us back about two hours."

Other formalities had been carried out almost on schedule. At 9 a. m. the school board's attorneys had filed the last of the loan records with County Recorder Clayton F. Smith and had made an examination of the records of the loan filed with County Clerk Robert M. Sweitzer.

They then joined Mayor Kelly and

Mr. McCahey and went to the office of Frank R. Purrington, manager of the custody division of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago. All waited in impatience as the counting of the bonds proceeded slowly.

Then there was a demand that the signatures of the local officials be authenticated. This was made by Frank Corcoran, RFC attorney who had aided in speeding through the deal that meant the pay day.

The local officials were prepared for this and the authentication required only ten minutes. Nevertheless, it was 12:40 p. m. when the bank and RFC representatives were satisfied that all was well. At 12:45 p. m. the check was presented by Mr. Purrington to President McCahey. It was for $23,365,935, the added $65,935 representing a refund of interest.

Cash Already in Bank.

Mr. McCahey promptly endorsed the check and handed it to City Treasurer James A. Kearns, who took it to the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company for deposit. The board of education then held a meeting at once and transferred the money to the educational purpose fund, from which the teachers were paid. This action released the loan money. The funds to pay the civil service workers already were in the bank.

The mayor, accompanied by Mr. McCahey, then hastened to the pay office on Wells street. Teachers in line for hours cheered and made way for them as they passed into the building to start the big pay day. It was then just past 1 p. m.

H. A. Kincaid, 4060 5th avenue, chemistry teacher at Crane Technical High school, received the first check at 1:15 p. m. He had headed the line for 17½ hours.

"This goes to pay my bills," he told Mayor Kelly as the pink subwarant was placed in his hand.

"Never before have I been glad to act as paymaster," the mayor replied. "But this time I'm mighty happy to do it. It's good to see the campaign for the teachers successful. Good luck to you."

Dinner Bell Rush.

Miss Katherine Eulenberg, 1922 Humboldt avenue, a substitute teacher, was the first woman in the pay line and the second person to receive a check from Mayor Kelly. "I've got bills, too," she assured the mayor as she thanked him.

Meanwhile a growing crowd of teachers and employés pushed at the police lines that restrained them from the 14 pay cages, each allotted to certain schools, on the second floor of the bank building.

The signal to them came at 1:18 o'clock and they swarmed over scurrying clerks and newspaper men in their rush for the seven months' checks waiting at the cashiers' windows.

Police Commissioner Allman detailed 30 policemen to the building to keep the surging lines from halting trafic and to safeguard the crowds when the final rush for checks began.

Early in the afternoon Mr. McCahey received a telegram from Mr. Jones congratulating the board on the success of the school loan project.

"Allow me to congratulate the Chicago board of education on the successful completion of financing that enables it to pay its school teachers in full for all back salaries," the wire said. "Should your board find itself in funds, it will be permitted to purchase for retirement at par and accrued interest bonds in lots of $100,000 so long as they are owned by the RFC."

Telegram Cheers McCahey.

Mr. McCahey was greatly pleased at this message, since it will ultimately mean large savings on the interest bill in connection with the loan. Previously the RFC had ruled that bonds would not be retired until after ten years.

"That telegram is further evidence that Mr. Jones believes the city of Chicago and the board of education is in sound financial position," Mr. McCahey said. "The interest rate on the loan was cut from 5 to 4½ per cent because of this position, and Mr. Jones' new decision should mean further savings."

The first interest payment on the bonds, totaling $2,035,000, falls due in December, 1935, and the first principal payment of $250,000 is due the following year.

TEACHERS BROOD ON BILLS WHILE WAITING FOR PAY

Salary Line Sees Cash Departing Promptly.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

An effort to learn how some of the teachers who stood in line to get their long awaited pay checks yesterday intend to spend their money met varied responses. Many of the teachers approached by reporters appeared resentful. A few were belligerent. A small number were found who were cheerful.

Among the latter was Miss Nina B. Gilbert, 55 years old, of 7920 Elmgrove drive, Elmwood Park, a teacher in the Avondale school and for 28 years a teacher in Chicago schools. She was standing last in line, on Franklin street half way between Randolph street and Washington boulevard. Hobbling on a cane because of a severely sprained ankle, Miss Gilbert declared she was waiting in line so she would not have to miss another day of her vacation.

Obligations Take Half.

"I have a little country place up in Michigan," she said. "I haven't gone up before this summer because I didn't have the money. Now I shall lose no time. I'm going to spend the next two weeks canning vegetables from my garden there, which I have had planted and worked."

A well dressed young man standing well toward the rear of the line was approached. He identified himself as William P. Wilson, 6748 North Ashland avenue, a teacher here for 10 years, now assistant principal at the Wright school, a bachelor. More than half the money he collected will go to pay bills, he said, but added:

"This isn't a hard luck story. What if I do have a few bills to pay? Here is a pleasant item: I'm going to take a two weeks' vacation at Washington, D. C. Meanwhile I've been vacationing on Chicago's beaches, and I've found Chicago a good summer resort."

Two pretty sisters, Marian and Marguerite Jackson, 4525 Washington boulevard, who drove 60 miles from a vacation visit in De Kalb to get their checks, announced they were "elated" that they could buy a few clothes as well as pay their bills.

In Time for Mortgage.

A fragile looking little man with the face of a scholar, a gray goatee and whiskers and gray hair, whose bespectacled eyes drank from an ancient volume of Robert Burns' poems, was standing well toward the front of the line. He said his name was F. E. Brimblecom, a Latin teacher in the McKinley High school. For 40 years he has been a teacher in the Chicago public schools.

"This is a rough deal the teachers are getting, having to wait in line for hours," he said. "I've been here since 7 a. m., and it's noon now. When I get my money, $2,000 of it will have to go toward reducing the mortgage on my home. It's coming just in time. Then I have to have the house painted and the gutters repaired. There will be nothing left," he ended dismally.

Indignantly Miss Helen Grimth, 7925 Drexel boulevard, teacher in the Gresham school, answered the question as to how she'd spend her money. "How do you think?" she retorted. "On paying back bills. Do you think I can buy any clothes? I should say not!"

More of Same Story.

"I suppose all Chicago thinks they're going to get a lot of our money now," declared C. M. Cummins, 6109 Greenwood avenue, formerly a principal, now a teacher of mathematics in the Hirsch High school, who is married and has children aged 13, 12, and 7 years. "Well, all mine's going to pay money borrowed on life insurance and if I hadn't had a separate job running a private school last winter I would have lost my insurance."

"All of mine will go to pay bills," smiled Miss Mary Byrne, 27 years old, of 5527 Potomac street, a teacher in the Irving school. "I'm going to have a lot of fun paying my bills, though. I'm so sick of owing people. And maybe I can get a fall coat, though it won't be a fur coat, such as lots of the girls are getting. Others are getting cars."

Mrs. C. R. Foster, 4718 South Park avenue, Negro, a teacher in the Phillips High school, had been waiting since 12:05 a. m. She said she intended using part of her money to go on "a little fishing trip" to Toronto, Canada.

"I think they could have done better by us," declared Mrs. Jane Taylor of 2212 North Keeler avenue, a teacher in the Lloyd school and wife of Edward Taylor, teacher in the Tilden High school.

"We will use our money to pay old debts. Then we'll put some aside, because we don't know how we'll be treated next year."

Oberammergau, Germany, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Klara Mayr, Magdalen of the passion play, acted that rôle for the last time today. Tomorrow she marries Anton Lang, son of the former famous impersonator of Christ and new speaker of the prolog. The bridegroom teaches German at Washington university and the newlyweds plan to sail for there next week. Ritta Kosch has been selected as the new Magdalen.

COURTS BLAMED PARTIALLY FOR GAINS BY REDS

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Conditions existing "to some extent" in the American judiciary were blamed tonight by Clarence M. Goodwin, former justice of the Illinois Appellate court, for the spread of communism and discontent.

"A cynical belief that judges bow to the suggestions of those upon whom their tenure of office depends," prevails in the United States, Goodwin said, and there also exists a belief that "powerful interests protect the favored criminal from successful prosecution and tip the scales of justice in civil cases as well . . .

"To some extent these conditions exist," declared Goodwin, chairman of the board of the American Judicature society at a joint dinner of the society and delegates to the American Bar association convention.

"The general knowledge that they do exist gives the communist his arguments and the enemy of society his opportunity."

CASHIER OF LOOP HOTEL ROBBED AS GUESTS SIT NEAR

While guests of the hotel were unaware of what was happening, two gunmen late yesterday afternoon robbed Ray Stillson, cashier of the La Salle hotel, of between $100 and $200 on the mezzanine stairway. Stillson was accompanied by Hans Hansen, a paymaster, but neither man had a chance to resist.

Stillman was transferring the money in an envelope from the general transportation ticket sales office on the lobby floor to the offices of the Greyhound Bus Lines on the mezzanine floor.

At the top of the stairway, the robbers suddenly appeared, threatened Stillson with guns, seized the envelope, and calmly walked down the stairs. They had made their way to the street before Stillson could give an alarm. Arthur Reynolds, house detective, who was in his room at the time, later refused any information about the robbery.

URGES CRIME WAR BE MADE MORE POPULAR

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Attorney General Edward L. O'Connor of Iowa, asserting racketeers are levying 15 billion dollars in tribute annually against the American people, today pleaded with the attorneys general conference of the American Bar association convention to fight crime by making law enforcement popular.

Criticizing what he termed a tendency to make heroes of John Dillinger and kindred hoodlums, O'Connor said newspapers "should carry more stories of the hazards encountered by fearless law enforcement officials in tracing the criminal to his lair."

If heroes are needed in the tragic drama of crime they should be the peace officer and prosecuting attorney, O'Connor said.

He commended the American Bar association for "galvanizing into action a strong public opinion for law enforcement."

government, sovereign in its sphere, and thirteen state governments, equally sovereign in theirs. Power over the great multitude of local problems was left with the government of the states. Education, labor, manufacturing, agriculture, health, morals, and the myriad of other subjects which vary according to the geographical location or the temperament of character of a people were left to the states. The police power was to be theirs.

"Immediately after the adoption of the constitution, the first ten amendments were ratified. Among them was one which most students of government are required to commit to memory. I refer to the tenth amendment:

"'The powers not delegated to the United States by the constitution nor prohibited to it by the states are reserved to the states respectively, or to the people.'

Tells of Framers' Views.

"The view of the framers of the constitution was forcefully expressed by Thomas Jefferson in 1801, in his first inaugural address. In enumerating the essential principles of our government, he included:

"'The support of the state governments as the most competent administrations for our domestic concerns, and the surest bulwarks against anti-republican tendencies.'

"In an earlier statement President Jefferson had given voice to the fears which pervaded the convention in the following trenchant language:

"'When all government, domestic and foreign, in little as in great things, shall be drawn to Washington as the center of all powers, it will render powerless the checks provided of one government on another and will become as venal and oppressive as the government from which it separated.

Advises Against Apathy.

"If the states look with apathy on this silent descent of their governments into the gulf which is to swallow all, we have only to weep over the human character found uncontrollable but by a rod of iron, and the blasphemers of man as incapable of self government become his true historians.

"Today there is scarcely a single field of taxation which has not been invaded by the federal government, with apparently no intention of ever retiring from the field and leaving it exclusively to the states. There are 79 separate federal taxes now in force, exclusive of special taxes, such as the processing and equalization taxes levied by the secretary of agriculture under the AAA. Of these 79, 43 have been enacted since 1932.

"In my opinion the future of our country depends upon the continued vitality of the states in the handling of their local problems. But if I am mistaken, and state governments are to be rendered impotent and perhaps state lines erased—which I pray may never happen—then let us accomplish these changes in an orderly way, let us modify the agreement between the states by amendment, as the constitution provides.

States Are Parents.

"Usurpation of power and nullification of the constitutions are even more to be condemned when attempted by the federal government than by the states, for after all the states are the parents, not the children, of the federal government."

Divisions on insurance, criminal law, communications, municipal law, patent and trade marks, and public utilities held sessions today. In the public utility meeting Richard T. Higgins, chairman of the Connecticut commission and president of the National Association of Railroad and Utilities Commissioners, said in the course of his address:

"This nation differs from most European nations. It was developed and it prospered under a government of laws and not of men, and to my mind one of the principal duties of this great organization, the American Bar association, is to see to it that that form of government shall continue."

YEAR AND FINE FOR ROBBERY.

Angelo Seno, 43 years old, 1430 West Congress street, was sentenced yesterday by Judge Robert J. Dunne in the Felony court to pay a fine of $100 and serve one year in the Bridewell on a charge of robbery.

NATION'S WOMEN URGED TO BATTLE FOR "EQUALITY"

NRA Discrimination Is Cited by Bar Chief.

Charging that NRA codes discriminate against women, Dr. Olive Stott Gabriel of New York City, president of the National Association of Women Lawyers, yesterday called upon the women of the United States to come to the succor of their sex.

"One of the principles of our organization is our belief in full equality for women in every opportunity," Dr. Gabriel said in opening the annual convention of the organization at the Palmer house. "Most of the NRA codes openly discriminate against women. In one state where a 20 per cent employment increase was reported not even a fraction of 1 per cent represented reëmployed women.

Urges "Equality Drive."

"More and more married women are thus being forced out of employment. Only a concerted campaign for equality will withstand this reactionary movement. We demand for women employment, appointment, promotion and salaries on equal terms with men."

Women have been further discriminated against in the government in its work relief program, she said in asking the association to request work projects for women, pointing out that under present conditions the outlook is not encouraging for women.

"Abraham Lincoln, Henry Clay, and Betsy Ross," she declared, "were common people who fought for their ideals, their independence, their religion, and freedom of speech, which, summed up, stand for American citizenship. It is our legacy to keep these principles inviolate."

Illustrious Audience.

Dr. Gabriel's plea was heard by an illustrious feminine audience, one which contained the outstanding women jurists and attorneys of the twentieth century. Among those registered for the convention, which will close with a banquet tonight, were many "firsts" in feminine achievement, including the first women to be appointed judges of a federal court, the first woman to be elected judge of a state Supreme court, the first women to be appointed attorneys for the Home Owners' Loan corporation, the first woman legislator-lawyer, and one of the country's first suffrage workers, Mrs. Alice Parker Hutchins, member of the New York, Massachusetts and California bars, who spoke on "Our Heritage."

Today's session will be marked by addresses by three eminent women lawyers and eight women judges, a report on the organization's work on the nationality bill, and an address, "Women and Money," in which the ancient belief that women's progress was hampered by lack of money will be disproved.

LINDY BRILLIANT BIOLOGY STUDENT SCIENTIST CLAIMS

PARIS, Aug. 27.—(AP)—The newspaper Le Jour said today that Dr. Alexis Carrel of the scientific staf of the Rockefeller institute, in conversations with friends had pictured Col. Charles Lindbergh as a brilliant student of biology.

Dr. Carrel is quoted as saying: "The whole world knows and admires the first man who flew the Atlantic alone. You know his extreme modesty, and what I am telling you about him nobody suspects in America. He follows my course assiduously and has become my best assistant in biology. The name he will leave in that science will be as illustrious as that in aviation."

Efforts to reach Dr. Carrel in Paris were fruitless.

At the Rockefeller institute in New York it was said that the institute's policy forbade giving out any information on Col. Lindbergh's work there.

OWNER QUIZZED ON HOME BLAZE; HINT ARSON PLOT

Question Moving Valuables Before Fire.

Edwin Cody Buren, 42 years old, an official of the Hayes-Loeb company, 135 South La Salle street, a public relations firm, was questioned by police of the state's attorney's office last night about a fire which wrecked his two story house at 519 Gunderson avenue, Oak Park, Sunday morning.

EDWIN C. BUREN. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Held with him for questioning was George Alexander, 519 South Harvey avenue, Oak Park, to whom Buren had entrusted his family's clothing, silverware, and valuables before leaving Saturday for their summer home at Long Beach, Mich. After prolonged questioning by Lieut. Thomas Kelly of the state's attorney's police, both men still denied any knowledge of the fire. They were held at the Marquette police station.

Find Incendiary Evidence.

They were questioned at the request of Chief Deputy State Fire Marshal Frank Doherty and W. C. Watters, chief of the Oak Park fire department, who asserted they found evidence that Buren's home had been "touched off" by an incendiary.

When Chief Watters and his men broke into Buren's home, he said they found a train of torn bits of paper leading from room to room and up to the second floor. Newspapers and wrapping paper had been torn to shreds and scattered about the furniture. Kerosene from a half filled pan in one room had also been liberally doused on the furnishings, Watters said.

Deputy Doherty said Buren took out new insurance on the furnishings last June raising the total of insurance to $7,500, and that the building was insured for $14,000, although only worth $6,000, he estimated, and subject to a mortgage.

Three Indicted for Arson.

Climaxing another arson investigation, three men were reported named yesterday in true bills voted by the grand jury, charging them with conspiracy in connection with the alleged incendiary burning of a building at 9654 Avenue L on March 11 in an insurance plot. Bond for each was fixed at $10,000.

The three are Edward Brownstein, 37 years old, former precinct captain for Morris Eller in the old bloody 20th ward; James Santy, 47 years old, 9845 Avenue N, a Republican precinct captain in the 10th ward; and William Jacobi, 30 years old, 7939 Ellis avenue, under sentance for robbery, and the self-confessed incendiary, who implicated the others in testimony before the jury.

DIRKSEN URGING WATERWAY WORK DOWN TO PEORIA

War Department Will Study Project.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Col. Glen E. Edgerton, assistant to the chief of army engineers, said today the war department was investigating, "but without commitments as to future attitude," the proposal to make the Illinois waterway navigable for lake going steamers as far down from Chicago as Peoria.

Instructions to conduct inexpensive surveys into the plan had been issued to field agents, he said, following receipt of a letter from Representative E. M. Dirksen [Rep., Ill.], which proposed that the "future plans" of the army engineers' development of the channel within the Illinois river be altered so that Peoria, and intervening ports, might be given the benefit of economical lake trafic without the necessity of transferring at Chicago.

"Under the new proposal," Dirksen wrote Edgerton, "the water plane would be raised from two to three feet above the existing project plane, thus establishing a normal depth from 11 to 12 feet.

"May I point out that the Illinois channel for two-thirds of the distance from Peoria to Joliet already has a reasonably uniform depth of about 14 feet, and that if the dam proposed for Peoria were designated to create a uniform depth for the entire length of pool No. 3, such depth would accommodate barges and some vessels that now operate the Great Lakes. These vessels are designated to operate in 12 to 14 feet of water, and it seems, in view of the width of the new project, that these vessels and barges might operate through the canal with its depth of 22 feet and as far south as Peoria.

"If the ram were built as originally proposed for a depth of 11 or 12 feet, and it is found in the next 10 or 20 years that lake vessels might operate down as far as Peoria, much additional expense might be entailed in making the change."

Langer, North Dakota's Deposed Governor, Here

William H. Langer, deposed governor of North Dakota, arrived in Chicago yesterday. At the Brevoort hotel, where he is staying, Langer said that he still regards himself as governor, although Ole Olson, former lieutenant governor of North Dakota, is now holding the office. Langer was removed from office after his conviction on a federal fraud charge.

U. S. WILL FEED STRIKE HUNGRY, HOPKINS SAYS

Plan Mapped to Aid with Textile Walkout.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—[Special.]—Verification that the federal treasury will largely finance the strike of 600,000 textile workers called for Sept. 4 was given today by Harry Hopkins, federal relief administrator.

Mr. Hopkins declared that relief funds would be made available to any strikers who are in need, and thus the most pressing difficulty of the strike managers, that of keeping strikers and the strikers' families fed and clothed and housed, will have been met.

The only condition set by the relief administrator, besides the condition of need, was that in the event the department of labor or the federal labor relations board held that the textile workers' strike was not justified no strikers would be given federal funds.

Confers with Leaders.

This eventuality seemed today to fade into the humid air of Washington, for it was learned that neither President Roosevelt nor Secretary of Labor Perkins has taken any steps to stop the strike. Lloyd Garrison, chairman of the FLRB, has been conferring with labor officials promoting the strike, but he has made no efforts thus far to meet the employers. From a reliable source it was learned that Mr. Garrison is satisfied that only by a paralyzing, bitter, and probably violent strike can the present differences between workers and employers be settled.

The textile strike, more than any other large labor disorder of late, is believed to spring from radical and communistic origin. Norman Thomas, America's leading Socialist, was active in inflaming the workers to strike and participated in the convention at which the strike was voted, offering his help.

Despite the radical taint to the movement, there was seen no possibility that the labor department would brand it an outlaw strike. Gorman declared this afternoon that neither the President nor Miss Perkins had made any moves toward intervention, and he showed the greatest confidence that neither would order Hopkins to withhold relief from the strikers.

Hopkins Explains Policy.

Explaining the policy he would low, and insisting this was a regular policy, Mr. Hopkins said that "relief officials are supposed to take care of all people in need."

"We are not equipped, nor should we be expected," he continued, "to decide the merits of any strike. There are other bodies to do that, and until the department of labor or the national labor relations board determines that the strike is unjustified, we will take care of families on the basis of need."

Mr. Hopkins admitted that in all the hundreds of strikes occurring under the New Deal the needy strikers have been supported from federal relief funds. Not a single strike has been declared unjustified by labor department or labor board, he conceded.

"All Plans Are Strike Plans."

Strike Chairman Gorman said plainly today that he saw no faint possibility of averting a strike.

"All our plans are strike plans," he said bluntly.

Gorman said he was convinced that "If President Roosevelt knew the exact conditions in the textile industry he would take action to force the employers to meet our demands."

The employers' side of the controversy was expressed in a letter received by Robert Bruere, chairman of the NRA cotton textile labor relations board, from George A. Sloan, president of the American Textile institute and chairman of the NRA cotton textile code authority.

Seeing the threatened strike as a violent and coercive effort to amend the cotton textile code, a code widely hailed as a model when it was the first one to be approved at the beginning of NRA, Mr. Sloan declared that "The institution of such warfare is an attempted substitution of force for the orderly processes of the National Industrial Recovery act."

Board Prepares to Step In.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—(AP)—The national labor relations board prepared today to intervene in the projected textile strike called for Sept. 4.

It was generally thought the board might have taken up the matter today had it not been tied up in efforts to settle the aluminum strike.

Finds 10 Pound Mushroom, but He's Afraid to Eat It

Frank Fox, 358 Broadway, Aurora, found a giant mushroom yesterday near Eola, four miles east of Aurora. It was more than 13 inches in diameter, measured 41 inches in circumference, and weighed 10½ pounds. It was identified as a Lycopordon Bovista or giant puffball. Despite the assurances of his friends that fungi of the Lycoperdon genera are edible before they ripen into the dry spore stage, Fox does not intend to put the giant specimen to the eating proof.

ALUMINUM CO. AND WORKERS MEET IN ATTEMPT AT PEACE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—(AP)—The first break in the deadlock between striking aluminum workers and the Aluminum Company of America came today when the labor relations board brought them together in a joint conference and gained a promise that they would meet again tomorrow.

Since the strike started several weeks ago government officials had conferred with each side. Not until today, however, did the company and the Aluminum Workers' council, representing the strikers, sit down together to see whether they could work out a settlement.

The company, an interest of the Mellon family, and the union were poles apart when the conference started. The union demanded that the company deduct dues from union members' pay, that it give the union a written contract, and that wages for the same types of work be standardized throughout the company's plant.

Meeting those demands, the company maintained, would mean a "closed shop." That, officials said, they would not concede.

WILLIAM GREEN HERE, HOPEFUL ON STRIKE SITUATION

Efforts are being made by the American Federation of Labor to have the national labor relations board intervene in the threatened strike of textile workers, William H. Green, president of the A. F. of L., said last night. Mr. Green was a speaker at a testimonial dinner at the Stevens hotel for George E. Browne, president of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employés and Motion Picture Machine Operators of the United States and Canada.

"Since the workers have no confidence in the cotton textile board, we are concentrating on the NLRB, hoping that they will intervene before the strike is called on Sept. 4," Mr. Green declared in an interview. "If the board will intervene we will have cause to hope for a settlement of the difficulties before the strike."

Mr. Green also declared he was hopeful that the labor board would be able to settle the strike of aluminum workers. Speaking of possible incorporation of New Deal policies in a permanent NRA, the labor leader said in his opinion provisions against child labor and collective bargaining rights for the worker would be included in any permanent plan.

KOHLER DENIES BREAKING RULES OF BLUE EAGLE

Asserts He Follows Johnson Course.

Kohler, Wis., Aug. 27.—[Special.]—Denying emphatically that the Kohler company has violated provisions of the NRA, Walter J. Kohler, president of that company issued a statement here today. He replied to Attorney Joseph Padway of Milwaukee who earlier in the day had said he was sending a petition to Washington asking the removal of the Kohler Blue Eagle.

"According to newspaper reports," Mr. Kohler's statement said, "an official of Federal Union 18545 has stated that the union will request the removal of the Kohler company's Blue Eagle on the ground that the company has violated section 7-A of the National Industrial Recovery act.

Says He Follows Johnson.

"The company has proceeded strictly according to the interpretation of section 7-A issued by Gen. Johnson, administrator, and Donald Richberg, legal counsel for NRA, and confirmed by President Roosevelt himself in the automobile settlement.

"If the union leaders really believed that the Kohler company has violated the law, they would have sought the removal of our Blue Eagle at the very beginning, instead of resorting to violence and rioting. They also would have prosecuted the company for violation of the law."

Report All Quiet.

Meantime sheriff's deputies in charge of the strike zone reported that all was quiet, except that a larger number of pickets than usual were in line today.

COTTON MAKERS PROTEST CODE AS REWRITTEN

New York, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Representatives of the cotton garment industry from all parts of the country, meeting today, resolved that they "cannot accept or acquiesce in the wage and hour provisions" of their code as amended by the NRA last week.

They authorized their counsel, Raymond A. Walsh of Washington, "to take such legal steps, if necessary, as may be proper in the protection of the rights and interests of the members," of the industry.

The presidential order of last Tuesday would amend the code to provide a maximum work week of 36 hours instead of the present 40 with the mimimum wage for the shorter week unchanged. It also would increase piece rates 10 per cent over those of last May 1.

Cardinal to Use It

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Pope Pius' tiny Vatican railroad will be put to use soon, Cardinal Pacelli probably will ride on the line when he leaves for the eucharistic congress to be held in Buenos Aires this October, prelates announced today.

Instead of making the usual departure from the station at Rome, it was indicated, the cardinal probably will be given his sendoff at the sumptuous Vatican station and ride over the Vatican railroad's 2,615 feet of track to connect with the Italian state railways.

Simultaneously with reports that Cardinal Pacelli would use the tiny railroad, the Italian official gazette today published dispositions whereby Vatican and Italian authorities propose regular service over the line.

Built last year by the Italian government under terms of the Lateran treaty, which made Vatican City an independent state, Pope Pius' railway, despite its brevity, cost $1,500,000—believed to be the highest cost per foot on record.

AGED RIVERSIDE RESIDENT KILLED BY AUTOMOBILE

Tonnes Eier, 73 years old, 186 Ogden avenue, Riverside, was killed last night when he was struck near his home by an automobile driven by Edward Walker, colored, 2422 West Lake street. Walker was held for the inquest today.

The death of Eier and one other increased the motor fatality list for Cook county since Jan. 1 to 781. The other victim:

John Claybrook, 58 years old, 4707 St. Lawrence avenue, colored. Died in Provident hospital from injuries received last Sunday when he was struck at 5410 South Park way by a machine driven by Tyle McGuire, 35, of 315 East 56th street. McGuire was ordered to attend the inquest this morning.

BLUE EAGLE LOSS GOES UNHEEDED, BUS CO. REPORTS

"Fares Collected Prove Public Is Friendly."

Loss of its Blue Eagle has deprived the Chicago Motor Coach company of few if any bus riders, according to John A. Ritchie, president of the company. He made public yesterday figures on bus fares collected during the last three weekends.

The first of these periods was just before a number of members of an American Federation of Labor bus union went on strike against the company. The second was during the strike, but while the buses still carried the Blue Eagle. The third was after the loss of the Blue Eagle, and also after the company stand in the matter had been made known to the public in advertisements carried in daily newspapers. The figures follow:

	Aug. 11-12.	Aug. 18-19.	Aug. 25-26.
Saturday	$16,629	$18,667	$16,342
Sunday	14,916	13,944	12,904

Numerous factors influence bus patronage, Mr. Ritchie pointed out, and it was these factors, in his opinion, rather than either the strike or the loss of the Blue Eagle which caused the fluctuations in patronage.

How Patronage Varies.

The principal factors of this sort are the weather and the attendance at A Century of Progress Exposition. The company gets a considerable proportion of its patronage from the Fair goers, and whenever the average temperature for 24 hours falls below 70 degrees, the company's executives have found, patronage drops off because many persons avoid riding on the open top decks of buses during the chilly evening hours.

Thus they explain the large number of passengers carried on Aug. 18 by the fact that the day was warm, that the Fair attendance exceeded that of the previous Saturday by more than 40,000, and most of all by the fact that more than 100,000 persons went to Soldiers' field that evening to attend THE TRIBUNE'S Chicagoland Music Festival.

The drop of last Saturday was explained, according to their experience, by the temperature, which averaged 18 degrees lower than that a week before, and by a slight drop in Fair attendance. On last Sunday the temperature was again below the average for the preceding Sunday, but a large increase in Fair attendance more than balanced this condition, giving a slight increase in bus patronage.

Change Picket Procedure.

Ralph Stoltzmann, president of Local 1022 of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employés of America, the union which is striking against the coach company, announced yesterday that the union intends to put 200 pickets on duty at the principal loop stops of the bus routes. The strikers would abandon picketing of the company garages, he said.

Nothing was done yesterday regarding a possible strike of street car and elevated lines employés, who are also members of Amalgamated unions, in sympathy with the bus walkout.

Brick Hurled at Bus.

A single instance of vandalism directed at the bus company was reported last night. A brick, hurled at a bus at Washington boulevard and Kostner avenue, shattered a window. Flying glass cut two women and two children who were passengers. Their hurts were not serious.

Sergt. Fred Wright and his police motor squad, arriving as the brick hurler fled, pursued and captured him. He is Thomas Barrett, 31 years old, 4324 West Monroe street. C. P. Wallace, the bus driver, and two witnesses identified him. Barrett and John Stack, 30 years old, 4500 West Monroe street, who was loitering near the corner, were charged with malicious mischief.

Discovers Volcano

MANILA, P. I., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Discovery of a volcano unlisted on any maps was reported today by Maj. Gen. Frank Parker upon his return from a week's aerial survey of landing field sites on the island of Mindanao, southernmost of the Philippine islands.

The inactive volcano is southeast of the town of Cotabato, principal settlement of the west coast of the mountainous island, Gen. Parker said there was water in the crater, crowning a mountain at an altitude of 4,400 feet.

Sued for Divorce, Radio Engineer Denies Wedding

Last week Elsie R. Thatcher filed suit in the Superior court seeking a divorce from Cleo W. Thatcher, 611 Eastwood avenue, a radio engineer. Yesterday Thatcher, through Attorney Murphy Tate, filed an answer asking dismissal of the divorce suit on the ground he had never married the woman who filed it. He said the woman had lived together here and in Detroit, he said in his answer, but had never legally made her a marriage because they took out last September. Judge Joseph Sabath, after scanning the answer, granted a temporary injunction.

LOST LIBERTIES? MacNIDER GIVES PRESIDENT A LIST

Ex-Legion Chief Raps New Deal in Radio Talk.

Direct retort to a question asked by President Roosevelt over the radio recently was made last night by Col. Hanford MacNider, former national commander of the American Legion and former minister to Canada.

HANFORD MacNIDER.

"The President asked the other day over the radio," said the speaker, "what liberties, if any, had been taken from us. The answers must have been apparent even as he spoke.

"Has not the man forced through necessity to give up his rights to farm his own land as he sees fit lost his liberty?

How About Price Fixing?

"Has not the man who cannot buy even a loaf of bread at a price satisfactory to himself and the grocer lost his liberty?

"Has not the man who cannot sell his service at his own wage lost his liberty? He has lost more than that. He has, too often, lost his chance to keep his self-respect. He has been officially pauperized.

"Has not the citizen whose heritage is being undermined by the never ending flow of public moneys into every conceivable socialistic venture lost his liberty? He has and so have his children after him.

"Is not the use of property part of liberty? Has not the citizen whose property is destroyed by federal encouragement of repudiation or by governmental default on obligations lost his liberty?

Cites Lost Sense of Security.

"He has lost more than that. He has lost not only those rights guaranteed him under the constitution and, what is even more important in these times, he has lost that sense of security and justice which has made our form of government the haven of the world and the goal of every people under the sun.

"There will be no real recovery until that sense of security is reestablished and confidence is restored."

Col. MacNider spoke over a national radio chain and copies of his speech were distributed by the Chicago western headquarters of the Republican congressional and senate campaign committees.

"America in Reverse."

At one point the speaker referred to the present process of alphabetical experimentation as a "hypnotic adventure," but the term he used most frequently during his talk was a description of the situation today as "America in reverse."

"The New Deal," he declared, is nothing more or nothing less than America in reverse. Undoubtedly as we go back along the line on this redistribution junket with the New Dealers we shall find some things neglected, some things which might have been better done.

"I never heard of starvation under the malicious Old Deal, as I suppose Dr. Tugwell would call the years of our greatest prosperity, but without doubt some of our people might have fared better.

It's the Hoop Jumping Era.

"However, let's not argue with that brilliant scholar over definitions. He is now arguing with himself over what we would call this series of hoops through which he and his colleagues are jumping us.

"I'll admit that I don't know the difference between 'scientific planning' and 'social management,' but what they portend must be clear to every thinking American—autocracy, no matter whose sheepskin it wears. We have, I hope, read enough of dictatorship and autocracy in the last few weeks to know that we want none of it in America.

"We all agree that the hungry must be fed and the needy cared for. But to put a premium on a maintenance of that situation is neither American nor humanitarian."

Puts Speech in "Reverse" Again.

"As the enthusiastic New Dealers start winding back the reel of our national progress into reverse, perhaps to divert our minds from the tremendous and all time peaks of national indebtedness they have created for us, we Republicans can at least be allowed a glimpse of that virtueless period of regular debt reduction when, with a balanced budget and a determination to pay our way and fulfill our promises, our credit was the best on earth.

"And, while it may seem far away—beyond any possibility that even such ambitious scholars can plan for us—this putting America into reverse cannot help but eventually bring us back to that far horizon when Americans fought for the very rights which are so plausibly and smilingly being jeopardized today.

Calls for Defense of Heritage.

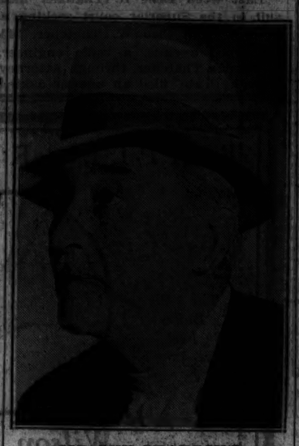
"Before this professorial experiment gets away from its trusting authors and puts us permanently across the line to autocracy and the complete loss of our liberties, the time has come to defend the American heritage.

"Let's stop the squandering of the public credit. Let's demobilize the vast and ever increasing armies of the bureocracy. Let's restore the public confidence that the great wellspring of private credit may buoy us up and out of this depresion as it has all others in the past.

"Let's restore American initiative that it may again show us the way—not from textbooks, but from the bench, the desk, and the plow."

His closing words were: "Let's keep America American!"

VICTIM OF SPIDER



SIR GUY STANDING.

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Studio officials disclosed today Sir Guy Standing, actor, is suffering from the bite of a venomous "Black Widow" spider.

Standing, who has been on location with the "Lives of a Bengal Lancer" company in the San Fernando valley, was bitten nearly a week ago, but his recovery has been rapid. His leg, where the insect struck, still is greatly swollen, however.

Gary Cooper, on the same location, discovered a rattlesnake outside his tent and moved to a lodge at Malibu lake, three miles distant, where his wife, Sandra Shaw, has joined him.

EDITORS REBEL AT DEMOCRATS' PUBLICITY PLAN

Weeklies Fight Attempt to Buy News Space.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Editors of Illinois weekly newspapers outside of Cook county are expressing indignation against what they consider an effort of the Democratic state organization to buy their news columns during the impending campaign.

Typical of outbursts against the publicity department of the state committee was an editorial in the most recent issue of the Pulaski Enterprise, which reached Chicago yesterday. This weekly is published at Mound City, the county seat of Pulaski county, a village six miles north of Cairo down in the southernmost tip of the state.

"Out Herods Herod."

"The Republicans," wrote Editor Frank Ledbetter, "did things that had odors to them, in fact, powerful and disgusting smells, but this outrivals them all. It out-Herods Herod. The Democratic party wishes to artfully subsidize the county press of the state."

The charges against the Democrats are that over the signature of Manley Munford, a former Chicago newspaper man now employed in the office of State Auditor Barrett, they notified the downstate publishers of their intention to use newspaper advertising extensively and of their willingness to pay for the "trouble of handling" regular publicity material sent for use in the news columns.

Mr. Mumford, who signed the circular letter as director of publicity for the state committee, admitted the truth of the statements made by the editor.

600 Newspapers Included.

"That letter was sent to all of the 600 downstate weekly newspapers," he said. "There is no secrecy or scandal connected with it. This is the established practice of both parties. The Republican organization has a regularly maintained publicity department and without doubt will advertise in the weekly papers just as we intend to do. Our plan is to reach each community through at least one weekly newspaper.

"As for paying for handling our publicity, our offer was in no sense a promise of compensation. It was simply a promise to pay $1 a column for the cost of casting their own plates or setting their own type if they do not wish our plate service.

Claims 200 Acceptances.

"The letter was sent to Republican newspapers as well as Democratic. We told them we intend to furnish them with legitimate news of the Democratic campaign. Many of them are glad to substitute it for the 'boiler plate' they otherwise might be compelled to use. Although the letter was sent out only about ten days ago we have received approximately 200 acceptances of the service."

Mr. Mumford said the only compensation he receives comes from Auditor Barrett and that he has handled his publicity work during his spare time. If, he said, the publicity interferes with his duties for the state he will take a leave of absence from the auditor's office.

"Well, there it is. 'Fan our brow' and 'blow us down,'" wrote Editor Ledbetter of Mound City, "if it is not the 'strongest' proposition we have had in a long time."

MRS. H. T. RAINEY NOT CANDIDATE, DIETERICH SAYS

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 27.—[Special.]—It was announced today that Mrs. Henry T. Rainey, widow of the late speaker of the house, will not be a candidate for the congressional seat in the 20th Illinois district made vacant by the death of her husband a week ago.

Senator William H. Dieterich of Beardstown made that announcement after a conference with Mrs. Rainey at her home in Carrollton. Many had considered her as the logical successor to Mrs. Rainey's seat in the house.

Mrs. Rainey said she did not want the selection of her husband's successor to be influenced by any preference she might entertain, but added that in the list of possible candidates Emil Schram of Hillview, a neighbor of the late speaker, was a closer friend of Mr. Rainey than the others. The candidate will be named at a meeting of the county chairmen of that district some time next month.

LABOR BOARD UPHELD ON PLANT REMOVALS IN NEW YORK COURT

New York, Aug. 27.—[Special.]—A decision by Justice Samuel I. Rosenman in the Supreme court today upheld in principle the contention of the New York regional labor board that "runaway employers," by which is meant employers moving their plants to other communities to escape obligations under higher union standards here, should be stopped from so doing wherever contractual or NRA obligations exist.

Justice Rosenman, who was counsel to President Roosevelt when the latter was governor of New York, ruled also that section 7A, the collective bargaining provision of the national industrial recovery act, does not invalidate the principle of the "closed shop," which he affirmed was valid in law.

Justice Rosenman made this ruling in granting the application of Sam Farulla, as president of the Doll and Toy Workers' union, for a temporary injunction restraining Ralph A. Freundlich, Inc., from violating a contract drawn by the New York regional labor board last May and signed by the Freundlich company and 75 per cent of other toy manufacturers in New York City.

Justice Rosenman declared the Freundlich company might be enjoined from carrying out a plan to move its factory to Massachusetts if it were shown that the move was to circumvent the NRA agreement. He declined, however, to enjoin the move pending trial for a permanent injunction. That the company was moving its plant to Massachusetts was one of the charges in the injunction application.

HARRY CROOKS NAMED U. S. JURY COMMISSIONER

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday announced the appointment of Harry D. Crooks, 10610 Seeley avenue, as federal jury commissioner for the northern district of Illinois.

Mr. Crooks will succeed Thomas J. Webb, who has resigned on account of ill health after serving for 18 years. Within a few days, with Charles M. Bates, clerk of the United States District court, Mr. Crooks will begin the selection of veniremen for the September term of the federal court. From this venire a jury will be selected to try Samuel Insull and 16 others for mail fraud, beginning Sept. 18.

Mr. Crooks is president and general manager of the Crooks Terminal Warehouses, Inc., operating warehouses here, in Kansas City, and in Los Angeles. He is married, has one daughter, and is a member of the Union League club.

Joseph P. Daly Appointed Postmaster in Waukegan

Joseph P. Daly, 309 Franklin street, Waukegan, has been named acting postmaster of that city according to word received here yesterday from the offices of Senators Lewis and Dieterich at Washington. Daly was notified of his appointment by Postmaster General Farley. He will take office Sept. 1, succeeding Mancel Talcott, who had held the position for 12 years. It is expected that Daly will be confirmed as postmaster at the next session of Congress. Operator of groceries and meat markets for several years, Daly has long been active in the Lake county Democratic party.

CRUSADERS SEEK WOMEN'S AID IN PATRIOTIC DRIVE

Cathrine Curtis Heads Auxiliary Campaign.

Women throughout the country will be invited to join in the Crusaders' campaign against un-American influences and excessive governmental expenditures. This was announced here yesterday by Seymour Wheeler, Chicago leader of the Crusaders.

"Our women's auxiliary was of great aid in our winning fight against prohibition," Mr. Wheeler said, "and this time they are being asked to join a greater crusade. We need their full cooperation in our campaign of enlightenment. Women are becoming more and more interested in national problems and their participation is necessary in our fight against those who would destroy the principles of the constitution."

Miss Curtis to Aid Drive.

Mr. Wheeler's announcement followed his conference with Miss Cathrine Curtis of New York City, who broadcasts on economic issues over an eastern radio chain twice a week. Miss Curtis is in Chicago for the convention of the National Association of Women Lawyers at the Palmer house.

She will be the guest speaker at the association's banquet tonight when she will urge the members to join the Crusaders.

"The depression made women money conscious," Miss Curtis said, "and now they are becoming tax conscious.

"Women realize, too, that subversive influences are at work in this country, undermining the principles for which our forefathers fought. As a rule women have more time on their hands than have men and they can spend this time in no better way than "spreading the doctrines of Americanism. These doctrines should be spread in women's clubs and mothers should teach them to their children."

Tells How Women Can Help.

By joining the Crusaders, women can act on a united front against the deleterious effects of alien manifestations and propaganda, Miss Curtis stated.

"The constitution must be protected," she said "and patriotic groups throughout the country must be ever aware of those who would attack it. That is a woman's duty just as much as a man's duty. Women, who have not kept in touch with economic and political trends, should learn these fundamentals now.

3 ROBBERS GET $1,500 AND FLEE; 2 ARE CAUGHT

CRIMINAL COURT.

Phillip Mansfield, Phillip Ezell, and William Powell, sentenced to one year to life imprisonment for robbery by Acting Chief Justice Michael Feinberg of the Criminal court.

Two Negro robbers were captured yesterday a few minutes after they had terrorized a woman and nine men employes in the Pullman company offices in the Grand Central station at Harrison and Wells streets. The $1,587 they took was recovered.

The third Negro was identified by one of the victims as a member of a gang that obtained $1,200 in a robbery of the same offices three weeks ago.

The men arrested are Vincent Cotton, 20 years old, 4537 Calumet avenue, and Tony Jobe, 31, of 4034 South Parkway. Both were carrying loaded revolvers, but surrendered peaceably.

Three Negroes dashed into the offices during the lunch hour and shouted to the occupants to remain quiet. Two forced Miss Margaret O'Brien, a stenographer, and seven other employes into a vault. The third approached G. A. Langehennig, district superintendent, and William F. McGuffage, the cashier, who were counting the receipts. The robber obliged McGuffage to surrender the money.

As the three men fled, McGuffage followed and hailed Sergt. Dennis Flynn with a squad of Central station police. The police cornered two of the men on an elevated station platform, but the third escaped.

DOCTORS ROBBED; 4 HELD TRYING TO SELL LOOT BACK

A 16 year old burglary suspect and three adult accomplices were arrested by policemen of the Racine avenue district yesterday after the men attempted to collect $300 for the return of dental gold and surgical instruments stolen in the morning from professional offices in a building at 801 Milwaukee avenue.

Dr. Edwin Pacheco, dentist, and Dr. Mund Morse, physician, the victims of the burglary, received a telephone call offering the property stolen, valued at $600, for less than a fourth of its value. The doctors made an appointment with the caller, promising to meet them at the entrance. They then notified the police and Sergts. Joseph Ponicki and Edward Kennedy, disguising themselves as street repair men, waited near the entrance.

Samuel Terese, 32 years old, 2106 North Keystone avenue, and John Przegacznik, 20 years old, 1447 Fry street, appeared with the loot and were seized. Joseph Furmanski, 26 years old, 834 North Racine avenue, who had accompanied them and halted a short distance away, also was arrested. The trio confessed and declared that Theodore Fabian, 16 years old, 1355 Bradley place, was the actual thief. He was taken into custody at his home.

RESISTS BANDIT; IS SHOT.

Grappling with a hatless and coatless bandit who tried to rob him at North Shore and Newgard avenues yesterday, Otto Neubauer, 33 years old, 2030 North California avenue, a milkman, was shot in the groin and seriously wounded early yesterday.

"HAIR ROOTS" never DIE!

H—HAIR SHAFT. P—PAPILLA from which the hair is nourished. The papilla is the "mother of hair" and from it new hair is born as the old hair falls out—IF the scalp is healthy. The Thomas' make unhealthy scalps healthy.

YOU men who have thinning hair or who are bald perhaps have been told that because your hair "roots" are dead you can never enjoy a healthy growth of hair. This is untrue, as the hair grows not from roots that come out when the hair comes out, but from papillae that are alive in the scalp as long as the body itself lives. These minute organs of hair production become inactive and do not grow new hair when the scalp is lacking in proper nourishment and stimulation.

New Growth of Hair Is Possible

The Thomas treatment removes all scalp disorders, including dandruff and falling hair, and promotes a growth of new hair visible on the scalp generally within a few weeks. With this distinctive seventeen-year proven method available you cannot afford to waste your time and money on experimental treatments and remedies. Nor can you afford to impair your personal appearance by remaining bald or partially bald. The Thomas' positively remove all scalp disorders and re-grow hair.

WRANGLE OVER NRA REVEALED; JOHNSON WINS

Miss Perkins, Richberg in Controversy.

[Copyright: 1934: By the Associated Press.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—A complete tactical victory for Hugh S. Johnson, leaving him the undisputed boss at NRA, is the outcome of an intense personal wrangle with Secretary Perkins and Donald Richberg over plans for reorganizing the Blue Eagle agency.

So deeply did the controversy run, it was learned today, that the blustery general stormed out of a White House conference, charging efforts to oust him. He later resigned in writing, only to reconsider at the earnest persuasion of President Roosevelt.

All this happened last week, creating a situation that caused Mr. Roosevelt to return to Washington after Speaker Rainey's funeral in Illinois and seek to settle the quarrel instead of going directly to Hyde Park, as he had planned.

Johnson May Head Board.

As the situation shaped up today the following results predominated:

Johnson will remain as National Recovery administrator and very likely will head the board which later is to take charge of NRA.

Richberg will continue, for the time being at least, as NRA counsel, with an understanding that Johnson is the chief of that agency. Later Richberg probably will be given a key post in the recovery campaign, probably that of head of the national emergency council.

Miss Perkins in the future probably will confine her work more closely to the activities of her own department.

In other words, President Roosevelt, with a profound admiration for both Miss Perkins and Richberg—a respect not in the least affected by the events of the last week—has worked out a plan which will keep them from stepping on the sensitive toes of the impetuous general.

Dispute at White House.

The dispute, dormant for weeks which precipitated these moves on the chessboard of the recovery campaign, found its expression in direct language at the White House one week ago today.

Miss Perkins and Richberg had submitted a plan for the reorganization of NRA which Johnson interpreted as aimed at his own retirement to private life. Without mincing words he told the President what he thought of it.

Present were both Miss Perkins and Richberg. Denials and argument followed. Mr. Roosevelt suggested that Johnson, in view of long months of unremitting labor, take a real rest, go abroad and study recovery efforts there.

That lit the fuse of Johnson's wrath. Angrily asserting he would do no such thing, he strode brusquely from the room. Later Miss Perkins and Richberg slipped out by a side entrance, evading newsmen.

Writes Bluntly He'll Quit.

The President was retiring late that night when a messenger brought a special message from Johnson. Its three typewritten pages recalled Johnson's work for NRA, listed in unvarnished language his opinion of his enemies, and bluntly stated his determination to quit.

Mr. Roosevelt called for pen and paper and replied immediately, reiterating his regard for Johnson, asking that the resignation be withdrawn.

Next day Mr. Roosevelt left for the funeral of Speaker Rainey. Back in Washington, he called for Johnson at once, and in the interview the breach was closed.

FIRE DESTROYS OLD BEEF PLANT IN PACKINGTOWN

Fire attacked two buildings of Armour & Co. in the heart of Packingtown yesterday afternoon, causing damage estimated by company officials at less than $25,000. One of the buildings, four stories high, fronts on Packers avenue at 43d street. Directly to the rear is a three story brick building, formerly used as a slaughter house, but now abandoned preparatory to rebuilding.

The blaze, believed to have been started by faulty wiring, broke out in the third floor of the latter building and spread to the top floor of the other building, which was being used as a wholesale and retail market. A quantity of packed beef was stored there.

Firemen sounded a 5-11 alarm, bringing additional apparatus because of a northwest wind. Extension ladders were raised from Packers avenue and hose lines strung to the roofs of the two buildings, where the blaze was brought under control. Fifteen hundred head of cattle, quartered there preparatory to slaughter in two buildings adjoining to the north, were driven over elevated runways to other buildings.

PRESIDENT SEES CADETS PARADE AT WEST POINT

Roosevelt Compliments Future Officers.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 27.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt this afternoon reviewed the cadet corps at West Point in a colorful full dress parade that brought the Presidential compliment of "well done" for Cadet Commander Herbert C. Gee.

It was the first time a President had visited the United States military academy since the administration of Warren G. Harding, some twelve years ago, and everybody on the reservation from plebe to superintendent of the post participated with an obvious effort to make the show a good one.

21 Gun Salute Fired.

Maj. Gen. William D. Connor, superintendent of the West Point army post, joined the President at the south entrance gate as a cavalry escort stood at attention and the bugler sounded "To the Colors." All detachments of the post lined the approach to the parade ground and stood at attention as the President's motorcade filed through. A salute of 21 guns was fired.

On the plain the President's car was parked across the drive from the cadet barracks and the band filed out to begin the ceremony with the playing of the national anthem. Then came the corps, three classes or about 900 men, the second year men being on summer leave. They made a brilliant spectacle with their summer uniforms of full dress white against a green background of trees and the marching field.

President Stands in Car.

Col. Simon Bolivar Buckner, commandant of the cadets, presented the regiment in formation and received the President's salute, after which Commander Gee presented the officers of the corps and the parade was on. The President stood in the rear of his open car beside General Connor.

The President and Mrs. Roosevelt, who accompanied him on a 200 mile automobile tour of the countryside during the day, accepted an invitation to tea at the home of Mrs. Connor, wife of the superintendent. Tea was served in the garden of the home, but the President remained in his car under the cherry trees in the driveway.

Visits Institutions.

The long drive through the countryside across the Hudson took the President's party on a tour of inspection of two correctional institutions recently completed, but planned under his administration as governor of New York. These were the Wallkill state prison, which is without walls, and is operated on the principal of "rehabilitation through education," and the New York State Training School for Boys.

The President returned to his mother's home here after the West Point parade, and went to work on the bundles of reports he brought with him from Washington.

Broken Bow, Neb., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Joseph A. Mattox, 56, and two daughters, Ellen, 32, and Mable, 14, were killed at Dunning, Neb., today when their automobile was struck by a freight train.

HE CHARTERS A BOAT TO TELL HIS FELLOW FISHERMEN GOOD-BY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Harvey C. Couch chartered an entire Potomac river excursion boat tonight for a real good-by to his fellow workers at the RFC—from now on he's going to have some time to fish by his fishing calendar.

In two and a half years here as an RFC director, the blue eyed, square shouldered Arkansan has been famed as hog caller and fisherman as well as financier.

His farewell fete afloat honors all three capacities as it steams between banks where his friends often fish according to his special piscatorial calendars, and provides a program enlivened by the loud "coo-ees!" of a hog calling contest.

Even though he hasn't had much fishing time himself, Couch has kept always on hand a supply of fishing calendars, a New England product, showing in big black figures the days when the fish will bite; in tiny thin figures the days when they won't, and in-between figures the day when they might, from fair through middling to pretty good.

CHILDREN EARN MONEY TO GIVE FREE ICE FUND

Several children are among the most recent contributors to the Free Ice fund sponsored by THE TRIBUNE and distributed to needy homes throughout the city by the United Charities. Even on cool days such as have prevailed in Chicago recently ice is needed for invalids and children to insure the freshness of their milk.

Among the contributions received yesterday were the proceeds of an entertainment given by the children of the Dorchester apartment hotel, Hyde Park boulevard at Dorchester avenue, totaling $5.40; a gift of $5 from Ann Helena Kuhn, 11 years old; and $1.80, which was earned by Edith Anna Wetzell, 2548 East 78th street, Eileen Gunning, 7734 Colfax avenue, and Betty Jane Waxman, 7750 Colfax avenue. A total of $12.20 was thus added to a previously acknowledged sum of $6,625.01, making a grand total to date of $6,637.21.

Contributions to THE TRIBUNE'S Free Ice fund or to the fund for Camp Algonquin, where mothers and children from crowded districts go for free vacations, may be sent to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower, and will be acknowledged in the columns of this newspaper.

Mrs. Martha Donaldson's Divorce Decree Is Signed

Superior Judge Joseph Sabath yesterday signed the decree of an uncontested divorce granted several days ago to Mrs. Martha Best Donaldson, former wife of Robert K. Donaldson and a niece of the late A. Starr Best, clothing merchant. The divorce bill charged desertion, saying the couple had been married April 19, 1933, and separated Oct. 22 of the same year. No alimony was asked.

ELGIN WOMAN OBSERVES 103D BIRTHDAY TODAY

Mrs. Calista Fowler will celebrate the 103d anniversary of her birth today in the Elgin Old People's home, where she has lived for 23 years.

Despite her age Mrs. Fowler is in good health. She takes a lively interest in national affairs and has voted for every Republican candidate for President since women were permitted to go to the polls.

Born Aug. 28, 1831, at Conneaut, Pa., Mrs. Fowler came to Batavia at the age of 20. She has never moved from that section of the state and for the last 60 years has lived in Elgin. She married Milo C. Fowler in Batavia in 1855. He died two years later. She never remarried and has no children.

The birthday party is sponsored by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Grace Methodist church, of which Mrs. Fowler has been a member since 1882.

WOMEN PRINTERS BACK CULLEN IN CODE OPPOSITION

Charge Competitors Hide Behind Eagle.

Upholding T. J. Cullen, owner of the United States Law Printing company, which was bombed last week after he refused to alter his stand against NRA code price fixing, are two women who operate the State Law Printing company at 173 West Madison street.

"We have not signed away any of our constitutional rights," said Miss Angela Benvenuti, the vice president, referring to the legal printing code, "and we have no intention of doing so. By 'we' I mean myself and Mary Dupre, who is the president of our company.

Obey Wage Provisions.

"Mr. Cullen is absolutely right. We stand with him. We also abide faithfully by the maximum hourly and minimum wage provisions of the President's reemployment agreement, and we pay more than code wages. At the start, we had a representative out quoting a price of $1.12 a page, until we found that a competitor of ours, who sits on the code board that fixed this price, was making sales at 75 cents a page.

"We have always had enough competition, but it's a great deal worse now that certain competitors hide behind the Blue Eagle. Our price is now 90 cents a page, not $1.12."

Denounces Shop Bombing.

Miss Benvenuti termed the bombing of Cullen's printing shop "about the lowest thing imaginable." The State Law Printing company and the Chicago Law Printing company, which also refused to sign the code, offered Cullen the use of their equipment to get out his orders. None of the others volunteered aid.

"It took some one in the law printing business to know just when a bomb would interfere the most with his work," said Miss Benvenuti. "No one else would know the periods of court and their relation to the business."

Meanwhile Mr. Cullen was still awaiting an acknowledgment of his telegram to President Roosevelt appealing that steps be taken to end terroristic tactics.

DIES OF BLOOD POISONING.

Frederick Jelinck, 54 years old, 2131 South Albany avenue, died in the Alexian Brothers hospital yesterday of blood poisoning which followed an injury to his right hand incurred while he was working at the Garden City Brewing company's plant, 2117 South Albany avenue.

REMOVE HALF SMALL INTESTINE TO RELIEVE LIVER OF EXTRA TOIL

Removal of half of the small intestine, about ten feet, in an operation probably never attempted before in this country, was successfully accomplished yesterday at Frances E. Willard hospital, 645 South Central avenue. The patient is Gordon D. Crane, 32 years old, 4616 Sheridan road and the surgeon Dr. Otis M. Walter, chief of staf of the hospital assisted by several members of the staf. The patient, according to the hospital, is on the road to recovery.

DR. O. M. WALTER

The operation was decided upon after it was discovered that the patient was suffering from an unusual but advanced form of cirrhosis of the liver which made it unable to accept the amount of blood it received. It was decided, on advice from high medical authorities at Northwestern and University of Chicago medical schools, to remove enough of the intestine to reduce the amount of blood going to the liver.

PRESIDENT'S AID WEARS BRACES OFF A PORTER

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Aug. 27.—[Special.]—The precise and brilliant pageant which is a West Point review was saved from a horrible embarrassment on the part of the President's military aid, Col. Edmund M. Watson, by the heroic sacrifice of a lowly Pullman porter.

Col. Watson, a native of Virginia, was hurriedly summoned to Hyde Park by telephonic command from the President. To his great mortification he learned, upon donning his gold braided full dress uniform this morning, that he had not packed his suspenders.

The colonel called the porter, inquired, and found that he did not carry a line of suspenders.

"Take off those you have on and take this buck," commanded the colonel. George did.

ASSERTS LEGION WON'T SEEK TO DRAIN TREASURY

The American Legion will continue to oppose unreasonable demands by veterans on the public treasury, a group attending the commanders' dinner at the 16th annual convention of the Indiana American Legion at Gary were told last night by the Rev. Robert J. White of Boston, national chaplain of the Legion. His address and those of Gov. Paul V. McNutt and Commander V. M. Armstrong of Indianapolis followed a parade during the day which lasted for two and a half hours.

"Your duty is to be disabled," declared Father White. "We shall expose those demagogs who would corrupt you.

"The American Legion has no duty to meddle in the silver question or to try to open up the markets of India. It has a duty and will continue to expose those Reds who would lure the American workingman to false hope through overthrow of government."

Denounces "Greedy Industrialist."

Father White asserted that the greedy industrialist who "digs himself in" for a final battle for restoration of the old order and the labor leader who seizes upon this emergency to "bludgeon unjust gains through the weapon of the general strike are equally guilty of treason."

He was heard by 500 of the 3,000 who paraded with floats and 30 drum and bugle corps.

Results of several membership contests of the Indiana Legion since the 1933 convention were given out with the awarding of trophies to winners yesterday.

The Ralph Gates trophy for the largest percentage of membership gained since 1933 went to the Lakeville post. The Floyd Young trophy, in a similar contest, went to the post of Sullivan. The Ollie Davis trophy for community service and post activity was won by Frankfort. Lake county district No. 1 received the Raymond Springer trophy for membership gains.

See Move Against Kossa.

Interest in the election of a new state commander at this morning's final business meeting continued to grow yesterday and last night. Frank Kossa, Jeffersonville, remained the most prominently mentioned candidate. Political gossip indicated, however, that a strong movement is afoot to defeat Kossa, and that Gov. McNutt, a past national commander of the Legion, may be prevailed on to shift his support from Judge Cleon Mount of Tipton to Samuel Cleland, Fort Wayne, at the last minute in an attempt to beat Kossa. Meanwhile the southern Indianans backing Kossa are reported grooming a dark horse, William Waddle of Orleans to sponsor in case of a deadlock.

By a vote of 7 to 2 the committee appointed to select next year's convention city chose Bloomington, home town of Gov. McNutt. Indianapolis and Muncie were close contenders. The committee's recommendation will be submitted to the convention for action today.

FOUR REPORTED INDICTED IN 'RIDE' GIVEN CONSTABLE

Four men were reported named in true bills voted by the grand jury yesterday charging assault to murder in the shooting Aug. 10 of Constable John Griffin, 25 years old, a Bellwood constable. Griffin is recovering in the Frances Willard hospital.

Edward Deveau, 24 years old; Charles Kunowski, alias Casey, 25 years old; Frank Estes, alias Joseph Piraino, 24 years old, and Harold Clifford are the four reported named. All except Deveau are in custody.

According to Assistant State's Attorney Gordon Nash, Clifford confessed his part in the attack on Griffin. The constable was thrown in a car after the shooting in a Melrose Park saloon and was hauled off to be buried. When his assailants went for a spade to dig his grave he recovered enough strength to drive his car to a Cicero fire station for help.

SENATOR ASSAILS ARMS MAKERS IN ADDRESS AT FAIR

The profits in the manufacture of munitions and the "greediness of the dominant industrialists and financiers in this field" are the prime causes of war, Senator Gerald P. Nye, chairman of the senatorial investigation committee on munitions, told a World's Fair audience last night.

Speaking before 400 persons in the Illinois host house, Senator Nye read a tabulation of the profits made during times of peace and war.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

The court of beauty of A Century of Progress—Patricia Marquam, Dorothy Le Fold, and Kay Griffith—were greeted yesterday at the city hall by Assistant Corporation Counsel Quin O'Brien, in the absence of Mayor Kelly. They have just completed a good will tour of the middle west as emissaries of the Fair. The queens were then escorted to the Fair, where they were thanked for their work by E. Ross Bartley, assistant to the general manager, and U. Grant Smith, chief of protocol of the Fair. After making appearances at the Wilson, Firestone, and Studebaker exhibits the beauty queens were guests of the Fair at a luncheon in the directors' room in the Administration building.

Bainbridge Colby, secretary of state during the Wilson administration, arrived in Chicago yesterday on the Twentieth Century and spent several hours at the Fair.

A pie eating contest for the monkeys in Frank Buck's jungle camp on the Midway will be staged at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The pies are to be banana cream, than which nothing is dearer to monkey hearts, according to Mr. Buck. Two hundred pies will be divided among the 400 monkeys.

The Federation of Epworth Leagues of Chicago will assemble at the Fair tomorrow to celebrate Epworth League day. The members will listen to an address on "Progress of A Century" by Roy H. Sorenson at 9:30 a. m. in the Illinois Host House. After a day of sightseeing they will reassemble in the Court of States for a formal program at 7 p. m.

Forefathers' day was observed at the Fair yesterday under the auspices of the American Genealogical society, with representatives of various patriotic societies taking part. Seven hundred persons gathered in the Court of States to listen to the program, under the chairmanship of United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker. Speakers included Mrs. Julian Goodhue, state regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution and Mrs. Arthur J. O'Neil, national treasurer of the Daughters of 1812.

Investigators from the city health department last night ordered the Rutledge tavern closed because of alleged unsanitary conditions. Mrs. Abe Raynor, manageress of the concession, was notified late in the afternoon and agreed to the closing order.

Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia of New York City will make the principal address at the Labor day program next Monday. He is scheduled to speak in the Court of States at 3 p. m. Other speakers will be United States Senator C. C. Dill, of Washington and Henry Goddard Leach, editor of The Forum at Washington, D. C. Senator Dill will speak on "Freedom of Speech for Radio and Press."

The Chicago and North Western railway Sunday brought its largest Fair excursion to Chicago when 1,726 people arrived on a special train from Dixon, Franklin Grove, and Ashton, Ill.

FAIR ATTENDANCE EXCEEDS 100,000 FOR THE 11TH DAY

Attendance at the World's Fair passed the 100,000 mark for the eleventh consecutive day yesterday, and nearly exceeded the highest Monday of the year. At midnight 119,285 paid admissions had been recorded as compared with 120,712, the record for the day, established last Monday.

With two exceptions, last Friday and yesterday, each day for nine days has broken previous attendance records for the corresponding day of the week. The all time high for the 1934 Exposition, 214,119, reached Sunday, also was more than a thousand ahead of the corresponding Sunday of the 1933 Fair.

Indiana Legion Day Today.

The Hoosiers will come to the Fair today, bringing as honor guest Gov. Paul V. McNutt and a parade of twenty musical organizations with a total of more than seven hundred pieces. Officially the day is Indiana Legion day, but all of Indiana has been invited to participate, and officials predict a large turnout.

One other feature will add to the lure of today's Fair. That will be the appearance of La Banda Milizia Fascista Nazionale, popularly known as Mussolini's Black Shirts, for their first full day at the Fair.

Italian Band Gives Program.

The Black Shirts arrived in Chicago over the Pennsylvania railroad at 6:30 o'clock last night, and were welcomed in the Court of Honor at the 14th street gate at 7:45. The Black Horse troop and military units from Camp Roosevelt, combined with the seventy-five members of the band, dressed in full dress uniforms, made a stirring scene in the spacious court.

Following a reception by Fair officials the band was escorted to the Court of States for its first Fair program.

FIRM OFFICIAL AVERTS HOLDUP, SHOT FOUR TIMES

Nat Tucker, 40 years old, 4902 North Springfield avenue, sales manager for the Kayo Distributing company, 1943 Walnut street, was taken to the West Side hospital in a serious condition yesterday, suffering from four bullet wounds in the thighs inflicted by one of four men who attempted to rob the office. Tucker had slammed shut an iron barred door to the office upon seeing the armed men approach, and was shot because the strategy frustrated the robbery. The four men fled in an automobile reported stolen several days ago from Edward Edelman of Decatur.

14 Pistols Stolen from Crime Exhibit at Fair

Fourteen pistols on display in the crime exhibit at the Midway Arcade on Northerly Island at the World's Fair were stolen yesterday. Twelve of the weapons were part of the collection of Col. Calvin Goddard, ballistic expert, who lent them to the concession. One revolver was reported to have been used by the late Dion O'Banion, north side gangster, and another in the St. Valentine's day massacre. The case in which the guns were kept was not locked, but guards were on duty.

You'll Get that Moose in CANADA!

An autumn haze on the lake... paddles dip quietly. Up ahead a loon shatters the dead quiet... then silence again. Nerves are tense... what's around the next bend?

Your guide calls his weird call... echoes answer. Finger itches on trigger... Listen! A crashing in the bushes... Nearer!... Then suddenly silhouetted against the sky...

There's your moose!... A bull as big as a house, and a spread of antlers that makes you gasp. The great head turns slowly toward you... What a target... and what a moment!

Around the fire your guide tells tall stories... you dream of the one you'll tell the boys at the club when you get home... That supper of trout was great... and bed sounds pretty good.

Moose in large numbers are taken out of the Canadian woods every year. Or you may prefer smaller game. Great stretches of unspoiled hunting country are less than a day's travel from big cities.

Write us what sort of trip you are planning: what you are after, how long you can spend, when you are coming. We will supply you with details as to the best places to go, names of guides and outfitters, routes, and approximate cost.

"Listen, Stan... while I explain what Old Gold's throat-ease means"

"Now, you take this cigarette, see?"

"Who—me?"

"Certainly—you! Now, that's an Old Gold cigarette—understand?"

"Uh huh."

"Be quiet and listen, will you? Now, Old Golds are made from pure tobacco, see? Nothing but the choicest and mildest Turkish and domestic tobaccos, see? So naturally they not only taste better but they keep the throat free from irritation. Throat-ease is important to anybody!—especially to a celebrated screen artist such as . . . er . . ."

"Who—me?"

"Certainly not! But you will be a happier smoker when your throat gets the thrill of smooth as satin Old Golds."

•

Mr. Hardy might have put it this way, Mr. Laurel:—

No better tobacco grows than is used in Old Gold. And it's pure. (No artificial flavoring.) That's why Old Golds are easy on THROAT and NERVES.

CLAIM JAPANESE MAKE ARRESTS OF SOVIET CITIZENS

MOSCOW, Aug. 27. — (AP) — Soviet newspapers published charges today that Japanese gendarmes are arresting Russian citizens in the state of Manchukuo. Heretofore arrests of Russian employes of the Chinese Eastern railway have been made by Manchurian and white guard policemen. Reports that Japanese officials have taken a direct hand in the turbulent affairs of the railroad caused concern here.

Russian dispatches from Khabarovsk, Siberia, stated that relatives of the soviet citizens arrested are greatly worried because of alleged brutal treatment of the prisoners. It was charged they were beaten with sticks and forced to sign statements that they acted under instructions from the soviet far eastern red army in the promotion of wrecks, disorders and banditry along the railroad line.

A Tass [Russian] news agency dispatch from Khabarovsk stated that Harbin newspapers are continuing a campaign of "calumny" against soviet citizens, urging that major as well as minor Russian employes of the Chinese Eastern railway be arrested. The opinion has developed that the strained feeling may make it impossible to resume negotiations in the near future for sale of the Chinese Eastern railway, although there is only approximately $8,000,000 between Manchukuo's bid for the railway and the offer made by the soviet union.

Japs Blame Red Intrigue.

TOKIO, Aug. 27.—(AP)—The Japanese government charged today that the Third Internationale is responsible for fomenting from Moscow intrigues against Japan involving train wrecks in Manchukuo on the Chinese Eastern railway.

A foreign office spokesman said 30 soviet employés of the railroad, arrested in Manchukuo, "will be tried in two sets on charges of train wreckings and intrigues against Manchukuo and Japan, at the behest of the Third Internationale.

"Some of their confessions showed involvement of the Third Internationale, according to official information reaching Tokio," he asserted.

Officials Pack Bags.

Meanwhile, the Tokio foreign office learned that some high soviet officials of the Chinese Eastern railway are "packing their bags." It was not known whether this was due to fears of drastic action by Japan and Manchukuo, or if Moscow intends to change its representatives in the hope of bettering the situation.

Exchanges, protests, and threats between Tokio and Moscow apparently have reached the stage where each is merely pigeonholing the other's protests and shooting back some form of counter-blast without the usual diplomatic niceties of formal acknowledgements and replies.

That the conflict is in no immediate danger of passing from the stage of newspaper attacks and foreign office statements was the opinion of authoritative non-Japanese military experts.

They agreed that there are no indications Japanese troops are moving from Japan to Manchukuo or within Manchukuo itself toward Siberian borders.

PAGEANT TELLS HISTORY OF THE IRISH TONIGHT

Final Rehersal Is Held in Soldiers' Field.

Americans of Irish, Highland Scot, and Welsh descent will have an opportunity to exult in their Celtic heritage tonight and tomorrow night when "The Pageant of the Celt" is produced in Soldiers' field.

Finishing touches to the spectacle were made last night at a final dress rehersal, Soldiers' field assuming for the occasion the appearance of a vast motion picture lot, with megaphoned directors running about and 500 dancers bobbing like puppets on the green grass stage.

Legends to Be Reenacted.

Staged in nine episodes, the pageant will depict the history of the Celtic peoples from the pre-Christian era down to the days of the present Irish Free State.

All the famous legends are reenacted—the coming of Scota, Amazonian queen of the Milesians; the deaths of Eire, Fodla, and Banbha, sons of Lir, all of whom gave their names to Ireland; the advent of Cuchullin, mighty hero of the Irish people; the arrival of St. Patrick and the dawn of Christianity, and the conquest of Norse invaders at the battle of Clontarf by Brian Boru.

The music accompanying all the episodes is made up of traditional Irish airs, with solo parts taken by Denis Cox, Irish baritone, and choral work done by a chorus of 1,000 voices.

Authentic Costumes Prepared.

Four Celtic musical groups will make up the massed chorus. They are the Pageant of the Celt Chorus, under Frank Breen; the Chicago Scottish Choral society, under George Calder; the Welsh Male choir, under Robert Gomer Jones, and the Irish Singing and Dramatic society, under Clement C. Hutter.

Emphasis has been paid to the authenticity of the costumes, designs for which have been furnished by the Irish Costume society, an organization devoted to the study of the historical dress of Ireland.

Through the coöperation of Mayor Kelly, who is a member of the pageant executive committee, Chicago's Black Horse troop will add color to the evening, forming a cavalcade of honor for notable guests who are expected to attend.

HUEY FINISHES GROUP TO QUIZ NEW ORLEANS

Would Know Secrets of Officials.

New Orleans, La., Aug. 27.—[Special.]—The Huey Long legislative committee to investigate the city of New Orleans was completed today. Senator Long announced: "I intend to get after those grafting officials in New Orleans in a few days; the committee will look into their bank accounts, bank boxes, personal fortunes."

Four house members of the committee previously were named and four senators were selected today. Coincident with the latter action a truck backed up to the federal building here and the books of the highway commission for the years that Senator Long was governor were unloaded. Those were the fat years wher nearly $70,000,000 was spent ostensibly to build roads.

Chairman Briefly Questioned.

A. P. Tugwell, chairman of the highway commission, came with the books and was before the grand jury a short while. The grand jury kept the records for further investigation.

Efforts of anti-Long forces to see the registration books in the parish of St. Bernard, which once gave Senator Long more votes than the census gave the parish population, were futile. All of the officials of that parish who had access to the books were absent when a demand was made to see the registration. Some had gone fishing; others were on vacation. Still others were just rambling around.

Gathers Guards for Polls.

The committee of 100, which is enlisting recruits to guard the polls in New Orleans on Sept. 11, reported what it called "unprecedented success" today. The recruiting headquarters was crowded with volunteers. The mails contained hundreds of other applications.

KLAN FIGHTS HUEY

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 27.—(AP)—The campaign of the Ku Klux Klan to unseat Senator Huey Long was reported well under way today. It is under direction of the Louisiana klan officers, but with advice on the "method of operation" from national headquarters here.

Dr. Hiram W. Evans, imperial wizard, recently called the "Kingfish" "a menace to organized society," promising his defeat at the polls. The senator threatened to send Dr. Evans, "with his toes turned up," out of Louisiana if the imperial wizard appeared there.

Wizard May Visit State.

"When Louisiana klansmen decide they need a visit from the imperial wizard he will come," one of Dr. Evans' associates said.

The klan's fight against Senator Long is being carried on by eighty-five Louisiana lodges with a membership of approximately 38,000, it was said here. An official added:

"The klansmen are organizing citizens of that state so decent people of Louisiana will be able to cope with the bombastic attitude of Mr. Long and his machine."

HONOR CARTIER IN CANADA; STONE CROSS UNVEILED

Landed at Gaspe Bay 400 Years Ago.

GASPE, Que., Aug. 27.—(AP)—A tribute to the intrepid adventurer who brought civilization to this part of North America, a stone cross stood today on a knoll in the center of this little town overlooking the historic Gaspe bay where Jacques Cartier dropped anchor 400 years ago.

The huge cross, hewn from stone taken from a quarry in St. Malo, the little French town from which Cartier and his band set sail in search of new lands, was unveiled before representatives of four nations by the prime minister, R. B. Bennett.

With delegates from France, the United States, Great Britain and Canada gathered here to pay homage to Cartier on the 400th anniversary of his epoch making discovery, the prime minister unveiled the great cross in memory of the cross that was planted by the first white man to set foot on these shores so many years ago.

Warren Delano Robbins, United States minister, represented the United States, and the Rev. Fr. Victor Boisrd acted for Cardinal Verdier, archbishop of Paris.

French Writers Welcomed.

QUEBEC, Que., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Distinguished Canadian journalists welcomed their confrères from France today at the opening session of the French press conference being held in the chambers of the Quebec legislative council in conjunction with the fourth centenary Jacques Cartier celebrations.

Before a gathering of notable personalities in the world of arts and letters, Henri Gagnon, president of the Canadian Press, and managing director of Le Soleil, Quebec, tendered the official welcome of Canadian journalism to the goodwill party of French writers.

Greetings Exchanged.

The English press of the dominion was represented by E. Norman Smith, honorary president of the Canadian Press, and vice president of the Ottawa Journal, who voiced the welcome of the English speaking newspaper World of Canada to their French colleagues from abroad.

The greetings of the press of France to that of Canada were brought by Paul Marchandeau, deputy mayor of Rheims, former minister, director of L'Eclaireur de L'est and president of the French Press delegation committee.

IRISH BLUE SHIRT CHIEF FORBIDDEN TO ENTER ULSTER

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Aug. 27.—(AP)—The government today issued an order prohibiting Gen. Owen O'Duffy, Blue Shirt leader in the Irish Free State, from entering Northern Ireland following upon reports that the general's followers intended to intensify their activities throughout the island.

A similar ban already is in force against Eamon de Valera and Sean T. O'Kelly, president and vice president of the Free State.

Ulster officials, it is understood, intend to prevent any Free State political moves being carried on here. Sir Dawson Bates, home secretary, recently charged that O'Duffy had defied the North Ireland government and asserted O'Duffy is trying to cause the downfall of this government.

Today's ban followed closely upon a statement by Viscount Craigavon, premier of Ulster, that a united Ireland is "not only impossible but unthinkable and from the highest imperial interests undesirable."

FISH TURN ON ALL LIGHTS AS BEEBE MAKES NEW DIVE

Descends 1,500 Feet in Ocean Off Bermuda.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Dr. William Beebe and Otis Barton, American scientists, reported that they were bombarded by lights today as they made a descent 1,508 feet into the ocean off this port.

Apparently the strange dwellers of the ocean depths, whose habits the scientists are studying, resented the invasion of their realm by the bathysphere, a steel diving device invented by Barton. Tiny creatures which swam about with great rapidity, hurled themselves against the steel ball and emitted flashes of light on impact.

The scientists, who recently made a record dive of 3,028 feet, went down today with special photographic equipment to take still pictures. Previous efforts to take good pictures were unsuccessful, and bad luck in this respect accompanied them on their dive today.

Bulbs Blind Barton.

As they neared their maximum depth a short circuit in a battery caused four flashlight bulbs to explode in Barton's face. He was scared, and blinded for a few minutes. But he was uninjured and he remained below the surface nearly an hour and a half.

The scientists said that, peering out of their quartz windows they saw distinctly a large jellyfish with tiny lights evenly distributed all over its body. Along the spinal column of another fish, not as yet identified, was a regular row of lights, which gave the witnesses the impression they were seeing a distant street at night.

Two large myctophids [lantern fish], chasing each other around playfully, stopped their game when they saw the bathysphere. They inspected the quartz peephole of the scientists and their curiosity apparently satisfied, resumed their gambols.

Many New Specimens.

Many other specimens of deep sea life were seen for the first time, and descriptions of them were telephoned to the tug from which the bathysphere was suspended. Dr. Beebe hopes to classify some of these creatures in his laboratory tomorrow.

The leptocephalus, a ribbon-like baby eel, was much in evidence. Another creature seen was a small devil fish with a mouth of vicious appearance, a body like an inflated balloon and a tiny tail.

Dr. Beebe made a second dive to confirm certain observations. As the bathysphere was brought to the surface it was bufeted against the tug by a heavy swell. A small cable was broken and one of the smaller instruments was shattered. Damage was slight and no one was injured. The scientists planned to make more dives later this week.

GIRL ENDURANCE FLYER'S MOTHER ARRIVES TO HELP

Supervises Preparing of Their Food.

Mrs. B. W. Owens, whose daughter, Mary, and Jean La Rene have been soaring over the Curtiss-Reynolds airport at Glenview in quest of a new women's refueling endurance flight record, arrived at the airport from Fort Worth, Tex., yesterday.

"I'm here to stay until Mary and Jean come down with that new record," Mrs. Owens said. "I have a world of confidence in both girls. They have a lot of grit, they're crazy about flying, and if they don't tire or encounter accident they won't be down for a week."

Pass Fourth Day Aloft.

Mrs. Owens engaged a room in a farmhouse near the airport and from now on will supervise preparation of the girls' food and wardrobe, she said.

For the flyers yesterday was without important incident. By turns the two worked at repairing two small rips in the fuselage covering of the Lone Star, their Curtiss Thrush plane. The rents, caused by the flapping of the refueling hose during contacts, were mended with dope and fabric kept against such emergencies.

At 8:13 o'clock last night the flyers passed their fourth day aloft and gave no sign of wearying. It will be nearly a week before they exceed the women's record of 240 hours of continuous flight.

Warned of Coming Storm.

Warned of the approach of a storm from the north, the girls sent down word in the afternoon that they were storing up sleep to enable them to ride it through with clear heads. Their first experience with rough weather, only a few hours after they began their present assault on the record, pointed out the importance of keeping every faculty alert, they told their ground crew.

Yesterday's routine consisted of refueling contacts at 6:30 a. m. and on three other occasions during the day.

$150,000 DAMAGE VERDICT IS SET ASIDE BY JUDGE

Judge Frank M. Padden in Municipal court yesterday set aside the verdict of a jury which had awarded damages of $150,844 to William J. Cleary, veteran court reporter, against the Chicago Title and Trust company, for alleged violation of an escrow agreement. The verdict was returned June 29 after one of the longest civil cases on record in the Municipal court.

Cleary in his suit alleged that the trust company had failed to comply with an escrow agreement under which he was to receive $100,000 in bonds, $10,000 in cash, and a number of shares of stock. The trust company charged that no escrow agreement existed and that papers purporting to prove such an agreement were forged.

The case originated in 1927 when Cleary with several others entered into the alleged escrow in a deal involving real property, $200,000 in bonds, and $24,500 in cash.

Let's crack this subject of car buying WIDE OPEN

...again we urge you "DON'T BUY ANY CAR TOO HURRIEDLY"

You experienced car buyers know how well it pays to look around, drive several makes of cars and compare before you sign an order.

Yet even you, if you aren't watchful, may find yourself lured by "super-salesmanship" into a buy that you may regret. You may find that, by looking a little further, you could have bought a good deal more for the same money.

That's why Hudson and Terraplane dealers say to you: "Don't buy any car too hurriedly." We want you to be sure you're right, because then you're sure to be satisfied. And that's why the thousands of buyers of this year's Hudsons and Terraplanes are the most enthusiastic group of owners in Hudson's entire history. Can we prove that? Ask any one of them! They looked before they bought.

We will gladly give you facts about Hudson and Terraplane. Performance? We can show you the longest list of official AAA records held by any cars. Then you drive and judge for yourself. Ruggedness? Economy? Long life? You can see sworn affidavits of owners, and talk to as many as you like. Get facts like these, then get them about other cars—if you can.

Come in and let us help you get the facts you need before you decide.

Our Terraplane has been a real thrill from the very beginning. Among other things, I insisted on good, big, extra-wide doors—and the one place I could get them was in the Terraplane—or, of course, a Hudson.—DR. CLIFFORD U. COLLINS, Peoria, Ill.

I looked at the other new cars, and I liked the "knee action" idea, but when I found the Hudson Axleflex construction. I bought. I want a real front axle under me, and my Hudson gives me that and "knee action" smoothness too.—C. E. MacMAINS, Minneapolis.

WE LOOKED AT THE OTHERS BEFORE WE BOUGHT

When I saw the way you build that big double-steel Terraplane body and bolt it direct to the frame, I knew I'd found a car that would "stay put." Nothing like that on other cars I looked at.—W. J. CHURCHILL, Milwaukee, Wisc.

I've had cars before that were fast on the getaway, others that were fine for long trips and others that were pretty economical. But in my Hudson I've got the best that all of them had, plus a lot none of them had.—CHESTER LYTLE, Chicago, Ill.

"Give me but the liberty of the press and I will give to the minister a venal house of peers. I will give him a corrupt and servile house of commons. I will give him the full swing of the patronage of office. I will give him the whole host of ministerial influence. I will give him all the power that place can confer upon him, to purchase up submission and overawe resistance; and yet, armed with the liberty of the press, I will go forth to meet him undismayed. I will attack the mighty fabric of that mightier engine. I will shake down from its height corruption and bury it beneath the ruins of the abuses it was meant to shelter."
—Richard Brinsley Sheridan.

NOW THAT THE TEACHERS ARE BEING PAID—

The teachers are being paid.

Like most victories, this one looks easy now that it has been accomplished. The human tendency to underestimate difficulties after they have been overcome may be expected to operate in this matter as it has in countless others of greater and less magnitude. The schoolboy who knows how the civil war came out finds it difficult to believe that millions in the north despaired of victory even on the eve of Appomattox and were profoundly distrustful of their leaders.

Everybody, perhaps, should have known that the money to pay the teachers would be found and how it would be found, but the fact is that a year ago the general attitude was one of hopelessness. Various expedients had been tried but without success. Most of the citizens who had tackled the problem had given it up as beyond them. Mayor Kelly was the only man in high office in the community who had not yielded to the general despair. He had resolved to discharge the debt to the teachers and at no time would admit that the problem was beyond solution.

The victory must be attributed primarily to his fixity of purpose, and secondarily to his ingenuity and that of his advisers in hitting upon a practicable plan. His first move, when finally he obtained a majority of competent and courageous men on the school board, was to reduce school costs to accord with school income. By that stroke he made the school system of Chicago worthy of receiving credit. Before that no one would lend money to the schools on long term for the sufficient reason that the chances of repayment were too poor to warrant the risk.

It is worth recalling now that the reduction of school costs was achieved in the face of the most violent opposition from many persons, including many teachers, who insisted that what the mayor was doing would wreck the public schools of Chicago. It took courage to defy these elements; but courage is what Mayor Kelly had.

From the first he saw that the solution of the problem lay in improving the credit position of the school board. After the outlay had been reduced he turned to the other side of the ledger and sought means of increasing the income. The Skarda act was pushed through the legislature and brought increasing revenues to all the local governments. The legislature was induced later to make special provision for school income, fixing it at 44 million dollars for this year and 43 million dollars for next year.

Thereupon the mayor obtained authorization from the legislature for an issue of school bonds to finance its accumulated debts. Without the improvement in the budgetary position the authorization of the bonds would have been of no value because neither the government nor any private lender would have dared buy them. With a sound budget it was certain that sooner or later a lender could be found.

Years might have elapsed, however, before the money could have been borrowed had not the mayor discovered a way of hastening the rehabilitation of the schools' credit. He remembered that the school board holds title to immensely valuable real estate in the loop and elsewhere which is not used for school purposes. He obtained authority to pledge that property as additional security for a loan. Congress was induced to permit the Reconstruction Finance corporation to make loans on such security to school boards.

The rest was comparatively easy. If the government had not made the loan it is altogether probable that private lenders, even in the present disturbed condition of the money markets, would have come forward before many months with an acceptable offer for the bonds.

The mayor deserves great credit for the accomplishment. He saw from the start that the primary obstacle was the unbalanced school budget and he steadied away at that objective until it had been leveled. He refused to be intimidated and he refused to let those who were in charge of school affairs be intimidated. He knew that the credit of the school system could be and must be made sound and he made it sound.

It all seems easy and obvious now. But eighteen months ago, twelve months ago, six months ago, and even three months ago, few citizens would have ventured the forecast that every teacher in Chicago would be paid in full before Sept. 1.

MILWAUKEE ASKED FOR IT.

Milwaukee is getting just what it asked for in the rioting and disorder that prevails under the inaccurate classification as strikes.

To a great extent they are not strikes at all. The present period of attacks by roving terrorists on the many emergency relief projects has no justification as labor disputes. In these cases men who want to work only because they are self-respecting and would rather earn their support than accept it as alms are threatened and menaced.

Police have been needed constantly to protect the workers and on occasions deputies have had to use gas bombs to scatter those who interfered with them.

Milwaukee gets this because its public officials, headed by the Socialist Mayor Daniel Hoan, have openly invited and encouraged it. They have condoned disorder and no less have the courts when they dismissed with insignificant punishment offenders taken in open attacks on peace and property.

The way was prepared for this mocking at the law and the public during the electric company riots to which the mayor gave no official attention until, after several nights of general terror, he addressed a letter to the company. "You are witnessing the harvest of pentup public indignation which you yourself have aroused," he wrote. "The caging of your street cars with fence wire is an open invitation to violence."

The protective wiring was placed on the cars to save the lives of passengers and employes for whose safety the political officials raised no hand.

The mayor saw in the violations of the laws he had sworn to uphold and the jeopardizing of lives nothing more than an opportunity for a political paper. Rioters with no interest in union labor and less in the public service were brought into court after openly inciting to violence and mocking the police and freed or dismissed with a fine of a few dollars. It was described at the time as an invitation to raise hell and the invitation was promptly accepted.

City Attorney Max Raskin, also a Socialist, hurries to the Workers' council to sneer at the formation by citizens of a league to promote respect for law and order. He compliments the council on their organization, formed primarily to promote and increase discontent among those who are receiving public support.

As long as the administration sees actual violence and attacks on men and property as trifling offenses to be condoned and patted if they bear, however remotely or wrongly, the label of labor, the city can expect the law to be mocked.

The great need of such an organization as the League for Law and Order is being demonstrated daily and it should have public support. Such a league should no less have the support of organized labor, whose legitimate enterprises are being discredited by the uses to which irresponsible men are putting their name.

AN EPIC GAME.

More than well worth seeing will be the football game to be held under the auspices of THE TRIBUNE on Friday night at Soldiers' field. It will be historic as the first contest between amateur and professional players, and it will, moreover, be memorable as a struggle between athletic Titans. Allied against the rugged members of the Chicago Bears' team, the 1933 professional champions, will be the cream of last year's amateur players, the college All-Americans.

On the brilliantly lighted field, in the presence of thousands of spectators, the players will determine which is superior, the perfect technique of the veterans, gained from years of professional contests, or the "will-to-win" spirit of the youngsters, a remnant of their college games. Thus it will be much more than a game between the two finest college teams in the country, or between the two finest professional teams in the world. It will be more than the greatest football game ever played. It will be a contest between experience and youth, and all that the two imply. It will be an epic struggle.

A SMOOTH AFFAIR.

The robbery of an armored truck in Brooklyn netted the robbers $427,000. Three armed men were ostensibly guarding the truck. After the cash was taken they pursued the robbers' car "a short distance," shooting at the robbers. But no one was hurt in either party. The affair, police explain, was so carefully planned as to suggest the handiwork of a master mind like Gerald Chapman or Richard Whittemore. We think it suggests something else. An enterprise which collects a profit of nearly half a million, so agreeably and smoothly carried to its pleasant conclusion with no regrettable injuries to any of its visible participants, has the odor of political influence. The alliance of professional crime and corrupt professional politics knows how to produce circumstances in which "daring crimes" can be assured against vexatious interference.

WALLACE OR THE FARMERS!
[Peoria Transcript.]

When one group of 65 farms earns $2,846 per farm a year more than another group of 65 farms located in the same counties it is worth while to determine causes of the difference.

J. B. Andrews, accountant for 224 farms cooperating in the farm management service in Woodford, Tazewell, Livingston and Ford counties, has just completed his annual report for 1933 revealing these differences in income.

Mr. Andrews took the third highest producing farms and the third lowest producing units and made a thorough investigation of each group. Of the total difference of $2,846 per farm between the highest and lowest thirds, $968 was explained by greater crop yields.

The difference in efficiency with live stock accounted for $588 of the difference, selling grain in advantageous markets explained $173, savings on labor costs were responsible for $163, and lower costs for power and machinery explained $131 of the difference.

From this report made on typical Illinois farms it seems evident that farmers who are seeking to improve their income should direct their major attention to those practices which will improve their crop yields. A secondary need for the improvement of farm income would be to increase efficiency in live stock production.

Such a program, however, would be in direct conflict with Secretary Wallace's program of crop reduction. He declares that farmers can improve their income by reducing the yield of crops, plowing up every third row.

Secretary Wallace, however, is dealing in theories. Illinois farmers have demonstrated the desirability of increasing crop yields in dollars and cents.

THE PASSING.

Doc Harlan dead, you say? Well! Well!
Yesterday at the dinner table, mighty sudden.
It don't seem possible. Why, not more'n
A week ago Friday—no, Saturday,
For I'd gone into town to get some grass seed,
Meant to sow that East Forty come Monday,
And I saw him gettin' out o' that old rattle trap
And I stopped long enough in passin' to say,
"How's business these days, Doc?"
And he called back, as grouchy and natural-like,
"Rotten."
And now he's dead. He wasn't so terrible old.
Not more than sixty-five. Bad heart, I reckon.

Yeah, bad heart. Same trouble I have.
Went in to see him last spring. Been feelin'
Sorta low and tired like and he thumped
My chest and then said,
Sorta dry in the way he had,
"No use in lyin' to you, Jake;
I can't do you no good.
Your heart's gone bad.
I've had the same trouble for twenty years.
You may not get out that office door
And then again you may live to be a hundred.
But if you got any business needs to be done,
I'd get it in shape so's you won't have any regrets.
Queer how things turn out."

I haven't seen Doc much since last winter
When he used to come out our way to Blake's
When Joey's leg was broke. He stopped
Once on his way back to town to see how mother
Had been gettin' on. Her asthma is so bad
I don't know what we'll do. Doc Harlan
Was the only one who could do her any good.
Many a one in the community owes his bein' alive today
To Doc Harlan and his little pill bag.
I remember when Mandy Simms had her first baby
If it hadn't been for him comin' in all that blizzard,
She and Freddy wouldn't be here today.
And his gruff "Well, what's the matter here?"

And so the neighbors told each other
With a kind of childlike surprise
How queer it was—that old Doc Harlan
Should have left his battered car, the little black pill bag,
And his patients, and gone away!

CHEER IN EGYPT.

Harvey: Have you ever visited "down in Egypt" during August and driven through the country when everything was at its loveliest? We always are proud that we have been called Egypt, but this year especially so, for we have had all the rain necessary to make our land one of plenty.

Far and near the cornfields fling their green banners in the sun. Golden stubbles show that our wheat has been garnered. Round the farmhouses, gardens with every kind of vegetable are flourishing. Grapes are purpling on the vines while plums and pears and apples hang ripening on the trees.

With everything the best we have had in years, is it any wonder we are proud of "Blue Jasper"? We feel compassion for what the drought has done to so many, many places, but "in all the land of Egypt there was bread."

NUDISTS.

This is just an old, old woman,
I'm supposed to git my thrills
In a washin' up the dishes,
Scrubbin' floors an' mixin' pills;
Patchin' socks and ironin' dresses
Till sometimes I have ter sigh
When I hear about the nudists
An' th' hours they idle by.
But pshaw though, I'm too bowlegged
An' my knees jist simply shine—
Nudists MUST be bathin' beauties,
So I'll take long skirts for mine!

THOSE NICE, PLEASANT, cheerful crinkly sounds you heard yesterday at the City State Bank building on Wells street were the folding of back pay checks by hitherto unpaid school teachers. That rush from the scene you saw afterward was toward State street for purposes which one may well imagine.

ON THE LEVEL AT LAST.

Harvey: There used to be an old timer hereabouts who, when asked how he felt, would reply, "Miserable! I wish I was dead." The old bird also liked to play poker and could hold his own in almost any company. One day sharks roped him into a game with larger stakes than he was accustomed to playing for and he lost a big wad of money for him. When he started for home he met a bunch of friends on the corner who asked the eternal question "How're yeh feelin', Sy?" To which the old timer replied, "Boys, you're often heard me say that I wisht that I was dead. Well, gad burn it, this time I mean it." C. A. K.

SEPTIC ENDOCARDITIS.

WE are often puzzled to explain just why one person contracts pneumonia, scarlet fever, or some other disease, whereas another person in the same environment escapes the infection. We know that some individuals possess a natural immunity to disease.

Through the discoveries of medical science a way has been found of conferring immunity to certain diseases upon those who would otherwise be susceptible. Vaccination protects against smallpox, toxin antitoxin protects against diphtheria, and immunity to typhoid may be secured by the use of vaccine. Through the work of George and Gladys Dick much progress has been made in establishing immunity against the specific streptococcus that causes scarlet fever; within the next few years we may confidently expect that perfection of the methods employed will lead to a marked decrease in the incidence of this disease.

Unfortunately, there is a fairly large group of diseases in which neither the disease itself, vaccination, nor a serum can or does provide immunity. There are numerous strains of the streptococcus group and so far most of them have defied the march of medical science. The same may be said of the varieties of staphylococcus and of the pneumococcus.

These death dealing organisms are particularly serious when they gain entrance to the blood stream and attack the lining of the heart [endocardium]. When such organisms grow inside the heart the symptoms that follow are characterized by a high fever that comes and goes, frequent chills, and muscular or joint pains. As the disease progresses signs of heart valve damage become apparent and a valvular murmur may be heard by the physician. Bacteria growing inside the heart and on the leaflets of the heart valves are practically inaccessible to remedial attack. The disease known as endocarditis baffles the skill of the physician.

Occasionally a type of inflammation of the heart lining develops that may run a long chronic course. There may have been earlier damage to the heart valves caused by rheumatic fever, attacks of tonsilitis, running ears, or other conditions attended with pus formation through which bacteria gained entrance to the blood. In this condition, known as subacute bacterial endocarditis, or Libman's disease, we recognize the presence of tiny areas on the endocardium where bacteria are growing in rank profusion. These beds of bacteria have a tendency to spread and involve adjacent tissue. As the disease progresses the infection may cover the surfaces of important valve leaflets. From these bacteria beds organisms are constantly escaping, polluting the blood stream, lodging in the tiny capillaries, and sometimes plugging larger and more important blood vessels. Unfortunately, few individuals are able to develop within their own blood a sufficiently powerful neutralizing substance to this vicious type of infection which is attended with a high mortality.

Until medical science through its research workers can learn more about the habits of the organisms responsible for endocarditis the remedy lies in prevention.

On the appearance of any infection attended with fever every effort should be made to maintain the resistance of the body at the highest possible level. This means rest in bed, plenty of sleep, copious water drinking, careful attention to the bowels, and sufficient food of nonirritating character.

HEAT MAY RELIEVE.

E. S. writes: For some time I have felt an excess amount of saliva on the right side of my mouth. At first I thought it was pus from a tooth but my dentist cannot find any trouble. What could be the cause and is there a cure?

REPLY.

An irritation of the nerve supply of a salivary gland or irritation of the gland itself. Heat to the affected side of the face will probably relieve the condition.

BEER FOR MOTHERS.

Mrs. M. E. writes: Why do many doctors recommend beer for nursing mothers?

REPLY.

From Across the Sea

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON. — An event has just taken place at Hanworth airdrome, Middlesex, that promises to be as important to the man in the street as the completion of the first low priced automobile. It is the successful conclusion of trials of the first flying machine to come within the means of one who can afford a light car. This single seat machine is a new type of autogiro. It works on the same principles and looks like any other autogiro, but when it is put into full production it will probably cost little more than $750.

Next spring will see the first of them on the market. The new machine will be able to take off and land in a small field and it can be stored in the ordinary home garage. Where an orthodox airplane would have a wing span of several feet, the widest point of this new air baby is seven feet. Its overall length is fourteen feet. Its height, including the mast that holds the rotating vanes—or windmill—is only seven feet. Fully loaded it weighs but 610 pounds.

It is equipped with two cylinder motorcycle type engine. The cylinders develop 50 horsepower at 5,000 revolutions of the engine per minute. Flying at top speed the machine will do nearly 100 miles an hour. But it will land and take off at less than ordinary walking speed. This greatly reduces the danger of crashes in landing and taking off. Its operation will cost no more than that of a motorcycle.

The ship has no wings in the usual sense, but is kept afloat by the rotating vanes. These vanes are not run by the engine, but by the air, which rotates them as the machine moves. Therefore, they will not stop through engine failure. There is only one control, which is used for every maneuver.

The machine is still at Hanworth, and guarded night and day. Trials and assembly were carried out in the closest secrecy.

THE COST OF LAW BRIEFS.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—Before more damage is done to several old established firms which have won a reputation for fair dealing through hard work and intelligent business methods, don't you think it would be fair for you to investigate the cost of producing law briefs per page rather than give space so glibly to the price per page, as you are now doing in this law brief case?

Your manner of handling this case cannot help but create the impression that customers have gotten the worst of it.

There is a national group known as Law Brief Printers and their composite cost sheet is available for the asking. This will show who is right.

You are creating the impression, maliciously, it seems to me, that NRA is government in business. The facts seem otherwise. Each industry is trying to administer its own laws for industrial self-government based on known cost data. That far it is commendable. A business that cannot recover its cost is doomed; that helps nobody. H. G.

THE JACKSON PARK LAGOONS.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—Our Jackson park is an example of planning or lack of planning. For the two years of A Century of Progress fair two lagoons, first one and then the other, have been drained of water, leaving an unsightly bed of weeds, clay and mud for our visitors to view. "Problem for the CWA workers," they say; rather it is a problem for the dredgers who could clear the whole lagoon in one day and thus restore it to its former beauty in two or three days. Now it takes months.

Furthermore there are dozens of jobs the CWA's have begun and never finished. Why pick on Jackson park?

STRANGE, BEWILDERING.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 24.—The articles, "Plundering the Aged" and "A Woman's Investment," have a sympathetic response from millions who have had the same experience from the Roosevelt régime. The disgraceful Frazier-Lemke bill robbed them, but it also ruined the farmers' credit. Who would want to lend them a dime when the loan is apt to be wiped out by radical politicians?

It seems strange and bewildering that a set of men like the present régime in Washington take the sneering, vindictive attitude they have toward business and capital and handcuff it in every way and compete with it unless they want to sovietize us. I think they are taking their inspiration from Moscow and Berlin. We got a New Deal all right, but the cards were stacked. The President, the professors and the brain trusters have repudiated the Democratic platform and party pledges, and as a result we have the strangest, most bewildering, unsatisfactory, enormously extravagant, un-American hard times administration in our history. The professors and the New Dealers' scheme is to take over industry and capital and level wealth so that we will all be dependents of the government. They have usurped the liberty and the rights of the people to live their own lives and conduct their business as given them under the constitution.

For a man who was reared in luxury and wealth and who has never had to strive for one single dollar, Mr. Roosevelt presents in his attitude toward capital, wealth, profit, industry, and his wealth leveling ideas a strange and interesting phenomenon in psychology.

NATURALIZATION LAWS.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—[Friend of the People.]—Kindly tell me if it is possible for an American woman to retain her citizenship if she marries a Frenchman in France and lives there or in the French colonies in Africa? Also, what legal papers must she take with her, in order to be able to marry in France? S. A.

Under the naturalization laws of the United States a woman does not lose her American citizenship by marriage to an alien on or after Sept. 22, 1922. It is understood that the French law relating to the citizenship of married women is similar to that of the United States. This matter can be definitely determined by inquiry at the French consulate, as this office is not aware of the legal requirements for marriage in France or its colonies.

A STRAIN ON THE FAMILY TIE

GOEBBELS WARNS GERMANS HARD TIMES ARE AHEAD

Meet Ordeal with Spartan Patriotism, Nation Told.

[Copyright: 1934: By the Associated Press.]

BERLIN, Aug. 27.—Minister of Propaganda Paul Joseph Goebbels tonight geared his vast propaganda machine to the job of steeling Nazi Germany for the approaching winter's hardships.

With grave, possibly critical economic difficulties just around the corner, the dynamic minister set himself the Herculean task of popularizing self-sacrifice and glorifying "going without."

A sort of Spartan patriotism was the keyword for the big drive, prefaced as it has been by oratorical barrages on many Nazi fronts.

Lack of Raw Materials.

The lack of raw materials and the facilities with which to buy them were already nibbling at industrial Germany's villas as Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler in his address at Coblenz yesterday urged his people to meet suffering with noble patriotism and German defiance.

"The greater the distress," he declared, "the greater will be our defiance and our determination; in spite of everything we will overcome it."

"Under no conditions will we surrender," the Nazi leader asserted.

Characteristically, the campaign to harden national endurance in its present stage ascribes the seriousness of the economic situation to two causes, neither the fault of Hitler: They are:

FIRST—The blunders of Hitler's predecessors in power.

Hits "International Cliques."

This latter cry Hitler himself echoed at Coblenz.

"Certain international cliques which believe they can break us down with economic terrorism, boycotts, and so forth, are responsible," he said.

Hjalmar Schacht, minister of economics, in his address at the opening of the Leipzig mercantile fair yesterday also emphasized that the populace must be prepared "to face with great soberness" the economic emergency "which international policy has forced upon us."

Goebbels has sounded similar warnings, but the little minister of propaganda is expected in the future to attempt to envelop suffering in an aura of romance, stressing the sufferings of Germany's great heroes of past centuries and attempting to spread widely the conviction that hardship patriotically borne is more precious than prosperity.

Some observers of Germany's economic development under Hitler believe that it will be at least six months before the economic pinch begins to be felt by the average German.

May Glory in Hardship.

By that time, they suggest, Goebbel's propaganda may have made Germans capable of glorying in hardship at the same time that workers in other countries are reacting impatiently to milder distress.

This distress abroad has been accentuated in some sections, incidentally, by Germany's withdrawal as buyer of such foreign commodities as Manchester's yarns, Sweden's ores, California's dried fruits and walnuts, Louisiana's cotton, Arizona's copper, Virginia's tobacco, Brazil's coffee and the like.

While Goebbels himself has not dared to suggest that hardships can be endured forever, those who watch his propaganda admit he may work wonders for at least one winter.

Views Flea with Distrust.

PARIS, Aug. 27.—(AP)—France today read with mistrust Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's appeal at Coblenz yesterday for return to Germany of the rich Saar industrial region.

With important French industrial and commercial interests staked on the January plebiscite in the region, authoritative quarters tonight expressed doubt that Germany and France could become peaceful neighbors even though the Saar be returned to the former.

Nazi terrorism already reported in the Saar and Hitler's differences, with the church, these sources said, have made them skeptical of Nazi promises that Saar inhabitants will be free from political reprisals or religious restrictions.

Virtually certain that the Saar will not vote for union with France, this nation nevertheless hoped for continuance of the present league of nations mandate chiefly because of her economic interests in that region. A hundred million dollars worth of coal mines, another hundred millions of investments, eighty million Frenchmen looked forward anxiously to the forthcoming plebiscite.

2 WOMEN, BOOTH KIN, SEEK TO LEAD SALVATION ARMY

47 Delegates Vote at London Election.

LONDON, Aug. 27. — (AP) — Two women, both descendants of Gen. William Booth who founded the Salvation Army 70 years ago, were prominently mentioned for leadership tonight as forty-seven delegates from that world-wide organization prepared to elect a successor to Gen. Edward J. Higgins of England.

A life sized portrait of the founder will look down on the high council as it assembles tomorrow in the congress hall at Clapton.

While complete secrecy surrounded today's informal sessions at which candidacies were discussed there was no inkling as to who would be selected.

Leading Candidates.

These four were most prominently mentioned:

Commander Evangeline Booth of the United States, daughter of Gen. William Booth and sister of Gen. Bramwell Booth, who was dramatically ousted as leader five years ago after he was termed physically unfit. He died shortly afterward.

Commissioner Samuel Hurren.

The two feminine heritors of the Booth power would give no indication tonight as to whether they intended to renew their battle, thwarted five years ago, for leadership of the organization. Evangeline Booth declined to admit her candidacy.

Told Not to Talk.

Catherine Booth said, "We cannot talk about this election. We have received instructions not to do so." "There has been and is," she added, "strong opposition to the idea of a woman being 'general'—that I can say with certainty."

Tomorrow's meeting of the council, composed of 47 leading officers from 22 countries, will choose Higgins' successor by secret ballot, and results may not be known for some time.

The fact that the trust deeds of the organization provide that there is no position in the army, not even that of general from which a woman can be excluded on the ground of sex, led to the belief that Commander Evangeline or Commissioner Catherine Booth might be nominated.

Any member of the high council may nominate a candidate to succeed the retiring general and, provided the nominee accepts, his or her name is included. A two-thirds' majority is required before the new general can be appointed.

Proceedings of the parliament, opening in strict privacy at 10 a. m., may last more than one day, but it was believed tonight that the difficulties experienced five years ago, when Gen. Bramwell Booth was deposed, would not be repeated.

GERMANY SENDS SIX SOCIALISTS TO JAIL AS TRAITORS

BERLIN, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Convicted of high treason in disseminating allegedly subversive literature, six Germans today were sentenced to prison terms ranging from eighteen months to ten years.

Rudolph Kuestermeier was given ten years in the Berlin penitentiary while two others, Karl Zinn and Willy Strinz, drew sentences of seven years. Sentences of three others were from eighteen months to three years.

The six were charged with heading an organization which systematically published and distributed the Marxist periodical Red Staff notably among university students. German Socialist refugees at Prague, Czechoslovakia subsidized the accused, the prosecution stated, and they succeeded in putting 40,000 copies of the publication in circulation within three months.

Land Force to Test Paris Defense Against Air Raid

BY HAROLD ETTLINGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 27.—A grand fleet of enemy planes will descend on Paris from the east at dawn tomorrow and begin a four day attempt to destroy it. A quickly mobilized land force will aid the aerial defense corps from Chartres in attempting to turn back the invaders.

Day and night for four days the battle will rage, while the prefectures, municipalities, and communes of the Paris region will handle the civilian population and help to facilitate movements of troops.

These will be the first air maneuvers ever held to test the ability of the French air and land forces to save the capital from destruction in case of attack. Some months ago Lyons successfully turned back air raiders, but London was theoretically destroyed and hence no predicitions are being made as to safety.

East Against West.

Under the command of Gen. Gerard 100 planes, making up the blue, or east, party, will attack Paris from Nancy and Reims. The fleet includes day and night bombers, light defense planes, scout planes, and special land communications units.

Gen. Massenet de Marancourt will direct the red, or west, defense force, consisting of infantry batteries rushed to the capital from half a dozen points, machine gun squads, and several squadrons of light and heavy defense aircraft. Special telegraph detachments, brought in from Versailles and Mont Valerien, will establish telephone and radio communication lines for the defense.

The maneuvers will offer the first practical exercises for several new types of French aircraft, including the latest Farman four motored bombers, Breguet and Marcel Bloch bombers, and speedy new Dewoitine and Bleriot scouting planes.

Makes 180 Miles Per Hour.

Special interest centers in the new Breguet "air cruisers" on which Louis Breguet personally supervised the final tests yesterday. These planes can make 180 miles an hour at an altitude of 14,000 feet and carry 1,600 pounds of bombs and enough gas for a 600 mile flight.

The defense corps is centering special attention on four new Marcel Bloch bombers and Bleriot and Dewoitine scout planes capable of 225 miles an hour at extremely high altitudes.

BERLIN SECRET POLICE ARREST U. S. WRITER FOR JEWISH AGENCY

After the questioning he was ordered to return to secret police headquarters again on Wednesday. Then members of the secret police escorted him to his home where they confiscated all his papers, including copies of cables dispatched and private letters. Rock Island, Ill., Aug. 27.—[Special.]—Israel A. Levitan, who was taken into custody by German secret police at Berlin today, is the 21 year old son of Rabbi and Mrs. Solomon Levitan of Rock Island. His father is in charge of B'nai Jacob synagogue. Young Levitan studied at Augustana college, Rock Island, and Northwestern university, Evanston. He had arranged to return to the United States to study for a doctor's degree at the University of Iowa this fall.

Flood Waters of Ganges Render Thousands Homeless

CALCUTTA, India, Aug. 27.—(AP)—An official report today said floods resulting from an overflow of the Ganges and tributary rivers had caused extensive property damage and rendered several thousand persons homeless in the Bihar district without, however, causing a loss of life. At the height of the floods villagers clambered on top of railway embankments and trees where they were stranded until rescued.

NEW STREAMLINE COACHES PUT ON MILWAUKEE RUN

Railroad to Add 50 for Passengers' Comfort.

The Day Express of the Milwaukee railroad took on a modern appearance yesterday on its run to Milwaukee, St. Paul, and Minneapolis, when the first of a fleet of 50 new streamlined and luxuriously appointed day coaches were pressed into service.

Three of the new coaches, which are being completed in the railroad's shops in Milwaukee, were coupled on the train yesterday. Three more will make their first run today, and the other 44 will be put in service as rapidly as they are finished.

Modern Exterior Lines.

Exteriorly, the coaches express the modern taste for smooth lines and rounded contours. The ends of the coaches tend toward the "bullet nose" shape that minimizes wind resistance. The tops of the coaches are domed and the car windows are virtually flush with the sides, further to cut down eddies of air that provided fuel eating drag on old fashioned railroad rolling stock.

The interiors, however, indicate more strikingly the extent to which railroad car designers have bent their efforts to modernize their equipment and increase passenger comfort. Windows are wider. Seats, of the individual type rotate on their bases, to face forward, backward, or toward the window, as desired, and can be reclined at will by the occupants.

Interior walls are paneled and finished in cloth composition which harmonizes with the brocaded upholstering. Heating and ventilation ducts are placed convenient to each seat and each pair of seats has individual lights. The conventional chandeliers are completely lacking. Floors are of composition tile in gay colors.

Further Passenger Conveniences.

There is a men's smoking room in one end of each coach, and a ladies' lounge in the other, equipped with dressing tables and chairs and large mirrors. Electric drinking fountains have been installed.

Mechanically the coaches are designed to add further to passenger comfort and to economize on fuel. Each coach is 72 feet long and weighs 102,600 pounds, or 30 per cent less than the old type. Each of the 48 passengers is allotted 8.3 square feet of floor space, as compared with only 6.5 square feet in the old day coaches. Roller bearing wheels and a new system of braking reduce noise and friction.

Despite their more luxurious appointments the accommodations of the new coaches are available without extra fare.

BEG YOUR PARDON

A story in yesterday's TRIBUNE declared erroneously that the Kiosk Sphinx, museum and home built by Washington Porter II., at 4044 Oakenwald avenue, would be open free to the public beginning yesterday. It is open to the public, but 50 cents is charged for admission.

BRAND NEW COACHES
FIRST OF A GREAT FLEET THAT BRINGS THE UTMOST TRAVEL LUXURY
without extra cost!

Radically different in exterior design and interior plan, embodying new light-weight construction principles, these streamlined cars—new from end to end—were built with the passenger's viewpoint paramount.

Pay nothing extra, but enjoy a wholly new standard of travel comfort. Relax in overstuffed seats of the revolving-reclining type; backs individually lowered with hand levers; seat bottoms set at a comfortable angle.

One-third More Room Per Passenger

More space—resulting from the use of fewer but wider seats—provides increased lounging room and a pleasing air of spaciousness emphasized by original decorative treatment.

Sound-deadened walls, rubber-mounted trucks and silent roller-bearings assure restful quiet; thermostatically controlled, forced ventilation renews the atmosphere with filtered air every five minutes. Wide vision windows.

Modern, Comfortable Lounge Rooms

B. F. McCUTCHEON, NEWSPAPER MAN, PUBLICIST, DIES

Brother of Novelist and Tribune Cartoonist.

Ben Frederick McCutcheon, veteran newspaper man, author and publicist, died yesterday of a heart ailment which followed a long illness. Death occurred at the home of his son, John Barr McCutcheon, at 421 St. James place. He was 59 years old.

B. F. McCUTCHEON.

Mr. McCutcheon was born near Lafayette, Ind., May 31, 1875, the son of John Barr and Clara Glick McCutcheon, who were also the parents of John T., famous TRIBUNE cartoonist, and the late George Barr, novelist.

Gets First Job as Reporter.

Ben McCutcehon attended Purdue university, where he was a member of the class of '97. He came to Chicago as a young man and his first job was reporter for the old Morning Record. He later became commercial editor of THE TRIBUNE and was also associated editorially with the Daily News and other Chicago and New York newspapers.

In 1917, at the request of the federal government, he became director of publicity for the Fourth and Victory Liberty Loan drives for the Seventh Federal Reserve district. At the end of the war Mr. McCutcehon became a partner in the publicity firm of McCutcheon and Gerson, which was dissolved in 1930. In recent years he had been doing publicity work with his son.

Mr. McCutcheon was known as an accomplished cartoonist, often making sketches of friends in spare moments. He was the author of two books, "Sunrise Acres" and "The Seventh Person," published in 1905-'06, and he contributed regularly to periodicals.

In Hospital Several Weeks.

Mr. McCutcheon had been confined to the Henrotin hospital for several weeks and was removed to the home of his son Friday. Shortly before 11 o'clock yesterday he died suddenly of an embolism of the heart. He lived at 411 Fullerton parkway.

In addition to his son, now a member of THE TRIBUNE sports staf, and his brother, Mr. McCutcheon is survived by his widow, Mrs. Anna Barnes McCutcheon, and a sister, Mrs. A. Wilbur Nelson, of New York.

Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning in the Fullerton Covenant Presbyterian church, of which he was a trustee. Burial will be in Graceland cemetery, Springvale, Ind.

PURNEL JOHNSON, SCHOOL HEAD IN KANKAKEE, DIES

A. Purnel Johnson, superintendent of public schools in Kankakee, died yesterday in the Presbyterian hospital here following an operation. Mr. Johnson, who was 70 years old, had been school superintendent in Kankakee since 1921 and before that had held a similar position in Urbana for 20 years. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Frank Richards of Urbana, who is the wife of a professor of engineering at the University of Illinois.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: She's Got to Go

CHARLES L. BOYD AND HIS WIFE ARE BURIED TOGETHER

Funeral services were held at Graceland cemetery yesterday for Charles L. Boyd and his wife, Melvina, pioneer Chicagoans, who died in their home at Moorehaven, Cal. Mr. Boyd was 89 years old when he died Jan. 10, 1932 and his widow was 88 years old at the time of her death, July 23. Both bodies were cremated and their ashes brought here for the services.

While Mr. Boyd was still a boy his parents came to Chicago and made their home on Monroe street where the Harris Trust company building now stands. Mrs. Boyd, who was the daughter of William Lock, lived on Washington street between State and Dearborn streets. They were married in 1865 and lived in Chicago until 1917, when they went to California.

Mr. Boyd was in the private banking business with two brothers until 1871, when his business was burned out by the Chicago fire. For years he was head of the mutilated currency department of the National Bank of Commerce. Some years ago he wrote an article for the Chicago Historical society entitled: "Memories of Chicago Merchants, Banks and Bankers in the Early Sixties."

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Morton Downey was engaged yesterday to do a bit of pinch hitting for Phil Baker on his NBC show next Friday evening. The silver voiced tenor will be co-featured with Floyd Gibbons who has been signed as master of ceremonies during Baker's five week absence. James Melton, another distinguished tenor, will be guest soloist the following week. Baker, his wife, and daughter, will sail for Italy on Wednesday. The radio jester expects to visit Premier Mussolini.

They are going to bury Baron Munchhausen, which is to say that Jack Pearl is leaving the air shortly. Sponsor of the gelatine show has in mind another comedy act for which all details have not been ironed out as yet.

Eddie Cantor definitly will be back with Rubinoff on the coffee hour for eight weeks beginning Oct. 7. Joe Penner comes back, minus the duck chatter, the same evening. On Dec. 2 the coffee maker is likely to take the air with tabloid operas—with Wilfred Pelletier and his orchestra and Deems Taylor as master of ceremonies.

Sigmund Romberg has picked a couple of youthful singers to take the lead in the original musical shows which he is to do for the packing concern that had Olsen & Johnson on the air last year. They are Helen Marshall, a soprano now heard in the chorus on the Whiteman Music Hall, and Byron Warner, tenor. Romberg predicts that their names will be widely known before the year is ended.

Vivian Janis, who sings with Leon Belasco's orchestra over NBC from the St. Moritz hotel, is leaving to join the Ziegfeld Follies which opens here next week. . . . Gertrude Niesen, CBS star who is playing at the Palace, will sing on WMAQ, an NBC outlet at 6 o'clock today.

Columbia has a new show coming up, featuring Freddie Martin's orchestra, which will give a lot of the less publicized entertainers a break. Each week a radio personage or act that has never been heard on a network show will be headlined in this program which goes on the air from New York in about a month. First talent will be picked in Chicago. On succeeding weeks other cities will be favored.

So that some potential piano genius may not go untutored Moissaye Boguslawski, distinguished pianist who is heard on WJJD, is offering a $1,000 scholarship for the boy or girl student showing the most promise in playing a selection from Bach, Beethoven, and Chopen in a contest to be held Sept. 16. The young Rachmaninoffs and Paderewskis may make application for entry with Winifred Konigsmark, 323 South Wabash avenue.

Miss Harriet Daughaday to Bow Sept. 12

Will Meet Society at Party at Fentress Home.

BY JUDITH CASS.

BEFORE she returns to Northampton, Mass., for her sophomore year at Smith college Miss Harriet Daughaday, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Daughaday of Winnetka, will be presented to society at one of the early fall receptions. The party will be held the late afternoon of Sept. 12 at Fenbrook, the home of Mrs. Daughaday's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Fentress, in Hubbard Woods.

Just a year ago Mr. and Mrs. Fentress presented their own daughter, Harriet, at a reception at Fenbrook. This time Miss Fentress will, without doubt, be one of her cousin's assistants, for it will be the latter part of September before she returns to her studies at Vassar.

Most of the debutantes who will be attending Miss Daughaday's party the 12th will be going that evening to the supper dance at which Miss Gwendolyn Bowen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen, will make her bow. This party will be at the Bowen home on Washington avenue in Lake Forest.

A Smith classmate of Miss Daughaday, Miss Jane de Peyster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic A. de Peyster of Winnetka, has chosen a Christmas tea to a garden reception for her debut. Miss de Peyster will be presented by her parents the afternoon of Dec. 22 in their attractive Winnetka home.

Date for Fetcher Debut Is Changed.

Because of the popularity of Sept. 15 as a debut date, Miss Miriam Fetcher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Fetcher, has changed her party to the afternoon of Sept. 21 at her parents' home on Bryant avenue in Winnetka. Miss Fetcher and her mother will be home from their summer home at Traverse City, Mich., on Sept. 7, just in time to complete plans for the presentation party and assemble a college wardrobe, for Miss Fetcher returns east immediately after her debut for her sophomore year at Smith.

Two more Smith sophomores, Miss Peggy Sargent, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester F. Sargent of Winnetka, and Miss Nancy Brown, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. V. L. Brown, also of Winnetka, are on this year's debutante list. Miss Sargent is to have a tea at home Sept. 14. Miss Brown has tentative plans for a reception Christmas afternoon at home.

Plan Reception at Blackstone.

If present plans materialize, Mrs. George Bates Harrington and her debutante daughter, Miss Mary Harrington, will be in the receiving line at the Blackstone the night of Dec. 22 with Mrs. Henry B. Babson and her debutante daughter, Miss Betty Babson, for the Harringtons and the Babsons have about decided to give the party jointly.

Miss Harrington will return from a western ranch where she has spent the better part of the summer, either tomorrow or the next day, and she will remain in Chicago until the end of the debutante season at least. Her parents are occupying a house in Lake Forest this summer, but they will be in their Chicago apartment for the winter.

Frederic Lewis Macfarlane, son of the W. E. Macfarlanes of Lake Forest, has issued invitations for a party for Miss Eleanor Kirkland, the debutante daughter of the Weymouth Kirklands, this Saturday evening. Young Mr. Macfarlane has asked his guests to assemble at his parents' home at 85 East Westminster road at 7:30 for cocktails. Then he will take them on to the dinner dance at the Knollwood club.

Miss Ruth Holloway Changes Wedding Date.

Because there is nothing that Miss Ruth Holloway, daughter of the Harry C. Holloways, appreciates more than the Berkshires in all of their autumn glory, she has changed the date and setting for her wedding to Edward T. Herndon of New York City to Oct. 13 at St. Paul's Episcopal church in Stockbridge, Mass. According to their former plans Miss Holloway and Mr. Herndon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Herndon of Pottsville, Pa., were to have been married Oct. 20 in the Glencoe Union church with a reception following at the Holloway home on Sheridan road in Glencoe.

The service will now be read at 4 o'clock the afternoon of Oct. 13 by

LIEUT. COL. J. RAMSAY TAINSH, president and general manager of the railways of Iraq and a delightful Scotsman, visited A Century of Progress last week and devoted considerable time to the streamline train. He hovered about the Zephyr, the Burlington Line's completely streamlined stainless steel train, rather like an interested little boy over a more exciting train another little boy had got for Christmas.

Visitor—
Effeminacy—
Punster—
Honesty—
International Relations.

Lieut. Col. Tainsh's conversation has to do with countries that most of us hazily place somewhere "east of Suez." Palestine is a prosperous country, he said, its new prosperity being based on extensive orange groves which produce fruit of exceptionally high quality and is shipped to all the countries of Europe. The orange groves of Palestine are watered from shallow wells, the pumps being driven by electricity generated at a plant on the River Jordan owned and operated by an enterprising firm of Jews. He himself is an amateur gardener and has tried to grow many California delicacies in Iraq, among them honeydew melon. Black and white crows are garden pests, he says, and usually get to the melons before they can be picked.

A LA GRANGE resident insists that the world has gone effeminate. Out in La Grange the church bulletin out in front of the edifice reads that "Mrs. Blank, noted reader and lecturer, will read bits from Hamlette."

A BULLETINEER from Antioch, Ill., postcards that Martha Conn and Ed Uby of that city are about to wed and adds that if that doesn't make for conn-uby-al bliss he'll be plowed under. Well, maybe he will be anyhow, because of the pun, we add hopefully.

HONESTY in advertising note. The sign on a North Clark street candy store that reads:

DIPLOMACY note. The American students of International house were entertaining foreign members at a recent celebration and Miss Elizabeth Gentry was chairman of the committee. When she told the director the plan of decorating the grounds with Japanese lanterns that evening he hesitated.

"It will offend the Chinese students in the house," he objected.

A compromise was effected, however. The lanterns were hung, but they were called "oriental lanterns" instead of Japanese, which is their official name from now on at International house.

'Pinafore' Has Young Gayety Despite Years

More Life than Hits of Last Season.

"H. M. S. PINAFORE."

THE CAST.

Sir Joseph Porter.....Frank Moulan
Capt. Corcoran.....John Eaton
Ralph Rackstraw.....Roy Cropper
Dick Deadeye.....William Danforth
Bill Bobstay.....Herbert Waterous
Josephine.....Vivian Hart
Little Buttercup.....Vera Ross
Hebe.....Dean Dickens

BY CHARLES COLINS.

The mellow comic opera company which has been keeping a great tradition in lyric entertainment alive at the Studebaker theater during the last month began to sing lustily last night about the merry maiden and the tar, and the stout fellow who remained an Englishman in spite of temptations to belong to other nations, and the stuffy burocrat who became the ruler of the Queen's Navee. In other words, the bill was "H. M. S. Pinafore," one of the brightest stars in the Gilbert and Sullivan galaxy.

More than fifty years have passed since the "Pinafore" vogue first swept the world. This jovial travesty on life and romance in the British navy was the favorite show of the fathers and grandfathers of the people who now brag of themselves as "moderns." It is a museum piece—but it also is more alive than any of last season's Broadway hits. "As Thousands Cheer," so they tell me, has already begun to "date," but "Pinafore" retains its youth. Its topical satire may have faded out, but the charm of its merriment and unstrained whimsically is still fresh, while its music, though not the best of Sir Arthur Sullivan's enchanting scores, contains hints of immortal ecstasy.

The players, as usual, are exactly in the tradition and they troll out the well remembered lyrics with vocal talent. John Eaton, who has had such minor rôles as Pish-Tush in "The Mikado" and Samuel in "The Pirates of Penzance," steps into the foreground of the company as Capt. Corcoran, the gallant commander, and turns loose a fine baritone voice in the stirring numbers allotted to the rôle, such as the "Fair Moon" solo and various duets and trios.

Roy Cropper, of course, is the romantic able seaman, Ralph Rackstraw, and if there has been a better Gilbert and Sullivan tenor since 1900 I cannot remember him. William Danforth chooses to make himself up for Dick Deadeye, the detested pessimist, as if he were a character in the "Chauve Souris," but his waggishness is thoroughly British.

The First Lord of the Admiralty, who has served as a pattern for several American appointees to the navy portfolio, is characterized crisply by Frank Moulan. Vera Ross' Little Buttercup is the plump and pleasing person of the text; she has grasped the Gilbertian conception of a heavy comedienne with a dash of Victorian sex appeal. Vivian Hart again proves herself to be an excellent singing ingénue as the lass who loved a sailor, and Herbert Waterous is a stalwart bos'n, properly equipped to sing the opera's famous travesty on solemn patriotic ballads.

The chorus is a first rate singing ensemble and the orchestra will satisfy the most exacting fan who runs to these revivals in glee, quaintly calling himself a "Savoyard." The mystery of that appellation becomes clear when one remembers that most of the Gilbert and Sullivan works were originally staged in the Savoy theater of London.

Feasting Cut Down in Film of 'Copperfield'

Hollywood Fears Offense to Delicate Diners.

BY ROSALIND SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Any one who has read a Charles Dickens novel realizes the importance of food, or "victuals," as the term was. Those producing "David Copperfield" for the screen have faced the problem manfully and have uncovered some interesting facts.

Just what did those sturdy trenchmen of old England eat a hundred years ago? A great many things hardly known today in addition to the bowls of steaming tripe and roast beef, roast goose, and Christmas pudding. While the novel describes no fewer than fifteen course dinners, the motion picture makers fear that such gastronomic emphasis on the screen might offend delicate dieters of today, but there will be several scenes showing the serving and preparing of delicacies of the period.

Howard Estabrook, scenarist on the story; Hugh Walpole, dialog writer, and Maj. G. O. T. Bagley, technical director, have dug up some venerable cook books of the period that describe wassail in a big way in that era. One book is entitled, "The Art of Cookery Made Plain and Easy" [and in smaller type], which far exceeds everything of the kind ever yet published. By a lady. London. Printed by the author and sold at Mr. Ashburn's China shop, the corner of Fleet ditch. 1803. The so-called "plain and easy" cookery of the period would baffle all the electric kitchen aids of our time. A recipe for brown gravy which will be prepared on the screen by Mrs. Micawber, includes everything from ale to anchovies, twenty ingredients in all. A modern housewife just uses water, meat juice and flour and if she is careless of spices, some kitchen bouquet.

Boiled liver pudding is mentioned; it, too, will find its way to the screen. "How to Fricassee Skirrets" is another mystery recipe. No one seems to know what a skirret is.

Frank Lawton, who portrays Copperfield, is selecting a few of these old time recipes for his private cookbook, being, as many Englishmen are, an enthusiastic chef on a few special bachelor dishes.

Georgie Raft is having trouble being a Chinaman. Eye difficulties have ensued since his slant eyed makeup included a dizziness due to double vision. Oculists are now trying to fix him up so he'll see eye to eye with any white man again.

Helen Mack is back to her own dark hair after wearing a blonde wig for her latest picture and is sporting a neat fringe of bangs.

The flood of child actors being put under contract continues. Baby Jane Quigley at Universal, Mickey Rooney at M. G. M., where Jackie Cooper is a star; Shirley Temple at Fox's, and June Yyeston at Radio. David Holt at Paramount, all have been signed in the last few weeks. Baby Leroy is a fixture at Paramount. This leaves Warner Brothers as the only major studio without some recently signed youngster. Meanwhile, George Breakston and Cora Sue Collins rush from one rôle to another. Both are free lance players. Short reel and comedy studios have scores of children under contract. Few of these, however, arrived in Hollywood without considerable experience first. There are a great many things that go to make up a successful child actor besides being "cute."

Victor Jory, as the Irish lover in "Anna Christie" at the Pasadena Community players theater, has made an enormus personal hit. Jory is the product of Art Theaters, and has been identified with the famous Ramona pageant at Hemet, Cal., in years past, as Alessandro, the Indian sweetheart and husband of Ramona. His wife, Jean Ennis, who played the title rôle in "Anna Christie" at Pasadena, played Ramona in the pageant at Hemet with him in former years.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

For the young lady who courts a lovely complexion: A fine cleansing cream, a texture cream to keep the skin supple, and a fine powder that gives a soft, natural finish.

A cosmetic souvenir of A Century of Progress is a trim blue box of beauty aids that's being snapped up by beauty seekers in shops all over town. We've got one and we're enthusiastic about it.

The products aren't so widely known as some others, but they're rather pets of ours because they're really fine.

In the box is a generous little jar of one of our favorite texture creams, a rich pink one that we fell in love with last winter when something had to be done about a skin that was corrugated from wind and cold. We like best to spank it up to a fluffy consistency, then to slather it on and leave it on overnight. It's grand for dry skins. Incidentally, with each of these kits you'll find a simple chart of massage movements with which to attack the lines around the eyes or the chin that are threatening to become twins.

There's a biggish box of powder, too, another of our cosmetic loves, since the shades and the texture are just what we like. This powder gives a beautiful finish if it's applied generously and then either brushed or smoothed off. Our own preference is for the powder brush, which we consider one of heaven's gifts to the woman who values a natural makeup.

Then there's the cleansing cream; this one the melting kind that takes care of the first step in facial beauty, the banishment of grime. It's beautifully efficient, and it doesn't leave the smeared, greasy feeling that makes you want to give up the whole program of trying to look lovely. It's a cleanser that doesn't seem to ooze out on you just when you're all powdered and looking slick.

It's a bargain, this box, that you should look up if you want an inexpensive introduction to some fine preparations. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Change to Bright Colors, the Right Perfume, Aid "Mousy"

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

It has been said that the "mousy" type of person seems at a loss when it comes to developing or expressing a personality. She invariably picks out the kind of clothes that are retiring: inconspicuous sports clothes and afternoon dresses. What she needs do is to choose clothes of brighter tones, colors that are stimulating, that will give her the "pep" she needs, and that will attract a little attention her way. Let others gossip about her if they will. They'll talk anyway, and it's well to give them something like this change to chatter about. Who knows, it may save some one's character from being ripped to shreds.

She'll find she feels like a different person when she finally has had the courage to step forth in her new rôle, and she'll look at life from an entirely different angle. Along with her change of dress, she may deem it well to affect a new coiffure. If hers is hair that has been graying and she has tried to hide those tell-tale gray hairs by a "home-brew" dye job, let her discontinue any artificial coloring and play up the beauties of graying hair.

Let her seek the services of a reputable hair dresser and have him suggest a new and becoming hairdress. The very wide wave is softening, and so flattering to graying hair. Just letting the hair remain gray, instead of dyeing it, will work quite a complete transformation in any woman. Unless a dyeing job is done with infinite skill it is bound to give even the sweet-tempered, mousy type a rather hardened expression. And what lady wants to be accused of looking "hard," no matter how indifferent to criticism she may claim to be?

The use of a new perfume is most helpful. The simple floral odors and light bouquets are suitable for practically all occasions, and are in popular demand at the present time. However, if you've been using this type of perfume and feel you want to change to a heavier one, you might enjoy jasmine or iris. The heavier perfumes are much more lasting than the light brand. In choosing a new perfume it is well to buy a very small quantity and try it. If you like it, then you can safely buy a larger bottle.

Metallic Threads Woven Into Pastel Tints.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

All that glitters in the new taffetas is gold or silver. For once you can believe what you see! Stunning tobacco brown or black is crossed with splendor, the squares of silver or golden threads woven through the silk. This stuff will make some spectacular dance and dinner dresses and some regal evening costumes. You'll dress on the gold standard this fall and winter, judging by the fabrics and bolts of shimmering new silks that have been unpacked.

Until you have seen heavy, lustrous moire silk with the wavy, beautiful design outlined with traceries of gold or silver you've seen only the beginning. You'll find ravishing pastel shades of silk lavishly shot with metallic threads, eye striking contrasts of dark, rich colors also pointed with gold and silver, and the real metal cloths that will make costumes in the grand manner.

You'll probably smile at the feather taffeta—just what it has been named—in all the interesting street colors of wine red, navy, leaf green, black, and brown, woven with bits of gray feathers. It does sound utterly preposterous, but look at the stuff before you sniff. It's a find for the shoppers who want a material that looks a bit woolly without the warmth of wool. It will make some of the best looking street dresses for early fall you've ever owned. Later on you can wear such a frock under a coat and be dressed for any occasion, smartly and with a decided originality.

For dull crêpe seekers there are some new textures, named after cereals. You'll think you've mixed your grocery list with a shopping list, for they will show you oatmeal crêpe, rice crêpe, and barley crêpe. These materials are exceptionally lovely, in all light and dark colors, and they do look exactly like what they are called. Quite a departure from the rather used pebble, bark, and fancy, bumpy weaves of last season.

The Illinois Council of Professional and Business Women will open its 1934 season with a luncheon Saturday in the Rococo tearoom, 16 East Ohio street.

Adrian Expects Hoopskirts to Return in Fall

"Many of our evening gowns this fall will swish about over flexible hoops," he announced.

"Bouffant crinoline skirts will be popular for evening wear."

This business of women copying the clothing styles they see in the movies is all right to some extent, but a certain discretion should be used, Omar Kiam, New York designer, says in another bit of fashion news.

Kiam, who is here under contract to Samuel Goldwyn designing costumes for Anna Sten in a new picture, said he recognized the screen "exerts the greatest influence upon the style-consciousness of the country today."

"But," he emphasized, "sometimes it is not so good for a woman to carbon-copy the gown of her favorite actress just because it may have looked well on the actress.

"It is important to keep in mind that screen styles are designed for a certain actress in keeping with her characterization in a certain picture and the environment of its plot. In the same way, the smart woman who wishes to adapt the actress' gown for herself should keep in mind her own individuality and the environment in which she will wear that gown."

Kiam said screen styles mostly are "greatly exaggerated."

"They have to be to register effectively.

"That is why a strict adaptation of a screen style is likely to appear fantastic in ordinary surroundings.

Such Is Fame Item; Studio Can't Direct Fan Mail to Actor

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 27.—(AP)—A motion picture actor has spurted to sudden and spectacular fame and his name is not even known to the studio for which he was working.

Several months ago M-G-M started going through its dusty film files. Several of the pictures, which had been in the files for years, were projected on a screen just for amusement. And they were so amusing the studio decided to release parts of them under the title "Goofy Movies."

In most of the films a certain high-collared gentleman has consistently enacted the "Menace."

He has gained such a following among the moviegoers the studio is receiving hundreds of fan letters each week asking his name.

But the studio so far has been unable to identify him.

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph. D.

Probably the only reason owls are considered wise is because they are so silent. If owls could talk they would not have any more reputation for wisdom than a parrot. Owls really are very stupid birds compared with the majority of birds. Bats are thought to be blind because they are seen most in the evening after the sun has set. They have good eyes, but their vision is better adapted to twilight than to the brightness of sunshine.

BLAZING GUNS

By WILLIAM MacLEOD RAINE

SYNOPSIS.

Cole Sanborn, fearless young outlaw and suspected train robber, sits with contemptuous composure on the couch of the Jonesboro house, in the stronghold of his enemies, while the sheriff of Boone county advises him to get out of town. Jerry Haskell, foreman of the Circle 3 T ranch, comes along, accompanied by a young woman. There is bitter warfare between that brand and Sanborn.

INSTALMENT II.

A FEARLESS REBEL.

Sanborn broke in with a lazy question. He still lounged in the chair. Only the glint in his steady narrowed eyes showed that every nerve and muscle of him was keyed for instant action.

"When you arrest me, Haskell, who do you aim to get to help you—that bunch of warriors that's just trailed into Casey's?"

"I'll do what showing is necessary," the sheriff said bluntly. "I'm not askin' help of the Circle 3 T to run my business."

"Which seems to be to protect train robbers." Haskell looked at the officer poisonously. "Look out, Magruder. Don't get swelled up on yore-self. You're not the big boss here."

"Who is?" cut in Sanborn.

The question was surplusage. Everybody in Boone county knew who ran it.

Sammie Magruder was an honest man. His election had been a surprise, to nobody more than to Chet Radbourne, the man who pulled wires and gave orders to subordinates. The little cowman had upset the cut and dried ticket of the machine by defeating the politician selected for the job. But he had no desire to measure strength against the Circle 3 T because of a campaign accident. He would be swept away like a chip in a flood.

Haskell remembered the young woman with him. "Go into the house and get a room for yourself, Miss Mary."

The girl looked at the foreman with sullen resentment. "That's an order, is it?" she asked.

"This is no place for a girl," he said, still watching Sanborn. "There's going to be trouble—soon."

The girl looked at the foreman with sullen resentment, "That's an order, is it?" she asked.

"I'm used to it," she answered bitterly. "I've seen nothing else since I came here."

Sanborn looked at her for the first time. She was slender, trim, and young.

"Better go, miss," he advised. "Big Chief Heap Much Talk has got notions."

The girl was aware of an electric tenseness in the air. She looked at Haskell, at Sanborn, then turned sharply on her heel and went into the house.

Magruder spoke, hastily. "Get this right—both of you. If there's any killing here, I'm in on it. I'll jump the first man who draws a gun."

The foreman did not look at him. Not for an instant did his gaze lift from the enemy sitting there at careless and alert ease. As he looked, the white heat of his anger burned out. His native caution reasserted itself. No use taking a chance, not with all the cards stacked against Sanborn. All he had to do was to wait—take his time. The fellow had ridden into a trap. Perhaps he had not expected to meet any Circle 3 T men, though he must have known he had enemies in town. Wilfully he had run the risk. Now he was caught, unless he moved very swiftly, and apparently he had no intention of leaving. For Cole Sanborn's audacity was colossal. Danger was the breath of life in his nostrils. He seemed to ignore rather than defy the enemies who ringed him about. Haskell could count four or five of these, not including Circle 3 T riders. There was Lauret, professional gambler, dealer at the Arcadia, who had been forced to take water during a difficulty with Sanborn. He was dangerous and vindictive. The proprietor of the place, Jim Maxon, had been drawn into the trouble, and he, too, had given way rather than press the matter to an issue, which had involved more than five hundred dollars as well as the prestige of the house as a square shooting concern. Also, there was Lutz, who had tried to skin Sanborn on a cattle deal. And Harley—and Preston, bully puss gunmen from the Nation. On Main street Cole had killed a horse thief in a duel.

Haskell hated Sanborn; always had from the first hour of meeting. They had been in a poker game at Summit. The foreman was strong and masterful. Most men stepped around him rather than oppose his temper. But Cole had completely disregarded it. Later Haskell cursed himself for not having seen that this quiet, cool stranger was dangerous. As usual, Haskell had begun to bull the big pots. Smoothly and efficiently Sanborn had relieted him of three hundred dollars, cashed in, and sauntered out of the saloon. Haskell knew that a dozen men were snickering in their sleeves at him. He hated it. Rage boiled in him. But there had been something in Sanborn's cold steady eyes that had quelled his impulse to shoot it out.

Since then Haskell had met the man occasionally, and never without anger surging in him. He had taken the trouble to learn what he could of Sanborn. The young man had once been a Circle 3 T rider, but even then was a rebel. An hour had come when he had publicly slapped Chet Radbourne's face and left the ranch.

That had not hurt him any with the public, but his subsequent wildness had affronted Jonesboro. The town had been a rendezvous of bad men, and he had faced down the worst of them. He had broken into the jail to release a friend of his charged with rustling by the Circle 3 T. Radbourne's warrior's had dryguiched him, and he had got away after being wounded. A wiser man would have capitalized his courage, but Sanborn let his name become anathema to Godfearing men and women. Though his strong sardonic face was far from handsome, the eyes of many women had followed his lightstepping trail with reluctant fascination. No mother ever introduced her daughter to him. His friends were devoted, but his foes outnumbered them. With scornful derision he moved among them, knowing that he was marked for death.

Now he sat on the porch of the Jonesboro house, in the heart of the enemy country, with a devil-may-care negligence amazing in its effrontery. Haskell was not afraid of him. He would not admit that. But why take a fifty-fifty chance when it was not necessary. Sanborn could draw like a streak of lightning and fling accurate bullets with a speed incredible. He had shot Buck Travis, a notorious gunman, through the heart, though Buck had been pumping lead before Sanborn's fingers had closed on the butt of his .45.

"I'll give you an hour to get out of town," Haskell said hoarsely. "An hour. If you're here then——"

"If I'm here maybe you'll give me another hour," Sanborn scoffed.

Haskell turned and went straddling down the walk to the Haven of Rest.

Magruder was the first to speak. "Better burn the wind outa this burg, Cole," he said.

Cole drawled. "I'd meant to mention to you I had business here."

The little man snorted. "Business! You heard Haskell. He's done served notice on you. Right now it may be too late. An' you sit here chinnin'."

"Don't you reckon he was joshing, maybe? With the sheriff here to protect me——"

"You know dawggone well I can't protect you," Magruder broke in impatiently, "unless I take you to jail. Not then, likely, with the Circle 3 T riders here egging on the boys to a necktie party they figure is considerable overdue. If I knew you'd robbed that train, Cole, hell an' high water wouldn't prevent me from arresting you. I've a good mind to do it, anyway," Magruder said quietly.

Sanborn rose and stretched himself with a yawn. He looked at his watch. "I reckon your advice is good medicine, sheriff," he said. "Gave me an hour, eh? A whole hour. Think of that. I'll be saying 'Adios'!"

The big man walked into the house with the springy tread divorced a thousand miles from fear.

Sour Milk Is Rated High as Cooking Asset

BY MARY MEADE.

"Don't cry over spilled milk," we've been advised nigh on to all our lives.

But if I were counselor my grandmotherly advice would be "Don't cry over sour milk." The same goes for cream. So many goodies owe their tastiness and tenderness to a half cup or so of one of these. Here are some recipes to save for such an emergency, although I've known folks to deliberately forget the bottle of cream on the back stoop just for a plate of this fudge. You can't blame them. The candy has a distinctive come-hither flavor.

Sour Cream Penuche.

3 cups light brown sugar
½ cup granulated sugar
1½ cups thick sour cream
1 tablespoon butter
Pinch of soda
½ cup broken nut meats

Dump the sugar, sour cream, and butter into a kettle and mix well. Boil to the soft ball stage. Let cool ten minutes or so, add the soda, and beat. When almost thickened stir in the nut meats and pour out on a buttered plate.

Another stunt worth knowing is that of baking apples in sour cream. Core, peel and slice the apples and place in a baking dish. Add sugar and spices if desired and cover with sour cream. Bake for twenty minutes or until the apples are soft in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.].

Chocolate Cake, Philadelphia Style.

½ cup shortening
1½ cups sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup sour milk
½ teaspoon soda
4 one-ounce squares unsweetened chocolate, melted in ½ cup hot water
1¾ teaspoons baking powder
1¾ cups sifted cake flour
¼ teaspoon salt

Cream the shortening with the sugar until light and fluffy. Add the beaten eggs and mix well. Add the cooled chocolate, water, and vanilla and beat until smooth. Sift flour with baking powder, salt, and soda, and add to the mixture, alternating with the sour milk. Pour into a greased pan or into layer pans and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) forty to fifty minutes.

Frozen Fresh Fruit Cream.

1 pint box berries or fresh fruit
½ cup sugar
½ cup water
2 cups thick sour cream, or
1 cup sour cream and 1 cup whipping cream

Wash the berries or cut the fruit in cubes. Cook with the sugar and water for six minutes. Strain through a sieve. Chill the mixture and fold in the sour cream or the sour cream and whipped cream. Pour into the tray of an automatic refrigerator and freeze.

Finances Are Hindrance to Bob's Romance

Her Parents Object to Modest Income.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Bob has my bets in the handicap race, in spite of the fact that he's about ready to call it quits. Any man who's conquered as many worlds as he, ought not to go unrewarded, and if my long distance rooting will do any good, he'll come through with honors.

He was the eldest son of a rich family, a family so wealthy that when he won a university scholarship his father paid the tuition for another lad who wanted to attend. Bob had a "beautiful new roadster, and joined one of the best fraternities."

—o—

Toward the end of his second year at school his father's business affairs started on the downgrade, and shortly after he returned to his junior year his father's partner committed suicide. That was the end of the business. Bob stuck it out at school by selling ties, raincoats. Then he peddled ice cream and hot dogs on the campus. By the end of the term he had a thriving business which netted him an income large enough to pay off his debts, keep him at school, and send home $25 a week. At the end of his senior year he had accumulated quite a sum, but lost it with the closing of the local bank.

During those later years he met Phyllis, only daughter of well-to-do parents. The family was kind to him, Bob writes, helped him in any number of ways, and didn't seem to object to his courtship of the daughter. He feels now that they felt the affair would end with his departure after graduation.

But that was not to be. Love thrived in spite of distance, and Phyllis finally sought schooling in the city of Bob's home. In the meantime things haven't been breaking right for the hero. His first job out of school enabled him to support his family of six, and he was ready to speak to Phyllis' father, when his job dissolved into thin air. He has another job now, which looks as if it might be a fair one, but he's faced with another difficulty. Realising that the youngsters are serious about each other, Phyllis' parents have been urging her to seek other company, on the grounds that Bob isn't financially able to court her!

As if a little matter of finance could deter a handicap champion like Bob! Or a little opposition, either! You wouldn't lay down on the job, now, would you, mister?

Hollywood

BY SIDNEY SKOLSKY.

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 27.—Hollywood's latest novelty will be a "drive-in theater." You drive your auto in, sit in the car and see a motion picture on the world's largest screen. There will be a seating capacity for 500 autos.

The next Mae West flicker will be titled "Now I'm a Lady." . . . One of your favorite movie actors walked into a beer garden the other night wearing a Chinese mandarin coat—and all he had on under it was a suit of pajamas. . . . Alice Faye, regardless of the fact that she may be in the middle of a scene, stops work at 4 o'clock every Thursday and rushes to her dressing room to listen to Rudy's hour.

Metro had to change an address in "The Thin Man" to avoid a lawsuit. . . . Remember when William Powell gives the address to the taxi driver? . . . The man who really owned the house of the movie address objected. . . . A new address, with a voice speaking for Powell, had to be dubbed in.

Ketti Gallian managed to go to a Hollywood party last week—but one of the two detectives guarding her kept parading up and down in front of the house and escorted her home. . . . Bob Benchley informed Metro he believes he should collect something for the use of his title, "David Copperfield." Benchley pointed to his book, "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea, or David Copperfield." . . . Warner's had to change the title of their flicker, "Just Out of College," to "Gentlemen Are Born," because the first title, they discovered, belongs to George Ade and they wouldn't pay the price for it. . . . Gloria Swanson wanted to visit Herbert Marshall, but she couldn't get on the Garbo set. . . . There is a prominent actress in Hollywood who once received some flowers from Al Capone with a card on which was written: "Kindest regards, Al Capone." The actress saved the card. She keeps it on top of her jewel box, thinking it will frighten away any thief.

Irene Dunne is to play the Helen Morgan rôle in "Sweet Adeline," so when Helen returned to Movietown Warner's immediately sent for her to make a movie test for another flicker, "Casino de Paree." This is the Al Jolson picture which is based upon the career of Ruth Etting and Col. Snyder. . . . Ruth Etting is in Hollywood in pictures, but they don't believe she is the type to play Ruth Etting, so they want Helen Morgan, who couldn't play her own rôle, to play Ruth Etting—which should give you an idea of Hollywood.

William Collier tells of the native Californian who was riding and boasting to his friend about the weather. Suddenly there was a cloudburst and the Californian turned to the friend and said: "Did you hear that fog?"

Sam Goldwyn was looking at a screen test of Mandy Christians, who will presently be a Metro star. "What do you think of her?" Sam was asked. "She's all right," slowly answered Goldwyn. "She might be colossal—but in a small way."

Child Training Is Immensely Broad Subject

It Is Fascinating and Many-Faceted.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

It's funny, isn't it, that you could have written more than 2,000 articles on child training and still not have covered every aspect of the subject?

"How can you think of things to write about?" people often ask me. Why, this subject is as deep as the ocean and as high as the hills, because it's human nature. There's no end to that. I have piles of notes and memoranda that are waiting to be expanded.

—o—

Everything enters into this subject of child guidance. Love, marriage, business, education, science—all affect the child. Child guidance does not concern itself only with the child's attitude toward his parents and the parents' attitude toward the child. The relationship between the husband and wife, the state of their health and finances, a love affair outside of marriage, a death or a divorce, the bringing into the family of relatives or outsiders, the going to live with grandparents, these are only a few of the factors which create other human relationships that affect the child.

—o—

The important thing for the writer to do is to choose those subjects to write about that seem most general. To be of the most help to the most people is her ideal. Yet, once in a while, she makes an exception, thinking, "here is a point on which perhaps only a few parents will be touched, but those few are in desperate need and if they and their children are helped, it's worth the space." And then, to her surprise, she receives letter after letter when the article appears.

That's one reason why child guidance is such a rich and varied subject, why it never runs dry, because it plumbs the depths and scales the heights of human nature.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

THE SIMS NO-TRUMP THEORY.

At the conclusion of yesterday's article I said that I deliberately eliminate the possibility of unnecessary approach bids after the bidding has been opened with a no-trump declaration. By "unnecessary" I mean unnecessary for game purposes. I do not rule out safety escape bidding; I facilitate it; but unless opener has concealed a long suit, I confine it to the responding hand and that (in connection with extreme weakness) only by means of suits of not less than five cards. That is where safety lies in twenty-six cards with which game hopes in no trumps must be abandoned. It is then far safer to play for three-odd in responder's five card suit than two no-trumps.

How the Responsibility Passes Back and Forth.

That is why I give the original no-trump bidder grave responsibility with regard to his opening bid, and advise no more than a very slight shading, and that only third or fourth hand. After the opening bid the responding hand takes at least an equal responsibility when determining the nature of his first response: If he says "two no-trumps," the hand is irrevocably consigned to a game contract. If he bids two in a suit, he is temporizing, leaving a safety outlet. He hopes that opener is strong enough to "take the strain off the responder" by bidding three no-trumps, in which case the opener alone will be to blame if anything goes wrong; if, however, the opening bidder merely says two no-trumps over the suit take-out, the responding hand is saddled with the whole responsibility if he bids three no-trumps. If he rebids to three in his suit, he is emphatically warning the opener, and after that warning the opener alone is to blame if he bids three no-trumps and fails to make it.

Bringing Out the Full Responsibilities of Weak Hands.

I feel that this method of bidding is the most successful of any in current use today with respect to the two extreme requirements of weak to fair hands with which slam prospects are not in view.

1. It provides safety against large penalties and not only through the soundness of the opening bid, but also through the response requirements which are flexible in the most logical manner: (a) if supplying only high cards, game will be bid but the responding requirements are comparatively high; (b) if supplying suit length requirements are low, but game need not be bid if extreme weakness in the responding hand is not balanced by reserve strength in that of the opening bidder.

2. By virtue of the procedure just mentioned, which is available when the responding hand can bid a five card suit, we enable game to be bid and made on many hands where the responding hand is miserably weak in high cards or in suit solidity—hands which would have to pass if their partners had opened the bidding with a no-trump under most of the current systems, for fear that the no-trump could not stand the burden of a response leading to a rebid.

What to Do to Doubles.

It is good contract to bid and make these games. Most systems can handle the strong hands, but under what other theory of no-trump bidding do you find this situation created; though able to bid with very little strength, the responding hand's second bid, his rebid, creates generally a safer situation than he would have created originally by passing the opening no trump when he is very weak; while when he is weak but not extremely so, he can lead the partnership to game declarations which, though sometimes unsuccessful, are extremely profitable on balance and, when they fail, are seldom doubled; if doubled, may be redoubled at least half the times; when redoubled, will be made not less than twice out of three times. Two fine card players who reach a doubled three no-trump contract using the Sims system, by constructive bidding on the lines laid down in these articles, without having cut any corners, make it an almost automatic habit to redouble. Declarer can usually give the "big wink" about the fifth trick.

Comfort for Sleepy Heads

CHILD'S NIGHTIE.

An outstanding feature of this pattern for night drawers is its front closing, enabling a youngster to slip into it without any help. It has a drop seat, and it can be made with a standing collar that hugs the neck, or it can be made collarless. Outing flannel will be fine for cold weather wear, while percale or cotton crêpe will be good for now.

The pattern, No. 3036, comes in sizes 2, 4, 6, and 8 years.

Tucking Has Prominent Role in Afternoon Ensemble by Paray

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—One of the outstanding features of the latest Paris fashions is a tendency toward ornate effects. The somewhat austere, high necked dresses of last winter are supplanted by those having lower decolletes and decorative bodices, lavishly worked, stitched, or trimmed in charmingly frivolous fashion. Tucks are extensively used both as all over ornamentation and to fit, shape, or lend fulness to the frock at strategic style points.

Lucile Paray tucks Paris chic into the afternoon ensemble of velvety black wool, sketched here, featuring one of her characteristic slipover jackets appearing to belong to the dress at casual glance. The large figure gives you the effect of the whole outfit. The jacket [or vest] has a collarette of the wool, all trimmed with handstitched vertical tucks, horizontally banded with black astrakhan, which becomes one with the short sleeved back before continuing on into a wide tucked belt that buttons at center front with two large wool covered buttons, fluted like snow crystals.

The dress, which is shown at the lower left, has a surplice bodice filled in by a plastron of the tucked wool with pretty, frilly edge. Tucks fitting the long sleeves at the top and over the forearms are released to give the smart fulness in the neighborhood of the elbows. You will notice that these sleeves cleverly continue the composition of the jacket when that is worn, and also that the ruffled edge of the plastron shows above the collarette. The wide corselet belt of the dress is shaped by horisontal tucks and buttoned on either side by the fluted snow crystal buttons.

Fairbanks, Miss Lawrence Offer New Play in England

BOURNEMOUTH, England, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Again playing as husband and wife, Douglas Fairbanks Jr. and Gertrude Lawrence tonight opened their new play, "Here Lies Truth," at the big municipally owned pavilion here. Young Fairbanks, whose heart is set on making a name for himself on the London stage, may have better luck this time than in his last attempt, critics believe.

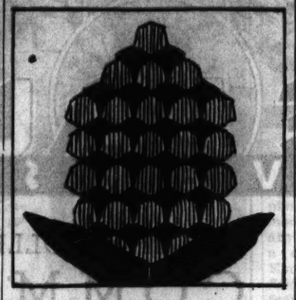
Delicate Hues of Mignonette Make Lovely Coverlet



Mignonette.

Patterns of this quilt design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street, Tribune Tower, and Hall of Science, A Century of Progress.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Will Meet Society at Party at Fentress Home.

the Rev. Edmund Randolph Laine, rector of St. Paul's, assisted by Dr. Douglas H. Cornell of the Glencoe church. After the ceremony there will be a reception at Tamarack, the Holloway country home at Tyringham in the Berkshires.

The Holloway family has been east for the whole summer entertaining numerous Chicago and north shore friends for a week-end or a week. Mrs. John Jerome Finlay and her small daughter, Barbara, whose home is in Geneva, are now the guests of the Holloways. They motored down to Tyringham from their summer home at Gilmartin, N. H. Another guest is George A. Holloway of New York.

Jameson Wedding at Hull Home.

The lovely summer home of Morton D. Hull at Bennington, Vt., is to be the setting for a wedding reception Saturday afternoon when Mr. Hull's niece, Miss Eunice Jameson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Minor S. Jameson of Chevy Chase, Md., becomes the bride of John B. Fox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Fox of Hingham, Mass. The wedding breakfast and reception will be at Mr. Hull's home. One of the ushers will be Mr. Hull's son, Dennison Hull.

All the thrills of a Hollywood moving picture premiere will be found tomorrow and Thursday nights at the Deerpath theater in Lake Forest when a group of debutantes and subdebutantes impersonate the stars of the cinema at the premiere of "Hollywood Party." The proceeds of the two performances will go to local charities.

Frank G. Logan Given Decoration.

Another Chicagoan to be made a member of the French Legion of Honor is Frank G. Logan, who was decorated last night at a dinner in the Logan apartment at 1150 Lake Shore drive. Rene Weiller, the French consul general in Chicago, presented the decoration to Mr. Logan in recognition of the many years he has contributed to arts, education and scientific research. Mr. Logan, who is tremendously interested in anthropology, has equipped expeditions into north Africa and has also endowed the Logan museum at Beloit college. There hang eight panels, painted by the late John S. Norton, depicting the rise of men from the hill town men to the present day.

Carter H. Harrison, who was decorated recently, presided at the dinner, and there were eight speakers as well as several other guests, Mrs. Logan, and Mme. Weiller. The speakers included Percy B. Eckart, vice president of the Art institute; C. S. Pellet, vice president of Beloit college; Dudley Crafts Watson of the Art institute; George S. Steere, vice president of the University of Chicago; Charles H. Burkholder, secretary of the Art institute; Lorado Taft, L. H. Shattuck of the Chicago Historical society, and Paul H. Nesbitt of the Logan museum.

NEW ZEALAND'S BIGGEST RADICAL SCHEME IN PERIL

Public Trust Piles Up 300 Million Business.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WELLINGTON, N. Z., Aug. 27.—Can the public trust office, which is New Zealand's largest and most successful venture in state socialism in this century, manage to survive?

That is what New Zealanders are asking, now that John W. Macdonald, stour and determined Scotsman who built up this $300,000,000 enterprise, is dead.

The public trust office, begun by the old radical government in the nineties, was the one experiment which met with greatest success. Proud old radicals often refer to it as "the greatest monument to Liberalism." It was not considered any great advance when founded, however, and for many years enjoyed only a moderate growth.

In the flurry of legislative experiments by the radicals, the public trust was just one small bite into the legal pie. It grew steadily for more than twenty years. Fourteen years ago Macdonald was appointed public trustee. Within five years the department had gained business at such a rate that the New Zealand Law society met to se what it could do to check this unparalleled menace to its existence.

Make Wills Free of Charge.

The office directed by the public trustee was designed to aid citizens who had a fear of lawyers. Parliamental acts provided that the department might make wills free of charge. Legal advice was given on the subject of wills and legacies, provided that the estate was handed over to the public trust office at death. The most powerful provision of all was a law establishing the public trustee as the executor of all estates where there was no will.

These things were not done for nothing. The administration charge for handling estates stood at a fixed scale according to size. Frequently the fees were higher than those attorneys would have made for the same services, for the public trustee took no account of how much work an estate involved. The easy estate paid more than the difficult one, if it stood at a higher figure. But the people did not know this and it was a principal factor in attracting them.

A second reason for the growth of the office was the fact that it appeared to offer greater security. The "common fund" of the office, rising to $150,000,000, was named as the backing which every investor obtained by placing his estate with the office. "Security," in fact, was the slogan which the department adopted in one of the most intensive advertising campaigns ever conducted in this country. It brought results.

Estates Bear Losses.

"Actually the common fund was not backing every investment and where the public trustee made errors the estates involved had to bear the losses.

Another great factor in the building up of the department came from the cheap money policy on government loans for houses. Workers' loans were available up to 95 per cent of the government valuation of a house if the worker was not earning more than $1,500 a year. "Advances to settlers," designed to establish men on the land, were continued to provide houses for those who had more than this figure as a yearly income and when the war-time shortage of dwellings was attacked the public trust office flourished.

"This policy meant that more workers had estates to administer and that they were attracted to the department which offered free legal aid. Also, it brought the state into conflict with private interest in a new sphere, for the public trustee handed over most of his insurance business to the state fire insurance department which thus obtained the cream of the insurable buildings and was able to cut rates.

The public trust department took over many other activities. It became, for one thing, a brewer. As head of the great T. G. McCarthy trust, the public trustee issued advertising for beer and "brown stout" and each year he advised a specially appointed board how to disburse benefactions earned by the sale of this liquor. He operated theaters. He held shares in newspapers. He made farm loans.

Lawyers Start Probe.

In 1928 the national law society began a secret investigation of the methods and resources of the public trust. The result proved conclusively that the appeal to "security" which had brought in the hesitant investor had been misleading. The lawyers prepared to fight the public trust and to expose the faults of the system when Macdonald, hearing that a special agent had been sent round the country to rouse local law societies for a national advertising campaign, offered to restrict his own advertising if the campaign was not launched. The lawyers agreed and the fight did not begin.

The law society has always maintained that Macdonald's death would mean the collapse of the giant trust business which he had created. It is claimed that the office will not long survive the driving force which he brought to it and that in a few years the attorneys will recover the business they lost.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

August 27, 1934.

OUT of 31 different varieties or strains of corn grown on THE TRIBUNE'S experimental farm test plots this season, hybrid No. 13 has made the best showing as an ensilage or fodder crop, according to Paul Sleezer, who has made daily observations of the plants since they were planted in the spring. This superior corn is so new that it is known only by number. It has made an excellent growth despite dry weather, chinch bugs and plant lice attacks.

It is conservatively estimated by Mr. Sleezer that hybrid No. 13 will yield more than twice as many tons of corn silage as Western Plowman, now being cut for silage in an 80 acre field on the farm. Western Plowman is an old standby corn with many growers in Illinois. This variety of corn also is being grown in the test field not far from hybrid No. 13. Stalks in a hill of hybrid No. 13 weigh an average of 10 pounds while hills of Western Plowman average only 4½ pounds.

The superiority of hybrid No. 13 is so obvious that visitors, inexperienced in the growing of corn, notice the striking difference. It is a cross between Kutlas, a Russian yellow corn, and Yellow Dent, a corn commonly grown in the middle west. Its leaves already measure from 5 to 6 inches in width and average 30 inches in length; some are 36 inches long. The stalks are about 10½ feet tall. In a normal year they grow to a height of 14 feet in central Illinois. The leaves appear on the stalks 3½ to 4½ inches apart, and there are from 13 to 20 leaves to each stalk. Leaves on ordinary Dent corn are much narrower, shorter, and are not so thick on the stalk. All but about 15 per cent of the leaves on hybrid No. 13 are still green, while nearly half the leaves are brown on 90 day Yellow Dent corn at the farm.

No. 13 is considered a late corn, but has a good crop of well developed ears which will ripen before a normal killing frost this far north. The kernels are not yet dented. The plants will not only produce an excellent crop of blades and stalks for stover, but will make a high yielding fodder and ensilage crop with a good chance of developing ear corn that would keep when stored in cribs.

During the tasseling season Mr. Sleezer noticed one outstanding characteristic of hybrid No. 13 which makes it a valuable corn in a dry year. He observed that the leaves stood erect throughout the season, making a heavy crown of foliage which protected the tassels and prevented them from being damaged by the hot rays of sun. This insured pollenization and as a result ears are well developed; all parts of the cob, including the tip, are covered with kernels.

Hybrid No. 172, grown primarily for grain, is also making a fine showing as an ensilage or fodder crop in the farm's tests this year. The weight of the stalks averages about 9 pounds to the hill, slightly less than hybrid No. 13. It takes 120 days for No. 172 to mature and is considered too late as a grain crop for this part of the corn belt. But it has made a better showing than 90 day Yellow Dent grown in the same field.

SHIP TO SAIL FOR ARCTIC TO FIND STRANDED PRIEST

CHURCHILL, Man., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Final preparations were being made today for the sailing of the Pius XI., the Roman Catholic supply ship which may bring the Rev. H. N. Bazyn out of the distant wilderness where he has been stranded for four years.

Father Bazyn started from Pond inlet, on the far northeast coast of Baffin Land, and made his way on foot toward Igloolik, 400 miles to the southwest, where he has been ministering to the Eskimos. Since then he has lived off the land and has not seen a white man.

Two North Side Saloons and Hotel Robbed of $140

Four armed men, riding in a small sedan, halted early today at two saloons and a hotel on the north side and robbed employés of a total of $140. They first visited Charles Bibergall's tavern at 1301 Marianna street, where their loot was $100. At John Wickett's saloon, 2524 Southport avenue, they obtained $15. Their next stop was the Shoreham hotel at 3318 Lake Shore drive, where they took $25 from the manager, James Doyle, and forced him into a freight elevator with another employé, Jack Walker.

U.S. Plane Sets New Record on Hop from Rio to Natal

NATAL, Brazil, Aug. 27.—(AP)—A new record for the Rio de Janeiro to Natal run behind hea., Pan-American Airways' new Brazilian clipper landed here at 4:30 p. m. today. The giant flying boat, carrying nineteen American newspaper executives back home after the ship's inaugural trip down through the America: to Buenos Aires, covered the 1,500 miles between Rio and Natal in eight and one-half hours, an average of 180 miles per hour.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, will help conduct a class at Cleveland college this fall on current international problems, Dr. A. Caswell Ellis, director of the college, announced tonight.

AAA MAPS NEW PLAN FOR FARM PRODUCE RULE

May Base Limit on Total Consumed in U. S.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—(AP)—The AAA, it developed today, may tell American farmers soon that they shall produce only as much as is consumed within the borders of the United States plus whatever economically can be sold abroad.

That would mean abandonment of the present system under which production is limited to a fixed percentage of a farmer's average output over a "base period"—a number of past years.

The only commodity now produced on a domestic consumption basis is sugar, limited by agreement to approximately 6,476,000 tons during 1934.

Draft Livestock Plan.

But a new livestock control plan for next year is being drafted. Under it the number of livestock raised would be limited indirectly by control of feed grains.

Meanwhile the bureau of agricultural economics issued an estimate that income of farmers in the United States would total approximately 6 billion dollars during the present calendar year. The estimate is 19 per cent above last year and 39 per cent over the previous year.

The new livestock plan would be executed through a composite contract covering production of all feed grains now listed as "basic commodities" in the agricultural adjustment act.

May Include Wheat.

Wheat, corn, rye, grain sorghums, and barley are the basic grains included. Since approximately 100 million bushels of wheat are normally fed to livestock and poultry each year, consideration is being given to including it in the contract.

Principal attention will be given to corn production, however, since nearly the entire crop goes into hog feeding and fattening of cattle. Because of this year's prospective short crop of 1,607,000,000 bushels compared with a normal of 2,516,000,000, AAA officials admitted that the 1935 allowed production under acreage adjustment would be higher than this year's.

The 1934 corn-hog contract calls for a reduction of 20 to 30 per cent from the base period average and it was estimated that approximately 12 million acres were taken out of production.

Next year's contract probably will call for a comparative reduction of 15 to 20 per cent, the aim of the administration being to adjust corn output to approximately the level of feeding requirements for the livestock population which is now undergoing surplus adjustment through the emergency purchase of cattle and sheep in drouth stricken states.

CUBS WIN, 1-0; LEE HOLDS GIANTS TO 3 HITS

BEARS MELT TO FIGHTING TRIM IN SCRIMMAGE

Ronzani in Uniform; to Play Friday.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Scrimmage of a kind so tough that it brought forth a lot of grunts as well as a quantity of perspiration kept the Bears busy for an hour yesterday as they moved another lap closer to their Friday night's battle at Soldiers' field with the All-Stars. It was only the second scrimmage conducted since the practice drill started and it may be the last because of Head Coach Halas' fears that another might be an invitation to additional injuries.

The afternoon session which has been in vogue for the last week was canceled yesterday, but the boys made up for the idleness last night. They assembled at Northwestern's practice field and, with a white ball in use, dashed through signals as a means of accustoming themselves to conditions under the electric lights. This may be their only workout under artificial sunshine prior to the game.

Here's Real Reducing!

An indication of the energy expended by some of the fellows in the scrimmage was furnished when they stepped on the clubhouse scales. Bronko Nagurski, the battering full back, shed 7 pounds while he was on the field. Roy [Link] Lyman, one of the regular tackles, got rid of 11 pounds. Vince Zizak, one of the new guard candidates, melted off 8 pounds. Ray Richards, tackle, and Conrad Collin, a back field candidate, each dropped 6 pounds.

Gene Ronzani, the professional champions' regular right half, was back in uniform after a three day rest due to a leg injury incurred in the first scrimmage last Thursday. He took no part in the scrimmage, but the injury has healed sufficiently to allay fears that he might not be able to take a hand in the activity Friday night. Sisk, who suffered a similar injury in the first scrimmage, also confined himself to the rôle of a spectator yesterday.

Millheam and Franklin divided the work in Ronzani's position and at times George Corbett, the first string quarter, moved to Red Grange's left half job. This made an opening for Carl Brumbaugh at quarter.

Aha! Spies at Work.

So many folks have been peeking at the Bears' through the wire fence surrounding the Lane Tech field that Coach Halas is beginning to suspect that some of them are not there solely out of curiosity. His operatives have brought back word that the All-Stars appear to know a great deal about what is going on among the professionals. The collegians, of course, wouldn't resort to spying, but to be safe Halas, either today or tomorrow, will take his squad to a secret spot to polish up on some entirely new tricks.

A few days ago, some of the Bears, merely because they had nothing else to do, visited the practice session of the All-Stars. They were discovered and there was great ado until they had been bounced off the premises.

Tomorrow's workout will be the last in which the Bears will have to exert themselves to any extent prior to the game. On Thursday morning they will take a light signal drill and in the evening probably will visit Soldiers' field to run through plays under the lights.

BEAVER DEFEATS 3 IN SHOOTOFF FOR CLAY TITLE

Vandalia, O., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Walter Beaver of Berwyn, Pa., 1933 grand American handicap champion, defeated three other marksmen in a 75 target shootoff today for the North American clay target championship on the first day's program at the American Trapshooting association meet.

Beaver, Forest W. McNeir of Houston, Tex.; Joe Heistand of Hillsboro, O., and Hale Jones of East Alton, Ill., tied at 199-200. Heistand missed on the first 25 target shootoff and took fourth place.

Jones went out on the second 25 for third place, and McNeir missed in the third event of the shootoff to take second place as Beaver broke 75 in a row.

HIT 'EM HARD! HIT 'EM LOW!

There'll be a lot of football dynamite exploded at Soldiers' field Friday night when the Chicago Bears meet the college All-Americans.

But here's something you want to remember, too. The fans are crashing those tickets offices just as hard as Bronko Nagurski will steam into the All-Star line.

The ticket supply just can't take it. Thirty thousand remain this morning—by nightfall, another big block will be gone.

So hit that ticket line now! The price is $1.10 and seats are on sale at the Tribune Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn, at Tribune Tower, and in the Hall of Science at a Century of Progress.

Bear, All-Star Coaches Sing New Song, but It's Still Blue

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The football battle between the 1933 All-Americans and the Chicago Bears, professional champions, at Soldiers' field Friday night, yesterday had reached an impasse with each set of coaches predicting success for their opponents. For nearly two weeks there have been insistent rumors that neither expected to win and that speeches of congratulations were being written.

George Halas, coach of the National league title holders, added another page to his message to the victors when he received word that the game would be played under the intercollegiate forward pass rule. This, according to Coach Halas, absolutely spelled defeat for the professionals. Only the urging of his players, who still wanted a chance to try their plays on the college boys, kept Halas from throwing up his hands, quitting the sinking ship, and surrendering before the battle was started.

What an Anvil Chorus!

It also developed, as the date of the contest drew nearer, that the professionals couldn't get into condition [they were too old]; that they couldn't find a punter who even knew how to kick, and that they would be satisfied if the college boys would promise to stop at three touchdowns.

Coach Halas never sang a sweeter melody of woe. But from Dyche stadium came those Wabash blues, a tearful refrain of deeper tone. The melody was carried by Coach Noble Kizer with a thin, piercing tenor by Coach Jimmy Crowley blending with the dulcet bass of Coach Dick Hanley.

Thirty-six All-Americans were practicing against the night when they would be run over by the big, bad Bears. The linemen were heavy but inexperienced. The backs were only fair blockers, they couldn't forward pass, and it was a question whether they could run with the ball, provided they could take the ball away from the Bears.

One Team May Lose.

Coach Hanley yesterday pointed out many of these difficulties to the members of the Junior Association of Commerce at the noon luncheon of that organization. He said, in part, that the 36 players on the All-Star squad represented 15 different styles of play, and admitted that the professionals had all the better of the impending contest.

Barring a tie, of course, it is obvious that one team or the other must win Friday night. In which event, one set of congratulations on "your splendid victory" must be torn up. In the meantime the only winner who admits as much is Mr. John J. Fan, who is hanging onto his seat check and waiting for the kickoff. In increasing numbers Mr. Fan and his ilk have bought their seats. In the beginning they all wanted to sit between the 20 yards lines. That laudable ambition could be stretched only so far. Now it's take the best one can get, but it might be noted in

Make It for Two!

MAJ. A. W. RICHARDSON, superintendent of the Sky Ride at A Century of Progress, yesterday received a letter from Joe O'Donnell, a football fan from Midlothian, Ill., asking that space be saved for him on the observatory of the west tower for Friday's night game between the Bears and College All-Stars, so that he might have a full view of the battle.

RAINBOW WINS OVER YANKEE IN CUP TRIAL

Newport, R. I., Aug. 27.—[Special.]—Harold Stirling Vanderbilt today sailed the yacht Rainbow much nearer her goal of being America's cup defender to meet T. O. M. Sopwith's challenger Endeavor.

Rainbow defeated Yankee in the fifth defense trial over the international course of 30 miles by 3 minutes and seven seconds.

There was both light air and smooth water to Yankee's demonstrated liking. The breeze ranged from six to seven knots and was consistent; the sea almost as placid as a millpond.

Yankee had been the light breeze winner and a questionable heavy weather eater. A stiff wind was hoped for to find out whether she would hold Rainbow in blow and wave, which Rainbow was known to prefer.

Rainbow clearly out-sailed Yankee. She was 2 minutes and 40 seconds faster in ten miles to windward, 30 seconds faster close reaching, and was outrun 3 seconds only because as she was far ahead it was not thought wise to risk tearing her parachute spinnaker.

The race changed the entire defense problem. Yankee's chances assumed a much more sombre shade. It was announced tonight that another contest would be held tomorrow.

Rainbow now has won three of the final trials to Yankee's two. Each has beaten the other once. Rainbow attained her margin by defeating Weetamoe twice. Yankee whipped Weetamoe only once.

Of her last six races, including the Astor and King's cup contest, Rainbow has won five, and of her last four races in which Yankee has competed, Rainbow has won three.

LEVINSKY SIGNS TO FIGHT SYKES IN TRIBUNE SHOW

Card Topped by Londos, Lewis Is Completed.

BY ARCH WARD.

King Levinsky, heavyweight championship contender who has drawn more customers to Chicago bouts than any boxer of his day, yesterday signed a contract to fight Art Sykes of Elmira, N. Y., ten rounds at Wrigley field the night of Sept. 20 on the card featuring Jim Londos and Ed Lewis in a heavyweight championship wrestling match.

The Levinsky-Sykes encounter completes the most extraordinary athletic program ever presented in Chicago. Three boxing bouts between outstanding fighters, an exhibition match by Barney Ross and two wrestling contests comprise the card.

Here's Program, Fans!

This will be the order of the night:

Young Stuhley versus Solly Dukelsky, eight rounds at 160 pounds.

Jim Londos versus Ed Lewis, 90 minutes to a decision. If either wrestler wins a fall the match will be over.

Jack Dempsey has postponed a trip to Europe in order to accept an invitation to referee one of the boxing bouts. Profits of the show, which will be sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will be donated to charity.

Four Straight Knockouts.

Sykes, a 21 year old Syrian, came to Chicago less than three months ago. Since then he has won his four ring appearances by knockouts. He disposed of Biff Bennett, Rusty Fields, Les Marriner, and Frank Ketter in that order. The importance of these conquests does not rest in the names of the victims but in the manner he whipped them. Sykes is managed by Eddie Long, formerly associated with Bud Taylor and Sammy Mandell. Victory over Levinsky would place Sykes alongside Max Schmeling, Art Laskey, Steve Hamas, and Primo Carnera, as a challenger for Max Baer's title.

Sykes played baseball and football at Cook academy, Montour Falls, N. Y., under Coach Al Humphries, former Big Ten wrestling champion. His work as a student and athlete at Virginia Tech and Duke university earned him an appointment to the United States Naval academy, a privilege he did not accept. He has been boxing four years, two as an amateur and two as a professional.

Levinsky already has begun preparations for the bout. If he wins he expects to meet Max Schmeling late this fall.

Lewis Returns Friday.

Ed Lewis will return to Chicago Friday after his last warmup matches in the east and will begin training Saturday. Application has been made for a permit for him to work in Lincoln park. There, of course, will be no admission fee for those who wish to watch him prepare for the championship bout.

Londos will arrive by plane from Los Angeles Sunday. He will do his preliminary work at Round Lake, but probably will move into the city two weeks before the show.

Ticket orders are being accepted by mail. The scale of prices is $6, $3.60, and $2.40, tax included. There will be general admission tickets for $1.20, but these will not be sold until the night of the bouts. Address ticket applications to Wrestling Ticket Manager, CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

WINSTON GUEST RETURNS TO PLAY IN POLO TRIALS

New York, Aug. 27.—(AP)—The climax of the eastern polo tryouts to determine the team which will oppose the west will be featured Wednesday by the return to play of Winston Guest, eight goal star, after an absence of nearly two months.

Guest will replace Robert W. Strawbridge Jr. of Philadelphia at back on the Whites, joining Seymour Knox, Earle A. S. Hopping and Stewart Iglehart in a match against the current eastern favorites, Mike Phipps, Jimmy Mills, Ebby Gerry and Billy Post. This will be the seventh of the test series.

Guest played with the eastern team which was defeated by the western stars at Chicago last summer. Before going abroad on his honeymoon in July he announced he was not a candidate for this year's team, but on his return recently he accepted an invitation to enter the competition.

Holmes, Ex-Ripon Star, to Get Tryout with Packers

Ripon, Wis., Aug. 27.—[Special.]—Walter [Cyclone] Holmes, Stoughton, captain of the Ripon college varsity last fall and for three years a football and basketball star, will be given a tryout at a back field position with the Green Bay Packers this fall, according to announcement today.

Hertz Racing Mare, Anita Peabody, Dies

The great racing mare Anita Peabody, which won fame while racing in the silks of Mrs. John Hertz, died at Leona farm, maintained by Mrs. Hertz near Cary, Ill., early yesterday morning.

One of the fleetest thoroughbreds of recent years and winner of the $125,000 Belmont Futurity in 1927, Anita Peabody's death came after an illness of 10 days. She was first afflicted with a sore throat. Then a general infection set in.

Anita Peabody was bred by Mr. Hertz at Keeneland Stud in Kentucky. When the filly began to show unusual speed as a 2 year old Mr. Hertz presented her to Mrs. Hertz as a birthday present.

Anita Peabody could run as fast as 2 year olds have ever been able to run in this country. She rolled up one stake victory after another and wound up her campaign with the brilliant victory in the Futurity, richest of all American races.

Her campaign as a 2 year old had taken its toll and her legs were not so stout when she came out as a 3 year old. She scored one brilliant victory as a 3 year old and then was retired in 1928 while Reigh Count went on to win the American championship.

ANITA PEABODY.

It was the hope of Mr. and Mrs. Hertz to produce a great champion through the mating of Reigh Count and Anita Peabody. There are three living offshoots of this mating. Our Count was the first. He is beginning to show signs of greatness and has won numerous overnight handicaps in the west this season. The other is Our Reigh, a 2 year old which is a rapidly growing fellow and which may go on to fame late this season just as his daddy did back in the fall campaign of his 2 year old season in 1927. The third is a suckling colt, which has not been named.

Anita Peabody was heavily insured but nothing could make up for the grief which prevailed on Leona farm yesterday. Leona farm is the most pretentious thoroughbred breeding place in Illinois.

At the Hawthorne track tears rolled out of the eyes and down the weather beaten cheeks of Bert Michell, the trainer who saddled Anita Peabody for her Futurity victory, when he was told of her death.

Michell is no softie. He has known all the ups and downs of racing. He has been training horses on small tracks and on metropolitan courses for 30 years, and he has watched a lot of his dreams go up in smoke.

"When I put the saddle on Anita I knew exactly what she would do," he said.

"If there ever was a horse loyal to a trainer it was Anita Peabody. She came as near understanding what a human could say to her as any horse I've ever handled. One couldn't be around her long without becoming very fond of her."

Thousands of Chicago racegoers were saddened by the news of Anita Peabody's death. There may not have been any sentiment in their feelings; still, they remembered that when their money was down on Anita Peabody she never failed them.

MOVIE MOGULS DON'T TRUST MAX; PUT HIM TO WORK

Studio executives and the boxer's representatives, discovering the film can not be started into production for at least two weeks and knowing Maxie's proclivities toward social and night life, put their heads together.

As a result Max will remain in Hollywood only a few hours. Then he will be trundled off on a two week's tour of the Pacific northwest, during which he will referee several fights.

STAGG STARTS 45TH YEAR AS FOOTBALL COACH

Stagg's schedule this year includes games with the University of Southern California and California.

"What we will do in those games is up to the boys themselves," he declared. "If they are in good condition, I am very hopeful."

STAINBACK GETS DOUBLE IN 7TH, SCORES CUYLER

New York Lead Cut to 4½ Games.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Bill Lee did the pitching and George Stainback did the hitting. These are the basic facts in the story of how two rookies brilliantly slapped a 1 to 0 licking on the world champion Giants yesterday to make it two straight for the Cubs in the four game series.

Three scattered hits, all singles, was the extent of Lee's big heartedness. None of the three was made by the Giants' two bone crushers, Bill Terry and Mel Ott. Lee was even more niggardly toward these two gents than he was when he beat Hubbell, 2 to 1, in New York on July 17. That day he shut out Terry, but one of his pitches slipped and Ott got a single in the eighth.

That Victory Seventh!

Stainback's big moment came with two out in the seventh, though the California flash already had the distinction of having made the first hit off the talented Hal Schumacher. Here's what happened in the victory seventh:

With one down Kiki Cuyler lined a single to center, the fourth hit off Schumacher, thus becoming the first Chicago base runner after the third inning. Babe Herman then gave himself another hitless game in the series when he sent a high fly to Moore. Up came Stainback, still frisky from his perfect offensive Sunday, in which he scored three runs. George picked out one of Schumacher's specials and gave it a ride to the left field corner, a double which enabled Ki to speed across without even a play at the plate.

The Cubs seemed in a fair way to grab another run when Hartnett slammed a hot one toward left, but Travis Jackson made a great back handed catch and the side was retired. Also the Cubs' hitting total for the day, four singles and a double, had been compiled.

25,000 Cheer Cubs.

Schumacher, who drew his seventh defeat of the year while in quest of his 20th victory, did not permit a Cub to reach second base, excepting Ki and George in the victory inning. Hal had a little better control than Lee, walking none, but it made no considerable difference, for Lee allowed only three runners to get to second and none to third. Of the four batsmen Lee walked, one was intentional. Lee made the only error in the game, with one out in the third, but it didn't upset him in the least.

The victory, witnessed by 25,000, the largest Monday paid crowd in several years, enabled the Cubs to reduce the Giant lead to 4½ games with two more contests to play in the current series and six more in the season series. It was the fifth straight licking the Cubs have accorded the champs at Wrigley field and the ninth in the sixteen games of the season series played to date.

Six Hits in Two Days.

The Giants, for their two days here, boast of a grand total of one run and six hits. Ott and Jackson have made a grand total of two hits each in the series; Moore has made one and Mancuso one.

The 1 to 0 masterpiece was Lee's third shutout in eleven victories this year, but his first since May 12. On May 7 he goose-egged the Phillies, 2 to 0, and came back to whitewash the Dodgers in his next start, 5 to 0.

There is not much to set down in routine detail after a 1 to 0 ball game, but we'll give you the log of the threats, such as they were.

First inning, Giants—Terry walked

Westward Ho Boys Take Team Trophy.

The boys who carry your golf bags, replace your divots, and hold the green pins toted their own quivers yesterday in the annual caddy tournament of the Chicago District Golf association at the Park Ridge Country club. A field of 134 of them, representing 34 clubs throughout the district, took part in their own show, and their scores revealed not a few promising golfers.

The Westward Ho quartet won the team prize with a total of 312 strokes. This championship was decided on the basis of the best foursome score for the first 18 holes of the tournament. Twelve of the leaders at that point then continued for another nine holes to decide the individual title-holder. Joe Sisolak of Glen Flora came all the way from Waukegan to take that honor with a 27 hole score of 114, one less than Ray Bohle of Tam O'Shanter. Sisolak led the field at the end of the first 18 with a 74, four over par.

Westward Ho's winning foursome consisted of Leonard Surico, 75; Joe Nardiello, 76; Ed Schwerin, 77, and John Campanelli, 84. They were followed by Beverly with 331, Ruth Lake with 335, and Glen Oak and Olympia Fields, each with 338. The complete list of team scores follows:

The caddymasters, many of whom attended yesterday's event as scorers, will hold their own tournament at Park Ridge on Sept. 10. Entries must be filed with the Chicago District Golf association, 14 East Jackson boulevard, by 5 p. m., Sept. 7.

Four big invitational tournaments are on tomorrow's program, including the Westward-Ho Taps day, the Navajo Fields Pow-wow, the Acacia Whoopee day, and the Stampede at Big Run, 135th street and Archer avenue.

John Adams, with 74—77—151, led the field in the Big Oaks annual caddy tournament yesterday, followed by Alex Wietecki, 75—79—154; Henry Pupa, 76—79—155; and Teddy Sitiora, 77—79—156. Teddy Maslanka scored a hole in one during the event, getting the ace on the 143 yard seventeenth. Jack Norton, who is professional at Big Oaks and St. Andrews, scored an ace on the No. 2 course of the latter club, holing out his tee effort on the 175 yard 11th with a No. 4 iron.

William J. Kalal, president of the Berwyn school board, recently joined the hole in one brigade with an ace at the 175 yard fourteenth of the Chain O' Lakes club near Antioch. He used a No. 3 iron, and was playing with State Senator Richey V. Graham, William Knourek, and John Morley.

BECCALI TO TOUR U. S.; WILL RUN HERE SEPT. 29

New York, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Luigi Beccali, Italy's 1500 meter Olympic champion and former holder of the record for the distance, is to make his twice scheduled and long delayed return visit to the United States this fall as a member of a party of 350 Italian students, 50 of them athletes.

Twice since Beccali won the Olympic title at the classic distance in 1932 he has been invited over to run against Bill Bonthron, Glenn Cunningham and Gene Venzke but his municipal job at Milan kept him from coming.

Now he definitly has accepted an invitation to come with the student party, arriving Sept. 27, and competing in track meets at Chicago Sept. 29, Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 5 and in Yankee stadium, New York City, Oct. 12.

Rena Nelson, Helen Hicks to Play at Mohawk Tomorrow

passing that the price is only $1.10, and that this is a bargain even if the seat is behind the goal line.

Players Itch for Action.

Thirty thousand $1.10 reserved seats remain. They may be purchased at THE TRIBUNE Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street, in the lobby of Tribune Tower and in room 530, Tribune Tower.

The players, strangely enough, have taken no part in the arguments why both teams will lose. The professionals are intently scrimmaging, confident they can win and deaf to the cheerless prophecies of their coach.

At the Wrangler house the All-Americans seem to hold up with no noticeable loss of appetite. The boys listened to a lecture yesterday morning and worked out on the practice field in the afternoon. At times they actually gave the impression that they wanted to meet the Bears in personal conflict.

Ed Krause, Ade Schwammel, Pete Mehringer, Ted Rosequist, and Fred Crawford, to note the list of 200 pound plus tackles on the All-American squad, seem anxious to match their weight against Link Lyman, George Musso, Ray Richards et al., and to test their skill in stopping the professional half backs.

Coaster Trout, Look Out! Bob's On His Way Over

BY BOB BECKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NIPIGON, Ont., Aug. 27.—About all one hears around here is coaster trout. The big brook trout taken along the south shore of St. Ignace Island in Lake Superior seem to have stolen the thunder from Nipigon river. Every nimrod, who comes into this section wants to tackle the squaretails in the big lake. We now are assembling our outfit to go out and camp on St. Ignace for a few days. Naturally we are hearing a great deal about the habits of the coasters and also about the lures which fool them.

Probably the best fishing grounds for coaster brook trout discovered to date lie along the southern shore of St. Ignace Island. This island is about thirty-three miles long and eleven miles wide. It has several lakes which are stocked with fish, including brook trout.

The Nipigon river has a little trouble in reaching the open waters of Lake Superior because St. Ignace looms up like a huge rock and timber blockade a short distance out from its mouth, thus forming a good sized bay between the island and the mainland. This is appropriately called Nipigon bay. A narrow channel separates the mainland [a peninsula at this point], from St. Ignace making it possible for the boat to take us down the river from Nipigon, across the bay and out to a camping site on the southwestern corner of St. Ignace.

The brook trout which have decided they will live in Lake Superior instead of in the numerous brook trout streams on the north shore, come in to feed along the shores of the little islands lying close to St. Ignace. These are pretty husky fish. They range from two pounds up to five and even 7 pounds. Whether they fight as hard as the big trout in the Nipigon is debatable.

If we have any luck on this St. Ignace venture possibly we can draw some comparisons, because we have caught some of big trout in the river on a previous trip. However, it stands to reason that any brook trout living in the cold waters of Lake Superior can hardly be suffering from lack of pep or acute inertia. These coaster brook trout will rise to a fly and other artificial lures which may be trolled or cast.

Weather plays a pretty important part in a fishing trip on St. Ignace. Naturally we are hoping for no high winds and a calm sea. On a warm evening, when the lake is quiet, the trout often come to the surface.

MENZEL, VICTOR OVER PERRY, OUT OF RYE TOURNEY

Rye, N. Y., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Roderich Menzel, Czechoslovakian who has beaten both Fred Perry and Jack Crawford, was eliminated from the eastern grass courts tennis tournament today. Claiming a knee injury, Menzel, top seeded foreigner in the tournament, defaulted to Dr. Eugene McCauliff of Yonkers, N. Y., 24th in the national rankings, when he was trailing 0-4 in the third and decisive set. He had taken the first set at 6-4, but McCauliff came back to win the second, 12-10.

McCauliff's victory sent him into the third round along with Frank Shields and Lester Stoefen, George Lott, Jack Tidball, Gene Mako, Donald Budge, Martin Buxby, and F. H. D. Wilde, the Englishman.

Shields easily whipped Frank Bowden, 6-2, 6-1, while Stoefen played two matches to catch up with the field, beating Thomas F. Flynn of Princeton, 6-3, 6-4, and Armand Bruneau, New York, 6-0, 6-4. Lott, also making his debut, scored a 10-8, 4-6, 6-4 triumph over Norcross Tilney of West Orange, N. J., and then defeated Hugh Lynch of Elizabeth, N. J., 9-7, 7-5.

Women's singles play was marked by first round triumphs for Betty Nuthall, British star, over Mary Zita Jacoby of New York, 6-3, 6-0, and for Miss Nuthall's compatriots, Katherine Stammers and Freda James. Miss Stammers defeated Helen Pederson of Stamford, Conn., 7-5, 6-3, and Miss James won from Helen Murray, Yonkers, N. Y., 6-1, 6-0.

Krone Signs McMillen for Next Wrestling Card

Jim McMillen, former University of Illinois football player, has been signed by Promoter Doc Krone to wrestle in his show on Sept. 6 at the Western stadium, Western and Devon avenues. Promoter Krone has not yet signed McMillen's opponent for a one and one-half hour match. McMillen, it will be recalled, was Jim Londos' opponent in the two Madison Square Garden matches at New York City which drew the record gates at wrestling, more than $60,000.

Brown Wrestles Pacer Tonight at White City

Jack Brown returns to White City tonight to meet Lefty Pacer in Mique Malloy's wrestling show. Brown and Pacer are matched in a best two out of three fall bout, with a 90 minute time limit. George Dusette and Karl von Lehman will clash in the semi-windup. Lou Talaber and George Schwab are matched in a 30 minute bout. Mike London will meet Ed Martin in another 30 minute match.

68 Get Byes in National Amateur Golf

New York, Aug. 27.—[Special.]—Sixty-eight players today were given first round byes in the national amateur championship golf tournament, which will start on the Brookline, Mass., Country club course on Sept. 10. George T. Dunlap Jr., defending champion; W. Lawson Little, holder of the British championship, and Jess Sweetzer, former amateur champion, are among those who drew byes.

The United States Golf association also announced the receipt of the entries of Tony Torrance and his brother, W. B. Torrance, former English Walker cup players, bringing the total number of players to 188. The Torrance brothers, along with C. Ross Somerville, Canada, and Rex Hartley, England, are rated as the outstanding threats to Dunlap's crown.

Jack Westland, Winfield S. Day, and George Dawson of Chicago; Johnny Fischer of Cincinnati, and Johnny Goodman, Omaha, holder of the 1933 open title, members of the American Walker cup team, and J. A. Williams, Evanston, Ill., also advanced to the second round.

The pairings for the first round of match play will be announced Sept. 8. The sixty survivors will be pitted against the players receiving the byes and the field will be reduced to sixty-four by Sept. 11. On the following two days two eighteen hole rounds will be played and the four semi-finalists will battle it out in thirty-six hole matches. The final match will be held on Saturday.

Cardinals Will Hold Drills in Loyola Stadium

Charles W. Bidwill, owner of the Chicago Cardinals, professional football team, announced yesterday he has obtained the Loyola stadium for the club's practice grounds.

A get-together meeting is scheduled for Friday morning at Loyola. Coach Paul Schissler will hold the first workout Saturday morning. Several of the Cardinals' new stars will play with the College All-Stars against the Bears Friday night.

The Cardinals will open the National league season against Cincinnati at Wrigley field Sept. 23.

LOUIS KNOCKS OUT EVERETT IN SECOND ROUND

Joe Louis, Detroit, Mich., heavyweight, only three months out of the amateur ranks, last night achieved his fifth victory in as many pro appearances when he knocked out Buck Everett, Gary, Ind., in the second round at Marigold Gardens. It was the first time Everett had suffered a knockout.

A capacity crowd of 2,031 paid $1,528 to watch the bout, which ended after 2 minutes and 47 seconds of fighting in the round.

The match started slowly, both waiting for the other to lead. After feinting and maneuvering, Everett jumped in close and nailed Louis on the head and shoulders with both hands. At the bell Everett had a slight edge.

Down Goes Everett.

It was midway in the second round before Louis landed. He shook off Everett and the latter fell halfway through the ropes. Everett came lunging in, swinging wildly, and the Detroit Negro stepped inside with a short right to the jaw. Everett fell heavily, rolled over at the count of seven, attempted to rise at nine and then dropped back for the full count.

Louis, 1934 Golden Gloves light heavyweight champion, weighed 187¾, four and three-quarters pounds more than Everett.

Cohen Is Beaten.

A wrestling exhibition between Jack [Bad Boy] Brown and Ralph Garibaldi ended after eight minutes when Brown threw Garibaldi into the lap of Chairman Joe Triner of the state athletic commission. Triner suffered a slight injury to his neck from the impact and George Getz, a commission member, ordered Brown's disqualification, awarding the bout to Garibaldi.

Johnny Gaudes, Milwaukee, Wis., bantamweight, defeated Lenny Cohen of Chicago, in the six round semi-final. Other results:

Bill Treese beat Ernie Evans [4].
Milt Aaron beat Eddie Smith [4].
Amsley Rimson stopped Spud Kelly [3].

Johnny Phagan Whips Billy Hood in 8 Round Bout

Johnny Phagan, west side middleweight, whipped Billy Hood, Orlando, Fla., in an eight round battle last night at White City. Phagan piled up the winning points in the last two rounds. Tony Zale, Gary, Ind., 160 pounder, beat Wilbur Stokes, stablemate of Hood, in another eight round tussle. Bobby Millsap, former Indianapolis, Ind., boxer, won a six round decision over Roughhouse Glover, Jacksonville, Fla. Jack Moran stopped Lou Bartel in the third round of a scrap slated for five rounds, and Jackie Dallas beat Jimmy Richards in a four round preliminary encounter.

Patrick Henry, former Marion, Ind., 144 pound fighter, and Tommy Corbett of Omaha, Neb., will meet in the eight round main bout tonight at Western stadium, Western and Devon avenues. Patrick, who has won six of his last seven bouts, will be making his first windup appearance.

Promoter Sam Abruscato may be forced to acquire a substitute for Mickey Beal against Oscar O'Hanion in the five round semi-final at 120 pounds. Beal said yesterday he had a cold in his chest and will be unable to fight tonight.

Phil Pernice vs. Davey White [4], 138.
Kid Bruno vs. Eddie Chinski [4], 136.

IN THE NEW POST... OUT TODAY

JACK DEMPSEY

"I HANG UP MY GLOVES"

WHAT did the old Manassa Mauler think of that famous Chicago "long count"? What passed through his mind as he held the hand of the dying Tex Rickard? How did he feel when his weave became a waddle, when the dynamite left his fists? Here is Jack's story, simply told... a story for the thousands to whom Dempsey will always be "the Champ."

OTHER BIG FEATURES

OBJECT, MATRIMONY By Rose Wilder Lane

Clarinda Jane married Jed Masters as soon as she reached his homestead . . . married him standing before his sod shanty, trembling in her eastern finery. That wedding was a twenty-year mystery, and it's a story worthy of the author of "Let the Hurricane Roar."

WOMEN ARE BUM NEWSPAPERMEN By Richard Macaulay

Curt Devlin thought that Ellen Garfield was cut out to be his wife . . . not a "newspaperman." Ellen, on the other hand, believed herself the better reporter. You'll enjoy their attempts to show one another up in the famous Marvin Stone murder case.

"I DO NOT CHOOSE," By Irwin H. (Ike) Hoover

Do you know exactly what Calvin Coolidge meant by that mystifying phrase? Did he really renounce his candidacy for re-election? Did he hope to be drafted in spite of his statement? The late chief usher of the White House had his own idea.

THE WORKER'S PARADISE, FROM THE INSIDE By F. Britten Austin

Life has its little uncertainties in the Soviet Union. Sometimes there is coal dust in the flour and sometimes . . . but read what the comrades themselves consider wrong with their industrial Eden—in words straight out of Soviet publications.

THE FIRST LAW OF FARMING By Harris Dickson

The Prairie Plantation in Mississippi has supported five generations of Oldhams . . . surviving wars, floods, droughts, and starvation prices. It prospers because it obeys the first law of farming, requiring that the land produce first of all "a generous harvest of food for man and beast."

ZACHARY HALTS CARDS; DODGERS TRIUMPH, 10 TO 1

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Tom Zachary, veteran of 18 years major league competition, today handed the pennant hopes of the Cardinals a setback as he pitched the Brooklyn Dodgers to a 10 to 1 victory.

The Cards collected 11 hits off Zachary but the veteran southpaw kept them widely separated. Only in the first were the Cardinals able to bunch enough of their hits to score a run. Meanwhile the Dodgers drove Tex Carleton from the mound in the fifth after scoring three runs in each of the second and fourth innings and continued their 16 hit attack off Dazzy Vance, Jess Haines and Jim Mooney. Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Battling for a place in the first division, Pittsburgh moved up to within 2½ games of the fourth place Braves today by defeating Boston, 8 to 5, with rallies in the seventh and eighth innings.

The game was held up for 10 minutes in the first inning on a disputed decision of Umpire Quigley, who ruled Pitcher Larry French had dropped Jordan's liner. French had gone through the motion of a double play by throwing to third. Quigley ended the argument by ejecting the southpaw. Score:

Juniors Open World Series at Sox Park

The greatest teams from the sand lots of the United States—New Orleans, La., winner of the western sectional championship, and Cumberland, Md., champion of the east—will open the series for the American Legion Junior baseball championship at Comiskey park tomorrow afternoon.

Survivors of the annual tournament which attracted approximately 30,000 teams, the finalists are expected to furnish one of the outstanding series in the history of the meet. New Orleans captured the western crown last Saturday by defeating Seattle, Wash., 10 to 6, at Topeka, Kas., while Cumberland triumphed over Charlotte, N. C., 6 to 5, at Gastonia, N. C.

Grimm, Terry to Speak.

It will be New Orleans' fourth appearance in the final round. It won the national championship two years ago and a victory over Cumberland will give the southerners their second crown and equal the record for number of titles won by a state.

The teams will arrive this afternoon. They will be honored at a banquet at the Great Northern hotel tonight at 7 o'clock. Among the baseball notables who will attend are K. M. Landis, commissioner of baseball; Manager Charley Grimm of the Cubs; Manager Bill Terry of the New York Giants, and several members of the two major league teams.

Expect Crowd of 25,000.

The second game of the series will be played Thursday at Wrigley field and the third contest, if necessary, will be held at Comiskey park Friday. A crowd of 25,000 is expected to watch the opening game.

An Old Man Puts Chesty Strangler in His Place

(This is the second of a series of articles dealing with the career of Ed (Strangler) Lewis, who will meet Jim Londos for the heavyweight wrestling championship of the world at Wrigley field on the night of Sept. 20.)

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Strangler Lewis was not Strangler Lewis when he made his professional debut as a wrestler 27 years ago for the Elks' club at the Wisconsin Rapids armory. He was just Bob Friedrich, a big strong country boy of 16 from the little town of Nekoosa. The young Friedrich had first distinguished himself by throwing one George Brown, a bigger and older boy who had had the advantage of professional experience, and the Elks had summoned him to take on Fred Beal, who had not only been Brown's sponsor, but also was at that time one of the ablest grapplers practicing.

It was a very kind offer, that invitation from the Elks. They realized that for all his brawn, Fredrich was still a boy, untried in the fine artifices of the game, whereas Beal was an accepted veteran who feared none, champion or not. They would give the kid a bit of a break, the Elks thought, by making it a handicap arrangement, forcing Beal to throw him twice within one hour in order to win. This was quite agreeable to the latter, but was it all right with Friedrich?

He Wanted No Break.

Certainly not, he said. The headlock decision over Brown had worked wonders with Bob's confidence, which was at no low ebb prior to that match. Who was he to be accepting favors from his elders. He wanted no time advantage. They'd wrestle to a finish or not at all, he told Beal and the Elks, and the latter, shrugging their shoulders, announced it as a finish battle.

For two weeks after that baptismal bout, young Friedrich wandered about Nekoosa, wondering whether Beal had actually broken his neck for him—that is, when he wasn't rueing his folly in refusing the handicap. Beal apparently had decided to show this fresh kid who wanted to start from scratch that he was a trifle hasty. They weren't in the ring two minutes before he clamped Friedrich's pet hold—the headlock—on the boy and applied it with such pressure that the whole business was over in 20 minutes, with the rash Robert left wondering what it was all about.

Even during the agony of those twenty minutes, however, Beal was impressed with the heart of Friedrich, and after he had subdued him, prophesied from the ring that the boy would go places. He strengthened this by taking Bob under his wing and imparting his own repertoire to the young man.

The future Strangler then went to work in earnest, taking part in a number of matches in Wisconsin. Baseball still was a major part of his athletic life, but he didn't allow it to cut into his mat activities. He pitched ball in the Dakotas and Montana for two summers, mixing this chore with several wrestling performances, very often taking a turn on the mat after having pitched a game.

You Must Know Strangler.

The elder Friedrich frankly didn't approve of this method of earning a livelihood, but realizing that his son was still a boy, decided not to do anything about the matter for a while. Today, however, he is the proudest father in the republic, as many a motorist who passes through Nekoosa knows. Jacob Friedrich has been chief of police of Nekoosa for 40 years, and still is very much so, at the age of 78.

The town is on the route to the north woods, and impatient drivers frequently attempt to speed through as though Nekoosa didn't exist. They are always detained by Herr Friedrich, but the knowing ones have only to ask him if he isn't the father of Ed Lewis and to add they are bosom pals of the strangler in order to be aped on their way.

He Buys a Theater.

What with baseball and wrestling, the Strangler to be, eventually amassed a stake of $2,500 and migrated to Iowa, still continuing to wrestle and pitch ball in such towns as Dubuque, MacGregor and Lansing. The last named place proved to be a home for him for the next two years, for after he had downed the local pride, a butcher boy named Rudy Miller, he was adopted by the townsfolk and induced to stay. Still in his teens, he opened the first motion picture emporium in Lansing, and recalls that his first feature presentation was "Dante's Inferno."

Lewis was not one to linger, however, and after two years in Lansing, he went to Lexington, Ky., there to enter the state university. It was here that the nationwide wanderings of a world's champion began, for it was at Lexington that he met Billy Sandow, who was later to chart his course through the wrestling seas.

Stainback Gets On.

Second inning, Cubs — With one down, Stainback beat out a high bouncer to Schumacher. Hartnett hit into a double play.

Third inning, Giants—Moore reached first on Lee's fumble with one out. He went to second while Hack was throwing out Critz, and died there when Cuyler came in fast for Terry's fly.

Third inning, Cubs — Manager Grimm, who had perfect days at bat Saturday and Sunday, kept his string alive when he led off the third with a single to center. Jurges fanned and Charley was doubled trying to barge to second. Lee singled to right, but Watkins made a nice running catch of Hack's drive to left center.

Fourth inning, Giants — Galan knocked down Jackson's grounder over second, but it went for a single, with one down. Watkins tapped to Grimm and Mancuso fouled to Hartnett.

Moore Hits, Is Forced.

Fifth inning, Giants—After Vergez and Schumacher had fanned, Moore knocked the third and last hit off Lee, a single to center. He was forced by Critz, Jurges unassisted.

Sixth inning, Giants—With two out Jackson walked on four pitches. Then Watkins filed to Babe Herman.

Seventh inning, Giants—Mancuso walked and went to second on Vergez's long fly to Stainback. Schumacher fanned and Moore was given an intentional pass. Jurges threw out Critz.

Bases Kept Clear.

Neither team got a runner on base after the seventh. In the eighth Terry tapped to Hack, Ott fanned, and Hartnett threw out Jackson from in front of the plate.

In the ninth Hack threw out Watkins, Weintraub fanned for Mancuso and O'Doul, batting for Vergez, popped to Galan.

Only three Cubs faced Schumacher in the first, second, fourth, fifth, sixth and eighth innings. In the fourth Galan, Cuyler and Babe Herman all went out on a grand total of three pitches.

Tom Sharkey, a leading heavyweight in the days of Jeffries, Fitzsimmons, Corbett and Johnson, received an interesting check in the mail last Friday. . . . City Series Off; Cubs Refuse to Challenge Sox

William M. Walker, president of the Cubs, announced yesterday that the club will not challenge the White Sox for a city series this year in the event the team fails in the Herculean job of overtaking the Giants for the National league pennant.

It was reported that some of the members of the Cubs have been content with the prospects of taking a winner's end of the city series and the second place cut of the world series pot rather than bear down for the National league pennant and the probability of a tanning at the hands of the Detroit Tigers or New York Yankees, with the attendant losers' end in the world series.

There was no official hint, however, that the Cubs' big bosses had any thought of thwarting the help on the foregoing premise.

Jim Weaver this afternoon will oppose the Giants in the third game of the Chicago-New York series. He probably will

IT'S BAD DAY FOR FAVORITES, BUT LONG BIT WINS

BY FRENCH LANE.

Until the Oak Park purse was run at Hawthorne yesterday afternoon the favorite players were having one of their roughest sessions of the season.

One long shot after another had popped them on the chin and they just about had given up all hope of a successful afternoon when the big race of the day came up.

The "chalk" horse in this event was Long Bit, a 3 year old daughter of Ladkin-Cypera which races for Thomas C. Worden of Chicago and is trained by that shrewd Missourian, Mr. Ben Jones.

Money Pours In.

Down went Long Bit's price until she was at even money in the betting. There was very little action for any of the others in the race. This caused the favorite players to charge toward the ticket selling machines where they sent in a furious bombardment on Long Bit.

The filly did not fail them. She leaped out into the lead soon after the race was under way. Grayback forced the pace for the entire trip and once when the field was wheeling out of the back stretch he was up so close it looked as if he was going to head her at any instant.

Jocky J. King was on Long Bit and apparently was waiting for the challenge. When Grayback drew up with his nose at Long Bit's flank the filly put on a new rally and drew out into a lead of three lengths.

It's All Over.

That ended the struggle as far as the final outcome was concerned. Long Bit rolled on past the finish line. Grayback challenged again near the finish but Long Bit had enough left to win by a length. Ashen was also coming like the wind near the end, but he couldn't catch the two leaders so had to be content with third money.

Long Bit paid off at $4.38, which the favorite players considered just like finding money. They had been able to cash on Pryor in the third race, paying off at 6 to 5, and these were their only breathing spells throughout the afternoon.

Reclaway had been the winner of the first with the favorite Behemoth no better than third at the finish. Kissie, at 30 to 1, won in a ding-dong finish from Fire Star and Droit in the second race. Traggat was the favorite to fail in this event.

Mr. Mack Wakes Up.

The fourth race found Mr. Mack suddenly in possession of his racing legs and after he ran like a Cavalcade coming down the stretch he won handily from Myrtle Brooks and Kwamudi, with the favorite Brilliant Queen out of the picture. Mr. Mack's mutuel price was $27.64.

The fifth race brought out Secret Trys*, a winner only last week. He came back with another brilliant performance to lead his band home and pay off $39.78.

In the seventh old King Pin, which had also won his last start at Hawthorne, moved into a mile and a sixteenth race and he made a show of his field at odds of 7 to 1. The favorite, Sporting Pearl, the victim of much bad racing luck in the early stages, finished second.

Lincoln Fields May Run Stake for Juveniles

Lincoln Fields officials were at work yesterday endeavoring to arrange a 2 year old stake to be run there during the meeting which opens on Monday.

Last night they had about come to the conclusion to revive the Joliet handicap, which a few seasons back was one of the most attractive races on the annual Lincoln Fields program.

Should the Joliet be revived Ald. Coughlin's fast colt Advantage will remain in Chicago for the season at the Crete track. Otherwise he may be sent east to compete for some of the 2 year old stakes which Rockingham Park and tracks in Maryland will offer. Advantage is not eligible to such early closing events as the $100,000 Belmont Futurity.

While entries do not close until tonight for the fifth running of Illinois handicap on Saturday several owners indicated yesterday the horses they will start in the race. The Nash brothers—Dick and Pat—told friends they would depend on Dust Girl. R. T. Watts will name Wise Ways and Pot Au Brooms for the race. J. B. Partridge has nominated Cabezo, C. W. Bidwell's Chicago stable will depend on Foxiana and the Blue Ridge farm stable will name Dusky Devil. It is expected that Marmion and Gold Signet will be the color bearers of C. B. Shaffer's Gold Stream stud farm.

Kelley. Went to post at 2:45. At post 4 minutes. Start good from gate. Won driving; second and third same.

KISSIE a strong factor from the start, stood mild pressure gamely and outfinished FIRE STAR in closing stride. Latter, away fast and having the most speed, raced CREOLE BIRD into submission and weakened in final eighth, but barely missed. DROIT, forced to race wide throughout, held on well. SEQUOIA lost ground.

THIRD RACE—Six and one-half furlongs out of chute. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

PRYOR, away poorly, made up much ground in first quarter, was under steady restraint and on extreme outside on the turn, took command quickly in stretch and, weakening, was under severe pressure the last sixteenth. COLONIST, kept well up, finished resolutely under strong hand riding. GRAND PRINCE took a short lead on stretch turn, swerved behind PRYOR in final eighth and held on fairly well.

MR. MACK, under energetic riding after a quarter and dropping back slightly while racing wide on the stretch turn, bettered his position gradually after straightening up and, wearing down MYRTLE BROOKS, was ready to draw out. MYRTLE BROOKS had speed from the start, raced wide and fought it out stubbornly in the drive. KWAMUDI, away fast, increased his advantage on stretch turn and held on well to last seventy yards before faltering.

SECRET TRYST, sent to front under strong riding, held the lead safe while racing restrained on the turn and, holding on stubbornly, withstood STRAIT JACKET'S rush. Latter, raced wide throughout, failed to keep up approaching stretch, was slow to recover due to excessive punishment and, responding, rapidly getting to winner. AL JOLSON, a strong factor from the start, held on courageously.

LONG BIT, hustled into command, drew away while bearing out on stretch turn and won under mild pressure. GRAYBACK, under steady restraint for five-eighths, held on gamely and, saving ground, gained steadily in late stages. ASHEN, on inside early, raced wide in stretch.

Winner trained by J. Bainton. Went to post at 5:08. At post 2½ minutes. Start good. Won handily; place driving.

KING PIN, forced to race wide much of the trip, moved up fast at far turn and, taking command approaching stretch, won thereafter but had little left. SPORTING PEARL, in close quarters for three-quarters, improved her position fast on inside in stretch, but could not menace winner. ANITA ORMONT worked her way up gradually and weakened in final eighth, but outstayed AMSCRAY.

WOODLANDER, up close from the start, slipped through on inside entering stretch, bore out steadily while holding on gamely and just lasted. POMPARAGON, close up after a quarter, came through on inside of BURNING FEET and EL PUMA at stretch turn, stood pressure gamely and but for being forced wide by winner, might have won. EL PUMA lost ground throughout and weakened in final eighth.

SEES U. S. WATER POWER PROJECTS INSURANCE BLOW

Attorney Fears Destroying Security Values.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 27.—Wesley E. Monk, general counsel of the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance company, speaking at the dinner of the insurance section of the American Bar association on "insurance in the depression period and beyond," said that insurance companies have stood the test of the depression in comparison with other financial institutions. However, he issued this warning:

"It is self-evident that whatever tends to either increase or decrease market values or injure or destroy underlying securities must necessarily have a very serious effect upon the financial status of insurance companies.

Cites Public Utilit. Bonds.

"For example, any movement or action, governmental or otherwise, which tends to decrease and possibly destroy the value of public utility bonds, in which a great many millions of dollars of the policyholders' money have been invested, not only by reason of the judgment of the investing boards but by reason of requirements of law and a narrow field, would very seriously affect the stability of insurance companies.

"This assertion is at the present moment particularly pertinent. Great governmental expenditures in the development of additional water power all over the country cannot have any other effect than to lessen the security underlying bonds of privately owned public utilities of this nature, to the detriment of the policyholders of our great insurance companies, and particularly life insurance companies.

Suggests Strong Protest.

"It is a serious matter to disturb the foundation stones of the life insurance structure set up for the purpose of guaranteeing or carrying out of its long term obligations for the benefit of widows and dependents, and if the millions of policyholders of this country become aware of the situation and the hue and cry becomes great enough, the uproar can penetrate even to the inmost parts of a politician's ear, which is, or should be, constantly on the ground.

"About one-half of the population have contracts of one kind or another with legal reserve life insurance companies doing business in this country."

EUROPE FOOLISH 'AS WE ARE HERE,' SAYS SINCLAIR

New York, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Harry Sinclair, head of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation, returned to the United States today on the S. S. Leviathan after a two months' tour of Europe.

He said "If Europe sets its own house in order we ought to do better over here, they are just as foolish over there as we are over here." He said that on every hand in Europe he heard the prediction of war.

Sinclair emphasized the need of control in the oil industry and said the bill giving Secretary Ickes full power over the industry, which failed in the last congress, "might have been helpful."

DIRECTORS O. K. REPUBLIC STEEL MERGER TERMS

Corrigan-M'Kinney, Truscon in Deal.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 27.—(AP)—A consolidation of the Republic Steel corporation and the Corrigan-McKinney Steel company was approved by the directors of both companies today and at the same time it was announced that directors of the Truscon Steel company had agreed to accept Republic securities in exchange for their Truscon holdings.

The announcement, which was made by Tom M. Girdler, chairman of Republic, and which climaxes several months of negotiations, said that all dividend arrears on Republic's outstanding preferred stock would be eliminated by the proposed changes in Republic's capital structure.

Holders of Republic preferred will be offered the right to obtain in exchange for each share of preferred one-half share of new prior preference stock and two shares of common stock.

Pay in Bonds and Stock.

Republic will deliver to Corrigan-McKinney $15,361,000 of 5½ per cent 20 year purchase money bonds, 27,929 shares of new prior preference stock, par $100, and 698,223 shares of common stock, no par, the announcement said.

The Truscon agreement, which will be completed after the acquisition of the Corrigan-McKinney properties, is contingent upon acceptance by 75 per cent of the Truscon stockholders, the announcement said.

For each share of preferred stock of the Truscon company Republic will offer ½ share of prior preference stock and two shares of Republic common. For each share of Truscon common, Republic will offer 4/10 of a share of Republic common.

Republic, the third largest steel producer in the nation, will have assets of approximately $323,000,000 and a combined steel ingot producing capacity of 6,000,000 tons annually through the consolidation, which is one of the largest undertaken in the steel industry in recent years.

Reduces Preferred Stock.

Girdler's announcement said the proposed changes in the capital structure of Republic will permit it to reduce the amount of preferred stock outstanding; permit $24,000,000 of new financing, the proceeds of which will be used to retire the present outstanding refunding and general mortgage; repay bank loans and provide additional working capital.

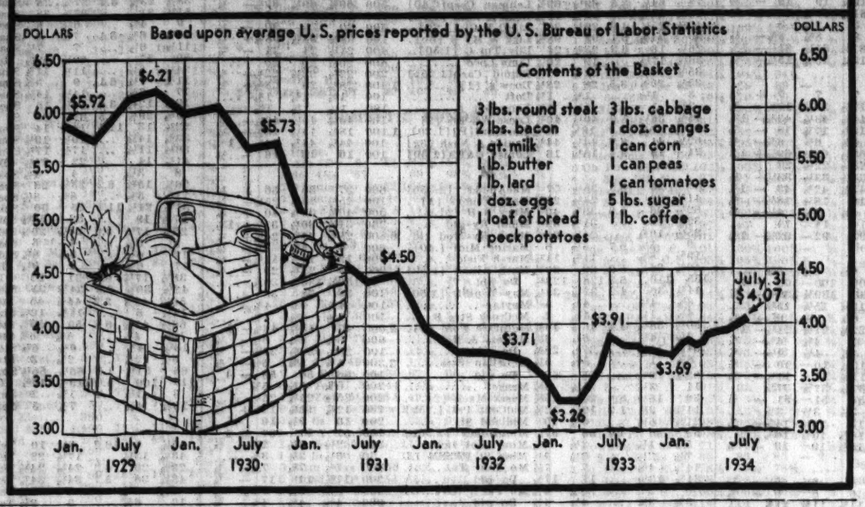
A meeting of Republic stockholders has been set for Oct. 30 at which stockholders of record Oct. 6 will have the right to vote.

Through Corrigan-McKinney, which operates six blast furnaces and fourteen open hearth furnaces and owns the Newton Steel company and the N. & G. Taylor Tin Plate company, Republic will secure large reserves of ore and coal and other production assets.

Acquisition of Truscon, which has plants in Youngstown, Detroit, Los Angeles and Cleveland, would give Republic additional outlets for finished steel products. Truscon has a subsidiary in Japan and another in Canada.

The fixed properties of Corrigan-McKinney and its subsidiaries are approximately $51,000,000 and Truscon's are approximately $8,600,000.

The Cost of a Market Basket of Groceries Is Now Highest Since January 1932



GRAINS RECEDE WITH PRESSURE OF LIQUIDATION

Wheat and Corn Off Nearly 2 Cents.

Dribbling liquidation proved too heavy a load for the Chicago grain market to absorb yesterday and prices drifted lower, carrying wheat and corn nearly two cents under Saturday's final figures.

News was extremely dull and activity fell to small proportions as speculators awaited some new incentive on which to base operations. Trade was accounted for almost entirely by local professionals, although some liquidation of large holdings was reported by several observers.

Weakness of the Winnipeg market resulting from heavy country marketings of new crop wheat with attendant hedging pressure in the futures market, provided the heaviest burden to bullish sentiment here.

Wheat Off Nearly Two Cents.

At the close Chicago wheat had lost 1⅝ to 2 cents. Corn was 1⅜ to 1¾ cents lower, oats were ⅝ to ¾ cent off, rye 1⅜ to 1¾ cents under Saturday and barley ¼ cent higher to 1 cent lower. December wheat finished at $1.03½, December corn at 79½ cents, and December oats at 51½ cents. Winnipeg closed 1⅝ to 1¾ cents lower, Liverpool eased ⅛ to ¼ cent, and Rotterdam was ⅛ cent higher to ⅛ cent lower.

Temporary market leadership assumed last week by corn was lost in yesterday's session. Prospects for frost in the Iowa corn belt over the week-end, which buoyed the yellow cereal on Saturday, failed to materialize. The Nebraska midmonth crop report placed condition at 5 per cent of normal and yields of less than 2 bushels an acre, but this failed to stimulate buying. Visible supplies gained more than 4,000,000 bushels, bringing the total to 55,901,000 bushels, and within a short distance of last year's figure.

Foreign News Bullish.

Foreign crop news was bullish. Australian exporters are predicting an exportable wheat surplus of only 72,000,000 bushels, which is 30,000,000 below normal and 43,000,000 under 1933. This was considered significant, as American production this year has been fairly well ascertained and southern hemisphere news is growing in importance.

Canada reported substantial damage to both quality and quantity of wheat in the northern area. A leading Winnipeg grain man wired James E. Bennett & Co. that frost damage has been heavy and that the three provinces—Alberta, Manitoba, and Saskatchewan—will not raise more than 220,000,000 bushels this year.

Cash grains continue to lead futures in practically all markets. Demand is healthy and with supplies showing little increase buyers are forced to pay stiff premiums.

Private weather reports showed rains in parts of Nebraska and Oklahoma, but there was little moisture in Kansas, where lack of sufficient reserve sub-soil moisture is becoming an increasingly important factor because it may result in the 1935 crop making a poor start.

Doubt if Higher Freight Rates Will Raise Rail Income Much

BY HOWARD WOOD.

The railroad executives may think that they can squeeze more revenues out of the shipping public by raising rates, but the financial community isn't so optimistic. The market's reaction to the railroads' petition for increased rates yesterday was a further decline in railroad stocks and bonds.

The financial community is inclined to believe that the interstate commerce commission will permit rate increases, but it isn't at all sure that higher rates will mean more rail income.

The experience of the railroads two years ago in collecting temporary surcharges is no criterion. Shippers knew then that the higher rates were only temporary. A temporary rate boost does not drive shippers to build boats or buy fleets of trucks to avoid rail transportation, but a permanent increase is a different matter.

Even so, the railroads during the year that the surcharges were in effect collected only 59 millions of the 120 millions which they originally estimated the surcharges would bring them. And during the time the surcharges were in effect railroad revenues kept declining. In order to collect 59 millions which was earmarked as surcharges it is entirely possible that the railroads sacrificed much more than that in ordinary revenues.

U. S. Loan to Pay Teachers Will Boost Bank Deposits.

The $22,365,986 borrowed from the Reconstruction Finance corporation which the Chicago board of education deposited yesterday afternoon in the Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust company will cause a bulge in Chicago bank deposits which will be reflected in the federal reserve board's report on Chicago member bank deposits later this week.

This check is one of the biggest ever deposited in the Continental, but it does not set a new record. Officials of the bank recalled yesterday that several years ago a United States Steel company check for more than 30 million dollars was deposited.

The 22 million dollar deposit is expected to affect total deposits for several weeks. The money is being checked out of the Continental bank as the teachers cash their pay checks, but they, in turn, and later their creditors will deposit and redeposit the money in this and other Chicago banks.

The bringing to Chicago of this money, however, will not permanently swell Chicago bank deposits. It will gradually be offset by the payment to Washington of processing taxes, income taxes and other taxes by individuals and corporations in the Chicago region.

Gen. Dawes Celebrates Birthday; Foresees Nation's Recovery.

Gen. Charles G. Dawes yesterday celebrated his 69th birthday anniversary at his office in the City National bank. His best birthday present, said the general, was the sheet showing the big upturn in attendance at A Century of Progress, of which he is chairman of the finance committee.

CHARLES G. DAWES

"I am a great believer in the inevitability of recovery," Gen. Dawes said. "The natural forces of recovery are tremendously strong. Wise economic and political policies can hasten their action; unsound policies can delay them; but I am confident they will triumph in the end.

"I do not believe that we are in for the disastrous kind of currency inflation that wrecked the German money after the war. Do not forget that we have a tremendous store of gold and that as long as we have this gold it is possible to stop a decline in the value of the currency."

Processing Tax Only Adds Another Charge on Farmers' Return.

Ten dollar hogs came back to the Chicago stock yards yesterday for the first time in about four years. The farmer's share of the ten dollars was $7.75, the government taking $2.25 per hundred pounds in processing tax to be apportioned later among the corn-hog farmers who have signed Secretary Wallace's crop reduction contracts.

Cattle yesterday were selling at about the same prices per hundred pounds as hogs. This, say stock yards experts, is the normal state of things. In ordinary times the public pays meat prices which make it possible for packers to pay about the same price per hundredweight for hogs as for cattle.

Which leads to the deduction, pretty generally accepted these days, that it is the farmer who is paying the processing tax. Without it he would be getting the other $2.25 direct without waiting for a government bureau to pay a staff of clerks, stenographers, bookkeepers, economists, and press agents before sending him a check. In this case the government is just another "middle man."

RAILROADS ASK BROAD BOOST IN FREIGHT RATES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—The railroads today asked the interstate commerce commission to permit them to increase freight rates on specified traffic to obtain approximately $170,000,000 a year in additional revenues.

The railroads told the commission they need the increased revenues to meet in part increased expenses which aggregate $293,000,000 annually, made up of labor costs of $156,000,000 and of $137,000,000 for materials and supplies. They estimate they now face a deficit of $53,000,000 for 1934.

If the wage rates required under the agreement with labor to restore in full by next April the deduction of 10 per cent in wages had been in effect throughout 1934, however, and if higher prices of materials and supplies now in effect had been charged since the first of the year, the railroads say their 1934 deficit would have been $225,500,000.

Shipper Opposition Expected.

Stiff resistance to the rail application is expected from shippers whose traffic would, under the proposal, bear up to a 10 per cent increase above present rates. The proposed increases vary in different kinds of traffic and in different sections of the country.

The increases and exemptions from increases proposed by the railroads fill eighty pages of their petition. Commodities exempted from increases in one part of the country are subjected to increases in other parts. For example, no increases are proposed on grain and grain products in the eastern part of the country while in the west an increase of 3 cents a hundred pounds is proposed.

Merchandise traffic moving under what are called class rates will be subjected, on hauls not exceeding 220 miles, to maximum increases of 2 cents a hundred pounds. The increases for hauls of about 100 miles are 1 cent. For hauls more than 220 miles long there would be increases up to 10 per cent.

Coal Boosted 3 to 30 Cents.

All lake cargo coal rates would be increased 30 cents a ton. Coal rates are to be increased 3 to 30 cents a ton under the proposal, the increases varying according to the amounts of the rates now in effect. It is proposed to increase rates on live stock and

Hogs at $10, with Tax, Best in Four Years

The first $10 hogs in almost four years appeared on yesterday's sharp bulge in the market. This was the price packers were paying for top grades of light butcher hogs, including the $2.25 tax to the government. In the east costs ranged up to $10.35, farmers obtaining $8.10.

The hog market has been advancing for the last 15 days, and, barring Saturdays, when there are seldom enough supplies to establish fair quotations, the market has been steady to higher for more than a month. This is one of the sharpest advances on record for so short a time.

Yesterday's rise carried Chicago prices up 15 to 25 cents, with the close fully 25 cents above the close of last week and 85 cents to $1 higher than on the preceding Monday.

Big Advance in Five Weeks.

Since five weeks ago hogs have advanced $2.85 to $2.95, and they are costing packers $5.45 to $5.70 more than in 1933, including the processing tax. Selected 230 pound butchers at $10 here yesterday paid the farmer $7.75, while of the $9.50 average paid by packers, including the tax, farmers obtained $7.25. A year ago packers bought top grades at $4.55 and the average was $3.80.

Hogs retained their new high position through to the close of trading, supported by higher cattle, light receipts, and advancing pork prices. Brisk action featured the trade for fresh pork, and top classes of loins were elevated to 24 cents per pound, the highest price since August, 1931.

Cattle soared yesterday to new four year highs for August, the top at $10.50 showing $3 advance over the highest spot in August last year, when packers obtained best steers at $7.50. Yesterday's price was highest since January, 1932.

Heavy Steers Reach Top.

Prime 1,504 pound steers reached the top, the heaviest cattle to sell at the peak in several weeks. A range of $6.50 to $10 commanded the bulk of the steers.

Advances of 25 to 40 cents were general, hefers sharing in the upturn. Yearling hefers averaging 750 pounds at $7.75 established a new top for the weights, while a part load averaging 825 pounds brought $8.

There were 2,000 western range cattle in the receipts yesterday, the first sizable run of westerns this season. They met good demand at 25 cent higher prices.

Calves and lambs were contrary yesterday, weakening 25 to 35 cents despite the strength and activity in other live stock. Packers were bearish on lambs when supplies increased at most of the markets and insisted on buying native offerings at $7 and under.

U. S. BUYS 10 MILLION MORE OF OWN BONDS; TAKES IN NEW SILVER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—The treasury purchased government securities to the amount of $10,798,000 during the last week, it was announced today, for various official investment accounts.

Secretary Morgenthau announced a heavy flow of silver to the treasury under the nationalization order of Aug. 9. Between the date of the order and the end of business last Friday 59,553,110 ounces of silver had been received. For the week ended Friday 26,088,019 ounces of nationalized silver had been turned over to the treasury.

Receipts of newly mined silver through Aug. 24 totaled 11,698,000 fine ounces. This silver was purchased under the executive order of Dec. 21. For the week ended Friday 376,503 ounces were received. A total of $25,706,917 in new silver certificates has been issued. These had left the treasury, but comparative figures showed the bulk of the amount to have gone no further than federal reserve banks.

Prof. James H. Rogers, who has been studying the silver situation and other matters in the far east, is en route back to the United States to make a report to President Roosevelt and Secretary Morgenthau. Rogers is expected to furnish an estimate of the amount of silver in China. Already there have been numerous complaints by business men there that the American silver purchasing program is a threat to monetary stability in the orient.

Ickes and Oil Leader Clash on 'New Deal'

Titusville, Pa., Aug. 27.—[Special.]—More than 30,000 persons braved a dull drizzle in this historic little oil town today and heard sharply conflicting views expressed on the effectiveness of the New Deal.

AXTEL J. BYLES.

Harold L. Ickes, petroleum administrator and secretary of the interior, talked about the "partnership" between the government and the "overwhelming majority of the petroleum industry."

But Axtel J. Byles, president of the American Petroleum institute, didn't think much of the partnership and suggested the government withdraw its tentacles from business and confine its activities to a normal course, "so that men may plan and order their affairs with assurance and confidence."

Marks 75th Anniversary.

The celebration marked the diamond jubilee of oil and dedication of a museum to the memory of Col. Edwin L. Drake, whose crude wooden-rigged oil well, the first in history, "blew in" 75 years ago today.

Byles said that only by a return to old principles can the strain upon federal credit be relieved and private investment and initiative assume the burden. He advocated limitation of federal control over the petroleum industry to the supply of raw materials only.

Ickes' prediction that industry is now at the dawn of a better day contrasted sharply with the statement of the oil industry's chief that "some of us do not believe in fairies, panaceas nor economic magic, in guaranteed profits and price fixing, nor think that a series of rules will prove more successful when applied to an industry such as ours than it did when applied to the liquor traffic.

Recites Economic Laws.

"Some of us are still simple enough to believe that economic laws are inexorable: that if too much crude oil is not produced, too much gasoline and other products cannot exist and that as a result of such a balance prices will take care of themselves," Byles continued.

He said that experience in the oil industry last year indicated that most of the rules are broken by the noncooperative, to their own profit and the detriment of those who want to cooperate, and that no government and no industry can afford to make rules which are flouted.

On behalf of the institute, Byles formally presented to Pennsylvania the Drake Well Memorial park, surrounding the site of this country's first commercially drilled oil well. The museum was accepted by Gov. Pinchot, who criticized the "kings of finance" for what he termed their "failure to lead us out of the depression."

STEEL INSTITUTE SETS OUTPUT AT 19.1% OF CAPACITY

New York, Aug. 27.—(AP)—The American Iron and Steel institute estimates steel ingot production during the current week at 19.1 per cent of capacity, a decline of 2.2 points, or 10.3 per cent, from the 21.3 per cent at which steel mills operated last week. A month ago production was at the rate of 26.1 per cent. The current figure is the lowest since the institute began compiling production statistics on a weekly basis last fall.

July exports of iron and steel products from the United States were reported by the department of commerce as 233,186 gross tons, an increase over June but a decline from the peak months of March and May.

For the first seven months of 1934 exports totaled 1,486,360 tons, about two and one-half times the 606,030 in the corresponding period a year ago.

Scrap exports were 155,812 tons, the second largest total ever recorded and exceeded only by the 173,165 ton trade in March. Of the scrap, 101,293 tons went to Japan, which continued as the leading buyer of American iron and steel products with a record total of 104,001 tons in July.

Tin plate exports, 13,960 tons, were smaller than in any of the first three months of 1934 although higher than in any of the second three.

Belgian National Bank Cuts Discount Rate from 3 to 2%

BRUSSELS, Aug. 27.—(AP)—The national bank today reduced the discount rate from 3 to 2 per cent, as a move toward cheaper credit. Louis Franck, governor of the bank, indorsed the government's plans to restore confidence and help industry.

ROADS MAY KEEP REDUCED FARES WITHIN STATES

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission today extended previously granted permission to railroads operating in Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois, Nebraska, and Minnesota to continue charging reduced passenger fare to intrastate destinations. At the same time it granted permission to railroads operating within Alabama to waive the surcharges in sleeping and parlor cars between points in the state of Alabama.

The intrastate passenger rates for the five western states permit charges of three cents per mile for one-way tickets in all classes of equipment, two cents per passenger mile for tickets good in coaches, two cents per passenger mile each way for ten day limit round trip tickets, 2½ cents per mile each way for six months round trip tickets, both of the latter good in all classes of equipment, and 1.8 cents a mile each way for ten day round trip tickets good in coaches only.

DOLLAR RISES; EXPORT OF GOLD NOT PROFITABLE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 27.—Gold exports made at the close of last week had their effect upon the foreign exchange market today when the dollar recovered strongly against the French franc to a level at which the export of gold is no longer profitable. Arrangements for the export of $325,000 more gold to Belgium were made on the basis of exchange transactions completed last week, but for the time being the gold efflux has been interrupted.

The franc fell to 6.67⅛ cents, a drop of 2⅝ points, which was equivalent to a rise in the dollar of 0.35 cents to 99.43 per cent of parity. Sterling cheapened ¾ per cent more to $5.05⅝, although its fall against the franc was reported to have been checked by the control in London. Other important foreign currencies were uniformly lower.

The gold shipment to Belgium arranged today is scheduled to be shipped Wednesday. It will bring the total of gold exports on this movement to $9,108,000, including the first shipments made two weeks ago. Of this amount $7,482,900 has been sent to France and $1,625,100 is consigned to Belgium.

Due to purchases of silver abroad by the treasury, our ordinarily favorable international balance of payments had been turned temporarily into an unfavorable balance. Speculation had aggravated the condition so that the supply of dollars being offered in the foreign exchange market exceeded the demand. The export of gold has served to redress this balance and has also put a damper upon the bearish speculation against the currency.

FORM EXCHANGE IN MONTREAL TO DEAL IN SILVER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 27.—The Montreal Silver exchange has been chartered by the Montreal Stock exchange to provide the only exchange in North America for trading in spot and future contracts of that metal, that stock exchange announced today.

Trading will begin as soon as the necessary formalities have been complied with, it was stated by D. S. McMaster, chairman of the stock exchange. It will be housed in the quarters of the stock exchange in St. Francois Xavier street, Montreal.

Heavy oversubscription of the treasury's latest offering of short term paper was announced yesterday by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau. Applications for $75,000,000 of 182-day bills totaled $299,185,000, of which $75,065,000 was accepted. Bids ranged from 99.90, equal to an annual rate of 0.2 per cent, to 99.886, or .23 per cent. The average bid of the accepted applications was 99.889 and the average rate .22 per cent. The bills are dated Aug. 29, 1934.

STOCKS SAG AS DOLLAR FIRMS, INFLATION DIMS

Last Week's Advance Also Draws Profit Taking.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 27.—Profit taking induced by last week's advance and a further rally by the dollar against foreign exchanges, indicating that the latest inflation squall had passed, militated against the stock market today. Prices receded from fractions to 2 points or so, with gold and silver mining shares leading the retreat.

Filing of the railroads' request for a nation-wide increase in freight rates had little appreciable effect either on the carrier shares or the general market. Brokers thought the application had been sufficiently discounted by strength in the railroad group last week. Another reason suggested was that the petition had disclosed too many unpleasant facts for investors, not the least of them being the disclosure that the increase, if granted, would still fall some 30 per cent short of covering operating costs, bond interest, and other costs.

Selling Follows Announcement.

Atchison and Union Pacific dropped about 2 points each under slow & but persistent selling following the announcement and losses of a point or so were suffered by New York Central, Delaware and Hudson, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Illinois Central, Northern Pacific, and Erie.

In the mining sector Alaska Juneau was under a heavy bombardment of selling orders and gave up more than a point. U. S. Smelting sagged 2 points and McIntyre, Dome, and Howe Sound finished a point or more below their Saturday closing levels. Some of the gold stocks were offered in fairly large blocks throughout the session.

Steel shares eased, partly due to a belief that operations of the big plants of this industry would show no particular improvement for the week. Some of the other industrials came in for rather pronounced selling pressure for no apparent reason. American Can gave up 2 points on a moderate turnover.

Aviation Shares Loiter.

United Aircraft and other aviation issues continued to loiter in the background and the oils adhered to their policy of marking time pending a general move in one direction or the other.

Some diversion was furnished by a flurry of buying in New York traction stocks, due to talk of supposedly growing prospects for unifying the lines. Interborough and Manhattan Brooklyn Transit were both active at better prices, the last named touching a new high. Third Avenue, Manhattan Railway and Brooklyn Queens rose fractions to more than a point on large volume.

MEMBER BANKS' DEPOSITS SHOW LITTLE CHANGE

Loans and Investments Drop $7,000,000.

Deposits of federal reserve member banks were little changed last week. A decline of $19,000,000 in gross deposits was accounted for by a drop of the same amount in the government's war loan account, while a rise of $50,000,000 in individual deposits was canceled by an equal drop in interbank deposits.

The reserve report for the week ended Aug. 22, covering operations in 91 cities, reveals a rise of $1,000,000 in gross deposits at New York and $8,000,000 here, but a loss of $28,000,000 elsewhere.

Individual Deposits Rise.

Individual deposits advanced $57,000,000 in New York, $13,000,000 here and $10,000,000 in the interior. Interbank deposits dropped $47,000,000 in New York, $4,000,000 here, and $29,000,000 elsewhere, while the government drew down $9,000,000 of its funds from New York banks, $1,000,000 here and $9,000,000 in the interior.

Total loans and investments decreased $7,000,000 through a loss of $27,000,000 in New York, which more than offset gains of $2,000,000 here and $18,000,000 in the 89 cities.

Collateral loans contracted $23,000,000, dropping $17,000,000 in New York and $7,000,000 here, and rising $1,000,000 elsewhere. Commercial credit expanded $2,000,000 in New York and $5,000,000 each in Chicago and the interior.

Hold Less U. S. Securities.

Chicago increased its government bond portfolio by $3,000,000, but declines of $3,000,000 in New York and $9,000,000 elsewhere resulted in a net loss of $9,000,000. Holdings of other than government securities gained $13,000,000, rising $21,000,000 in the interior and $1,000,000 here, but dropping $9,000,000 in New York.

TOBACCO PRICES STEADY AT 2½ TIMES LAST YEAR

Observers at Wilson, one of the world's largest markets, estimated today's average price would run slightly less than $28 a hundred for 1,300,000 pounds. This compared with approximately $12 a hundred at this time last year. Common and medium grades were reported in brisk demand.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 27.—A sharp decline in German issues was a feature of a quiet bond market today. All types of Reich obligations were depressed, the government 5½s and 7s dipping well below their previous lows for the year.

The cause of this relapse was plain: Over the week-end bondholders read Mr. Schacht's statement to the effect that his government would not pay the coupons on these two issues.

On the other side of the picture was a strong demand for all South American issues, forcing higher prices in the obligations of Argentina, Brazil, Chile and Uruguay.

Interborough Issues Active.

In domestic corporation issues the outstanding development was a resumption of strong demand for Interborough bonds and notes. The refunding 5s and 6 per cent notes advanced to new highs for the year. The movement was accompanied by further talk about unification, the securities being taken by traders who believe that a plan will be worked out speedily.

There was little of interest in the market for other domestic issues. Treasury bonds were weak during the greater part of the day and closed steady to 11-32 point lower.

High Grades Average Lower.

High grade railroad, utility, and industrial bonds were generally firm early but not at all active.

Second grade and speculative issues were irregular, with small gains and losses about evenly divided.

Turnover in all classes amounted to $8,957,000, of which the federal section accounted for $3,540,000.

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP)—COFFEE—Futures, reflecting the weakness in the dollar rate and lower Brazilian prices, were lower today. The trade sold against actuals. Commission houses and operators bought on the scale down. Santos opened 7 to 5 points lower and closed 5 to 9 points off. Sales 9,000 bags. Prices:

Anaconda Wire and Cable.

Investors' Guide: Do you have earnings on Anaconda Wire and Cable for 1934? Would appreciate other information on the company.—C. F.

Answer: This subsidiary of Anaconda Copper Mining company was formed in February, 1929, to acquire a number of companies engaged in the manufacture of wire and cables.

The company showed a handsome profit in 1929, but after that operating results followed a downward trend until the second quarter of 1933. Operations have since been maintained at favorable levels.

A net income of $612,000, or $1.45 per share, was shown in the first half of 1934, against loss of $450,000 for the first six months of 1933. Loss for the full 1933 year was cut to $214,000 in comparison with loss of $1,045,000 for 1932 (before inventory adjustment of $510,000). In 1931 the company was able to report net income of $19,000 by deducting its inventory loss of $1,115,000 from surplus. Net income in 1930 was $279,000, or 66 cents a share, against net of $1,965,000 for 1929.

Current position at the close of 1933 was satisfactory, with current assets more than three times current liabilities. Capitalization consists solely of 421,981 shares of no par stock on which nothing has been paid since 1931.

Crown Cork and Seal.

Investors' Guide: Will you kindly give me information on Crown Cork 6s?—Mrs. T. E.

Answer: Crown Cork and Seal Company, Inc., benefited greatly from legalization of beer, which stimulated the entire bottle cap and bottle capping machinery industry. Sales in the first half of 1934, totalling $5,619,000, were almost a million dollars greater than in the corresponding 1933 period, and fixed charges were covered 6.85 times, against 4.66 times in the first six months of 1933.

Charges were covered 4.26 times in 1933. In 1932 only 93 per cent of charges was earned. They were earned 3.34 times in 1931, 4.72 in 1930, and 3.73 times in 1929.

On June 30, 1934, current assets were $8,257,000, and current liabilities were $1,626,000. Working capital of $6,631,000 was 50 per cent greater than funded debt of $4,312,000.

The 6s, due 1947, constitute the only funded debt of the company. They are secured by a first mortgage on all assets. The bonds are considered sound.

THIS ANNOUNCEMENT MAY HAVE A CASH VALUE TO YOU OF $1,800 TO $3,250 IN THE NEXT 12 MONTHS— AND $40,000 TO $60,000 IN NEXT 10 YEARS!

This is a negotiable instrument, if you make it such, issued by an aggregation of world-wide corporations dominating their sphere in the electrical unit and machinery field, that you can turn into CASH during the first 12 months of applied effort—without investment—for at least $1,800 and likely $3,250—and within the next 10 years for $40,000 to $60,000, conservatively stating the situation, based on facts gathered as territories have run and are now running from careful records here and internationally.

We have openings for neat, courteous men of business sense, from mid-twenties to fifty years of age, with character references, and living on the North or Northwest Sides and adjacent suburbs. This office clears the business of men who are established in protected territories, but who have no overhead, transacting their business through this office, which today is clearing many thousands of dollars weekly for these dealers.
